

SWEET SIXTEEN.

SAMUEL MINTURN PECK.

The starlight through the lattice vine
Fell slanting on her brow,
The roses white with dew a-shine
Swayed on the wind-rocked bough.

Just sixteen years of joys and fears—
Just sixteen years hath she,
But her eyes are blue,
And her heart is true,

The rose-tree hid the stars from me
But I could watch her eyes;
They shone like stars upon the sea
Soft mirrored from the skies.

Just sixteen years of joys and fears,—
Just sixteen years hath she,
But her faith is sure
And her soul is pure,

A silence fell; it seemed a spell
Had fallen on my sweet;
I saw her quivering bosom swell,
I heard my heart a-beat

Just sixteen years of smiles and tears—
Just sixteen years hath she
But the wedding chimes
Will ring betimes
For my little bride to be.

Eloped With Commonwealers.

A Runnels, Ia., special to the New York World says:

Kelly joined his Commonwealers here this afternoon, bringing the commissary boats with him. He found the men discontented and surly, but they were soon put in a better humor by the issue of rations and a little "jollyng."

This morning a wild eyed man passed here in a skiff. He carried a shot gun, and was seeking for "a little woman with brown hair and blue eyes, and about thirty years old."

Tonight two Des Moines men stepped from the Wabash south bound train long enough to inquire for their wives.

Kelly spoke in the town hall here tonight to about four hundred people, and took up a collection which netted about $350. Mrs Harper and Miss Houton, of Council Bluffs, occupied seats on the platform with Kelly.

Kelly telegraphed ahead to the sheriffs and other officers to take charge of all women traveling with his men. Only one woman is now known to be with the army aside from those who travel in Kelly's boat.
