

Linwood and Helen Huffman are served butter by Harold Gillis.

Some of the diners at the Pancake Supper with one of the volunteer Kiwanis workers in white cap and apron, Hoke County Chamber of Commerce Director Earl Fowler (right) was also a Kiwanis syrup pourer.

Pancakes Give Local Charities Big Hand

The Raeford Kiwanis Club's 1982 Pancake Supper raised over $2,500 for local charities, Dale Teal, chairman of the supper committee, reported Monday.

He said attendance was down at the event, which was held Thursday night in Gibson Cafeteria at Hoke County High School but that the people seemed to enjoy their meals, particularly the sausage which was served with the main course.

Each ticket to the supper cost $3 and the buyers were entitled to get all the pancakes they could eat.

Among the charities which the money is going to are Share Your Christmas, which is to receive $500, the Sandhills Youth Center for its Christmas program, the Hoke County Civic Center, the Boy and Girl Scouts, trainable multihandicapped, Special Olympics and North Carolina Symphony for the program it held here.

Brown Hendrix won the $500 prize in the Raffle but returned $50 of it to the club for charity.

The Pancake Supper is the Kiwanis Club's largest fund-raising event of the year.

Among those assisting with the supper were Detective James Murdock of the Raeford Police Department, with security and the Raffle drawings; and Mrs. Clara Pope, director of Hoke County school food services, who helped set up the supper.

All proceeds from the Pancake Supper and the Raffle will be used to fund Kiwanis Club community service projects and for contributions to other local causes.

Sponsors included Tar Heel Hatchery, Burlington Industries, The News-Journal, Faberge, Kinlaw Jewelry, Dan's Hair Design, and the Raeford Police Department.

The other prize winners besides Hendrix were the following:

The winners of $25 prizes were John Leandro, I.N. Davis of Fayetteville, Jim Williamson, Dovie Leach, Younger Snead, Sr., and Randall Ashburn.

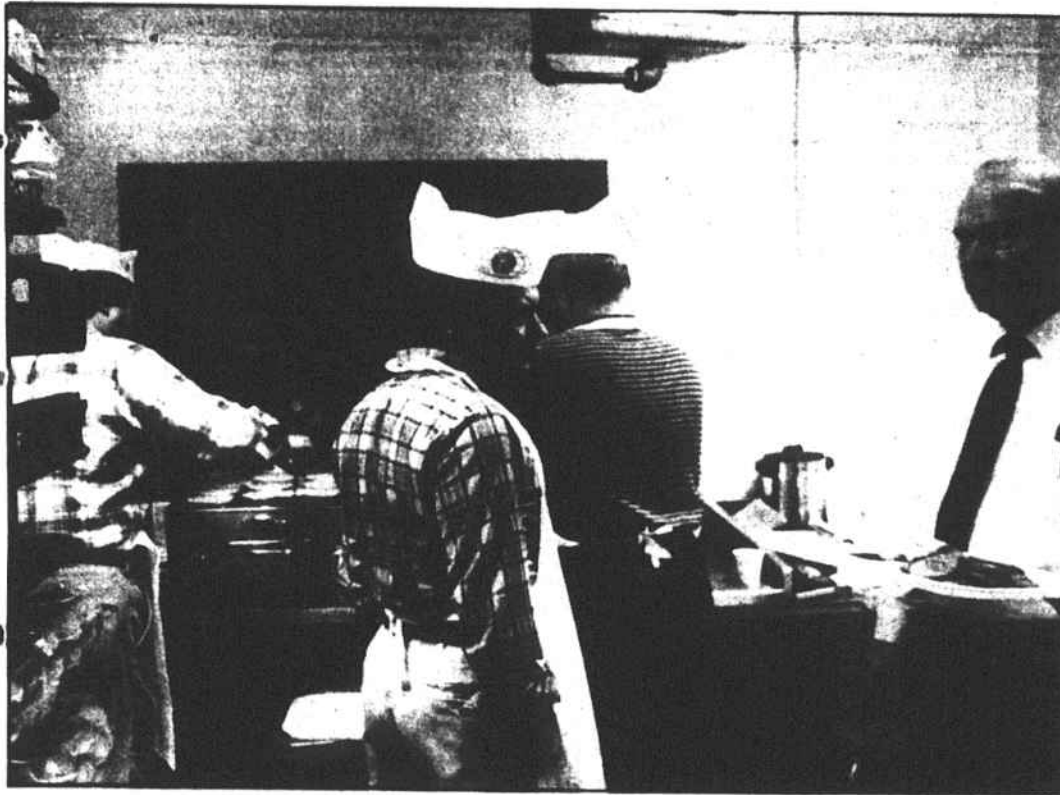

--The winners of Faberge prizes were Buddy Blue, Johnny Plummer, Willard Shell, Mary Chalaire, Dan Monelly, Wayne Byrd and Clyde Leach.

--The 19-inch Television sets were won by Tom Howell and Bill Boyles.

The Burlington Industries fabric prize went to Sally Young, turkeys to Jim Childress and Bill Boyles, one year's subscription to The News-Journal awards to Durant Vick of Raleigh, and Bill Brown.

Dan's Hair Design Sebring Kit to Earl McDuffie, Kinlaw gift certificate to O. Beaudoin.

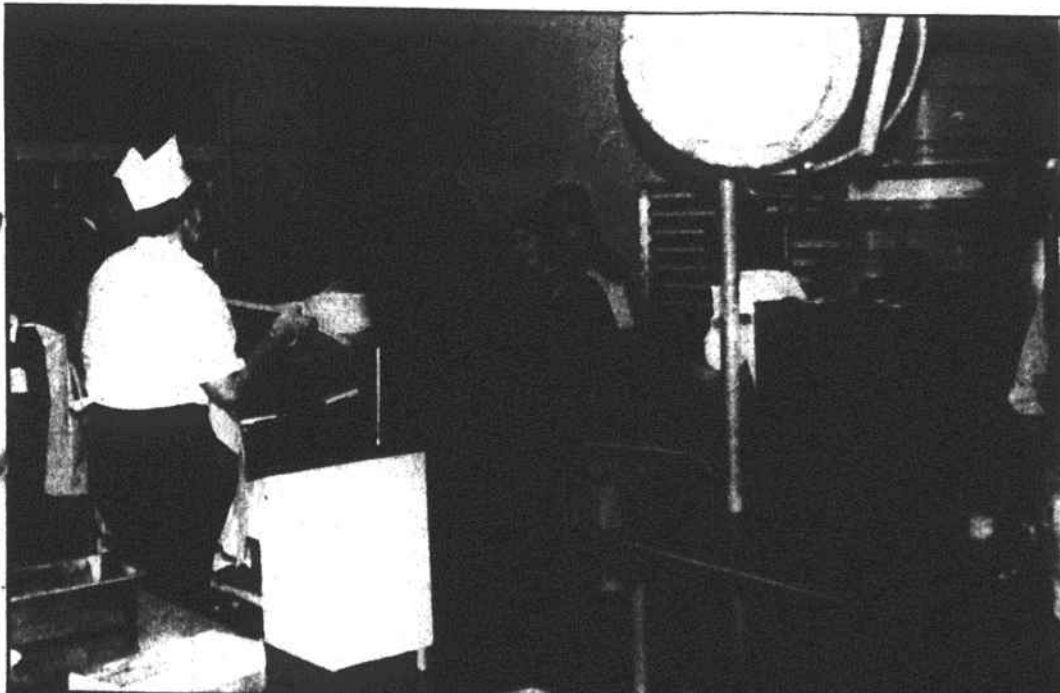

The runnerup Radio Shack computer was won by Neill McDonald.

Volunteer server John Leandro (left) and Jim Attaway, both Kiwanians, talking in a pause in service during the supper, while Bill Niven (right rear) and Warren Pate (left rear) handle hot pancakes on the griddle.

Volunteer cook Ken Witherspoon "creating" pancakes at Kiwanis supper.

Serving line at Pancake Supper. The server in "uniform" is Ron Matthews, Raeford city manager.

Kiwanian Bill Niven helps distribute the loot to raffle winners following the pancake supper. Niven was assisted by Raeford Police Det. James Murdock.