Final RIF party

Scurlock School second grade students were treated to their final RIF party on May 13 in the Scurlock Media Center. The purpose of the Reading Is Fundamental program is to encourage reading among young people. Students from Mrs. Maxine Colston's fourth grade class provided special entertainment for the event. The students gave their own renditions of the books, "Petunia Beware!" and "Where Can An Elephant Hide?". While Cathy Rivenbark told the story of Petunia, the other students used student made paper marionettes to illustrate the story. The puppeteers were Laura Rasmussen, Ed Baker, Tasha Murchison, and Aprille Williams. For the second story, "Where Can An Elephant Hide?", Aprille Williams was the storyteller. Ed Baker dressed in an elephant costume to act out the story. Following the storytelling, each second grade student received from Mrs. Colston the materials necessary to make their own paper marionette of Petunia the goose. Each second grade student then chose a RIF book to take home with them and to read time and time again.

Pointing out the facts of art

J.W. McLauchlin's third and fourth graders enjoyed a day of art Tuesday, May 24. The fourth graders presented "The Four Seasons," a musical journey through the different seasons of the year, while the third graders shown here view an art exhibit displayed by the third and fourth graders of Ms. Martha Warren's class.

Carol Hayes Garners NCAE Scholarship

Carol Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton R. Hayes, is the recipient of the first annual Hoke County NCOE Scholarship.

Miss Hayes was selected for academic achievement, involvement in civic and extra-curricular activities, merit and need. She will receive $100 to use toward furthering her education.

Miss Hayes has been accepted at both Duke University and University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She will major in psychology and literature at whichever school she decides to attend.

The Hoke County North Carolina Association of Educators' Scholarship is given to the child of a teacher who is an active member of the association.

South Hoke Students Visit Planetarium

On Thursday, May 26, Mrs. Sutton's and Mrs. James' second grade classes visited the Planetarium in Lumberton. It was a show full of educational information about space.

The second graders were thrilled as the asteroids shot through space. They were entertained by Mickey Mouse as he told them exciting facts about the solar system.

The students were shown pictures of the planets, moon, stars and more.

After the star show was over, the students saw a Walt Disney film about "Winnie the Pooh." They were also able to see an old one room schoolhouse beside the planetarium.

During the lunch hour the students visited a recreational park and had a picnic.

Turlington Orientation Held For Fourth Graders

An orientation for all fourth graders in Hoke County was held at J.W. Turlington School on June 2.

Students were invited from J.W. McLauchlin, Scurlock, West Hoke, and South Hoke Schools.

This was a first time, and was an attempt to acquaint students with the school they will attend in the fall.

A program was presented which consisted of a welcome by Student Government Association President

Melissa Jackson, introduction to the Principal-Miss Emma Mims and the Assistant Principal - Jack Burgess.

Representatives of each club spoke, and slides of scenes at J.W. Turlington were shown.

A tour of the school ended in the cafeteria where ice cream was served and pencils were given to the students.

There were over 400 students who participated.

Ellisan Speaks To Turlington

Tywanda Ellisan, a sixth grade student at Turlington School, will speak to the fourth grade class on the importance of education, during Awards Day at West Hoke School on Thursday.

Tywanda was a second place winner in a creative writing contest sponsored by Turlington School during this year's Arts Festival.

The Awards Day is another series in the Cultural Enrichment Activity Committee's effort to meet one of the school's continuing objectives - to develop positive self-esteem and attitudes.

Tywanda will be introduced by Julie Cameron.
