LARGEST CIRCULATION.

RALEIGH, APRIL 5, 1894.

Coxey's army is growing dangerously large, and is no longer amusing.

The South Carolina "dispensary law" has one good feature. It discourages emulation in other states.

The trouble with Mr Bland, of silver bill fame, is that he never knows when he is licked.

THE VISITOR'S nominee: For president in '89: Gen Coxey. One plank in the platform: A long march, a strong march, and on to Washington, me boys!

The difference between a babe in arms and a woman trying to do her own housework is that one cries and fusses while the other fries and cusses.

A Kentucky judge has decided that a man who gives up his business to court a girl in behalf of another man gets his pay as he goes along and cannot sue for compensation in money.

There are 5,000 men, including painters, bricklayers, machinists, iron, steel and brass workers on a strike in Chicago on account of reduction in wages.

Advertising was an art much practiced among the Romans. They had no newspapers, but the stone and wax tablet served every purpose and was extensively used in Rome and the vicinity. It was a necessary adjunct to profitable business then, as it is now.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

North Carolina Delegation Stirred Up.

The North Carolina delegation at Washington has been stirred up over an alleged ruling of the attorney general that the district attorney shall pray judgment in every case of violation of the law, whether technical or not. District attorney Glenn was at the department Monday on the matter, and there was a consultation of the N C Tuesday night. The members present at the consultation were Messrs Ransom, Alexander, Branch, Bower, Henderson and Woodard. Nothing was done, but it is understood, that the only trouble is with the treasury department. A representative says the matter is all right; that the whole thing is in the hands of the judge and the district attorney and that the lenient law of the state will apply.

BRECKINRIDGE'S SELF-CONVICTION.

God May Forgive Him, Says Mr Dixon, But the Nation Will Not.

New York Times.

The Rev Thomas Dixon spoke in the prelude to his sermon in Association Hall yesterday on the Breckinridge case. He said that it was an object lesson in purity in public life.

"Waiving all possible questions of law that may be raised," he said, "the fact remains that it is man is, by the revelations of his own lips, absolutely condemned. He stands convicted before the bar of a nation's conscience. While God will forgive a man who publicly violates the moral law, the public will not forgive him. Why? Because he strikes through his public office at the home life itself.

"This man has humiliated the state he belongs to, and he has also humiliated the nation. He will not be forgiven by his nation because the standard of public morality is higher now than it ever was before. As the world grows in progress and in Christianity, the standard of morality is elevated.

"Christian sentiment is the power that guides the civilization of the nineteenth century. No nation can make war without a casus belli. When John J Ingalls, in his famous interview, sneered at the Mosaic law and the Ten Commandments, he sealed his political death warrant. No man in this century has violated publicly the moral law and survived. A man who was the uncrowned King of a nation broke that law and fell from his high position. The fall of Charles Stewart Parnell was one of the greatest in the history of the world. The way of the transgressor is hard, and I thank God that no man even the greatest statesman, and even violate public morals without suffering the just penalty."

TO THE DEATH.

Detroit Free Press.

A Woodward avenue car stopped at Daffield street to let a lady wearing a spring hat alight. At the same moment a lady wearing her winter hat wanted to take the same car. They met face to face on the lower step. They were strangers. The one with the spring hat had the right of way, and she tossed her head in a defiant manner. Winter hat felt that the odds were against her, but she braced up and looked the other square in the eye and refused to give away.

"All out!" shouted the conductor on reaching for the bell rope, but spring hat would not retreat.

"All aboard!" But spring hat glared at winter hat, and the end of her nose was elevated a bit. Winter hat returned the glare, and her pug nose tried the same dodge, but couldn't elevate.

"Ladies, don't detain the car," cried the conductor, and his words encouraged winter hat to renewed exertions. She pulled herself on the step, crowded spring hat against the side of the car and entered the door with a smile of triumph on her face. The other stepped off, gave her skirts a shake and her head a toss and walked away, but despite her dignity and defiance the conductor looked after her and said:

"Finest spring hat on this whole line, but the lady inside takes the gate receipts."

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Thos. Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else; they bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in cough and colds. Free trial bottle at John Y. MacRae's drugstore. Regular size 70c and $1.

A New York jury has decided in the case against Russell Sage that a man ought to get $25,000 for being held between Sage and an exploding dynamite bomb. Sage was glad enough when in danger to make the man his breastwork, but he won't pay the money as long as there remains a higher court to appeal to.

Juror Sent to Jail for Talking.

In the US district court at Lynchburg Monday, Judge Paul presiding, the verdict for $3,000 damages in the case of Ewers vs the Lynchburg street railway company for killing the little daughter of the plaintiff was set aside on the ground that one of the jurors had talked to outsiders pending the trial. The juror, A O Chewing, was hauled up by Judge Paul, and severely reprimanded, after which he was fined $20 and sent to jail for ten days.
