Students honored in different kind of ceremony

Hoke County High School experienced a new kind of awards program January 24.

During a "drop-in" ceremony, parents and guardians were invited to visit with principals and teachers as their children received their awards.

Tables were set up inside MacDonald Cafeteria for each subject area, and awards were displayed so that parents might view them.

Approximately 600 students in grades 9-12 received either academic or attendance awards for the first semester. Some of the awards included A honor roll, A-B honor roll, highest classroom average and perfect attendance.

The innovative awards ceremony was well attended, according to school officials.

Aaron Purcell receives an award from Hoke High Principal Donna Kennedy.

Parents filled the high school room for Hoke High's first semester awards program.
