

WINNERS PICKED-- State Rep.-elect Danny DeVane of Raeford picks a winner of the raffle held recently by the Hoke County-Raeford Humane Society to raise money for the society's reduced-cost spaying-neutering program for cats and dogs to prevent additions to the county's population of stray animals. Mrs. Sheryl McGinnis, society director, is at right. She said the raffle raised about $150. The holders of the winning tickets drawn by DeVane last week were Mrs. Margaret Dickson of Raeford and Mrs. Catherine Alves of Fayetteville. Mrs. Dickson won a ceramic Christmas tree equipped for lighting, and Mrs. Alves a Bye-Lo baby doll, a replica of a doll that was popular in the 1920s.

Lumbee EMC Fuel Charge Hits 2nd Highest '82 Mark

The fuel adjustment charge on November bills for member-consumers of Lumbee River EMC is $7.41 per thousand kilowatt hours. In October, the charge was $5.38 per thousand.

The fuel adjustment charge is set by Carolina Power and Light and is passed by Lumbee River EMC, adjusted for line loss.

The high so far in 1982 has been $10.56 per thousand in August. The lowest in the past 12 months came in December of 1981 at $2.59 per thousand.

Carolina Telephone Charging Customers For Operator Calls

Carolina Telephone customers who request an operator to place a local call for them will now be charged for that call.

J.L. Holmes, district commercial & marketing manager, said, "The charges, which will vary depending upon the type of call, become effective October 31, 1982. At this time, this type of service is primarily used by persons calling from public pay stations.

"These charges are necessary because the increased number of requests for such services has substantially increased the expense caused by the demand on operators' time. Carolina Telephone has been granted approval by the North Carolina Utilities Commission to charge these rates, which place the cost on the cost causer rather than on all customers," Holmes said.

The three types of calls are:
--Station-to-station customer-dialed local call charged to a Calling Card--$0.30.
--Station-to-station operator-assisted local call -- $0.70.
--Person-to-Person operator-assisted local call -- $1.70.

The service charges do not apply when a caller requests an operator to make a local call to an authorized emergency agency, when the caller is handicapped and cannot dial the call from a non-coin telephone because of the handicap, and when the caller is calling a telephone company office for official telephone business.

Holmes said any customer desiring additional details on these charges should contact the business office at 864-9011.

Frosted Windows Garner Fines

The nip in the morning air brings a reminder from North Carolina State Highway Patrol Commander John T. Jenkins that motorists who fail to remove frost from their car windows not only run the risk of an accident, they also run the risk of a traffic citation.

"North Carolina law requires that the windshield, rear and side windows of a vehicle be free from discoloration which impairs the driver's vision or creates a hazard," Colonel Jenkins said.

"It is extremely dangerous to operate a vehicle with windows covered by frost," Jenkins said.

"Motorists seen trying to drive while peering through a 'peephole' in the frost can expect enforcement action from the Patrol," he said.

Jenkins suggests citizens anticipate frost at this time of year and cover all car windows at night.

Otherwise, they should scrape all frost from car windows before starting out to their destination in the morning.

"It's also a good investment to ensure that the car's cooling system has the right proportion of anti-freeze in it," Jenkins said.

"This may save you from becoming stranded at a busy intersection in the middle of morning rush hour."

You and Your Pet

DRY SKIN MAY BE SYMPTOM OF SEASONAL ALLERGY

Dear Doctor: I'm writing in hopes you can help me with my 7-year old Scotch terrier who is forever scratching himself. He is okay for about an hour and a half after his bath but then he starts scratching and I notice bald spots on his back.

There is no evidence of fleas or other mites in his bath water.

I have used lotions, soaps and shampoos, some prescriptions, but to no avail.

I can see him getting dry skin in the winter but the summer I can't understand.

Answer: It's not unusual at this time of year for a veterinarian to see 10 to 15 cases of seasonal allergies a day, the kind of allergies caused by pollens and other substances in the air that can lead to the kind of dry skin problems your pet is experiencing.

If this is the case, ask your pet's doctor about the advisability of using "blocking" drugs to reduce suffering and promote comfort until the pollen count subsides.

Less common causes of dry skin are internal parasites and hormone imbalance, both of which require investigation by your veterinarian.

Dear Doctor: Can dogs have arthritis when they grow older and will aspirin help?

Answer: The canine population is susceptible to various forms of arthritis and, yes, aspirin is effective and economical. Other products used alone or in combination with aspirin can relieve the aches and pains making the pet more comfortable.

Ask your veterinarian about dosage and follow through faithfully on instructions.

Dear Doctor: My daughter has three dogs, a ferret and a bird. Can you suggest an economical and effective program for flea control?

She is using some kind of bomb to spray inside the house and another chemical outside and a pet care place for grooming when doing this. But it's very expensive and temporary.

Answer: From the number of questions this column has received recently, it is obvious that the flea population explosion is a major irritation throughout the state this season for pets and pet owners.

Ideally, a control program should be started in the spring and continued until frost.

Limiting the pets' outdoor exposure also will help minimize problems and keep costs down.

Once fleas have had a chance to multiply, there is no inexpensive way to control them.

Only an ongoing program of treating the critters on the animal, and in the house, as your daughter is doing, will take care of the problem.
