Terpsichorean Ball Is Announced

RALEIGH -- Randolph Luther Worth, President of the Terpsichorean Club of Raleigh, announced today that invitations have been issued to the Fifty-seventh Annual North Carolina Debutante Ball. The event will be held here on September 8th, 9th and 10th. The formal presentation to North Carolina Society of young ladies from across the state will highlight the weekend festivities.

The Terpsichorean Club, comprised of young gentlemen from the Raleigh area, was formed to sponsor an annual statewide Debutante Ball for the presentation of North Carolina's socially prominent young ladies and to honor the first families of the state. It has been given every year since 1923 with the exception of the World War II years.

The young ladies, who will be presented by their fathers, were selected by over 100 nominators located throughout the state. Final approval of the Debutantes is made by Terpsichorean Club members.

The young ladies are chosen based on the family's contribution to the community, their background, social prominence, and the girls' civic, scholastic and social activities. The Leader of the Ball is chosen from Wake County's Debutantes, and fourteen girls from throughout the state are also honored by being named Assistant Leaders.

During the Ball weekend, there will be eight different functions to be attended by the Debutantes, their families and their escorts.

Officers of the Terpsichorean Club, in addition to Mr. Worth, are: Matt H. Nowell, Vice President; Joseph Calhoun Moore III, Secretary-Treasurer; and Charles Lee Smith III, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer.

The Chairman of the 1983 Ball is James Bell Black III who, with his committee, are already at work planning and organizing the traditional event.

Mr. Black is former president of the Terpsichorean Club and has been a member since 1972.
