INDIAN HERITAGE WEEK IN NORTH CAROLINA SEPT. 16-22, 1984

Sept. 16
TOWN CREEK - Almost half a century before Christopher Columbus guided his tiny ships toward the west, the ancient grounds of Town Creek Indian Mound in North Carolina's Uwharrie Mountains resounded with the throbbing live of Native American culture. On Sunday, Sept. 16, the 500-year-old rituals of Indian Heritage will return to Town Creek, as the state historic site in Montgomery County hosts kickoff ceremonies for the statewide celebration of Indian Heritage Week in North Carolina. From 1-5 p.m., Indian dancers, traders and craftsmen will bring to life Native American cultures of yesterday and today. They will represent North Carolina's Indian population, which encompasses five tribes and more than 65,000 people, more than in any state east of the Mississippi River. Town Creek Indian Mound is located in Montgomery County, 5 1/2 miles southeast of Mount Gilead on State Road 1160. Road signs point the way south from N.C. 731 and north from N.C. 73. The site is open to the public, admission free, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday 1-5 p.m. For details about Indian Heritage Week events and other activities, contact the site manager at Town Creek Indian Mound State Historic Site, Route 3, Box 50, Mount Gilead, 27306; telephone 919/439-6802.

Getting the word out
 Mecca Shrine member Jim Attaway straightens a poster on a Raeford utility pole in an effort to get the word out about the upcoming Shrine Fish Fry. The annual event is scheduled for September 15 at the Edinborough Shopping Center. Proceeds benefit crippled and burned children. It's all you can eat for $3.50 and a good cause.

Shrine Fish Fry set for Raeford on September 15

The Mecca Shrine Club's Annual Fish Fry to raise money for the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children and Burns Institutes for Children will be held Saturday, September 15, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. at the Edinborough Shopping Center. Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children - Orthopedic Units and Burns Institutes - constitute the world's greatest philanthropy. They play a vital role in helping children overcome the tragedies of disease or accident so that their lives may be as full as possible. The first Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children opened in 1922. In the next five years, 15 more were established. One more was opened in 1945 and two more in 1952. In the late '60's the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine added the three Shriners Burns Institutes to their network of caring. Shriners Hospitals are open to all crippled or burned children, regardless of race or religion, from infancy to 15 1/2 years old, whose parents are unable to pay for necessary medical care. The closest Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children to residents of North Carolina is the one at Greenville, South Carolina. The closest Burns Institute is in Cincinnati, Ohio, with the other two located in Boston, Mass., and Galveston, Texas.

Highland Games set for Shannon plain on 1st Oct. weekend

The days are getting shorter and the weather cooler, a sure sign that it's time for the annual Flora Macdonald Highland Games. They are being held this year the week-end of October 6th and 7th. Congressman Charlie Rose will be a special guest and speak at the opening ceremonies to be held on Saturday, October 6, at 11 a.m. Two new attractions have been added to the Highland Games this year. A school for prospective Scottish athletes will be held. And on Sunday several colorful hot air balloons will take off from the site of the Games. Beginning on Friday, October 5, and continuing through Sunday, a school for those who wish to learn the Scottish skills of tossing the caber, putting the stone, the hammer throw and others will be held. In this school several professional athletes will teach and work with those who want to learn and compete in these contests. The tuition for the three-day school will be $50. The athletes will compete on Sunday for trophies and medals. Only two other schools of this type have been held in the United States, one at Alexandria, Virginia, and the other at Savannah, Georgia. If anyone is interested in this school, they should contact Ray Ammons at P.O. Box 547, Red Springs, N.C. 28377. Before a take-off about 5 p.m. on Sunday afternoon, the balloonists and their hot air balloons will be on the field for inspection by anyone attending the games. People will have an opportunity to ask questions and see how the balloons are readied for their flight. The gates will open at 9 a.m. on Saturday morning at the site located on the Humphrey farm four miles outside of Red Springs just off Highway 71 in Shannon.
