West Hoke "Capitalizes" on Reading

West Hoke Elementary is Capitalizing on reading for pleasure and for information. Milton Williams, principal, supports the adage "the more you do something, the better you become at doing it." With this concept in mind, he and Mrs. Rosette Locklear, third grade classroom teacher, launched the Principal's 100 Book Club. Membership in the Principal's 100 Book Club requires students in grades K-1 read a minimum of 50 books and give an oral account of their readings. Students in grades 2-4 must read 100 books and write a brief composition about the books they read. Induction into the Book Club was June 1 in the school's cafeteria. Forty-eight students from K-1 and 21 students in grades 2-3 were inducted and received honors. Ms. Wilkerson, first grade classroom teacher, designed a logo for the Book Club. Colorful t-shirts were embossed with the logo and presented to its 69 inductees. Shown here are the Principal's 100 Book Club members.
