Quite Becoming.

The Raleigh Evening Visitor has a new spring dress. It looks "quite becoming" in its new costume.—Concord Standard.

Leads,

Frost Today.

There was frost at Millburne and no doubt at many other points in this section this morning. West of here, at Hillsboro, Greensboro and other points there was plenty of frost. In the mountain region there was frost and ice. At the state central weather station here the temperature this morning was 46 degrees. That is the lowest on record in June, in 8 years past. June 2, 1889, it was as low as 49 degrees. Last night was the coldest since April. Overcoats and fires were quite comfortable.

Protect the Dumb Brutes.

A number of gentlemen met in the mayor's office last evening and organized a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Mr. S. D. Wait was called to the chair and Mr. Robert L. Burkhead was made secretary. A good many names were enrolled as members of the organization. Next week the society will be regularly organized. It is needed here just as it is in all cities and towns, and people who wish to see dumb brutes properly and kindly treated ought either to join or support it. Years ago there was a society here, but it ceased to exist. This time it is here to stay. The Visitor will be pleased to aid it in its noble work in all possible ways.

The Weather Report.

An area of low pressure is moving off the north Atlantic coast. A large area of high pressure is moving off the Atlantic coast. A large area of high pressure in the west is the ruling feature this morning. It is causing fair, cool weather over the greater part of the country east of the Rockies. Rain is occurring in the northeastern states and in Texas. The weather is very cool nearly everywhere. There is a small district in the northwest where the temperature has risen several degrees, but it has fallen in the southern and middle states. Cool weather will probably continue for a day or two.

For North Carolina: Fair. Probably warmer Saturday afternoon. Local forecast: Fair Saturday. Continued cool. Local data for 24 hours ending 8 a. m. today: Maximum temperature 72; Minimum temperature 46; rainfall a trace.

Jarvis on Congress.

Senator Jarvis is not at all pleased with the doing of congress, but is a new man at the bellows and does not want to blow too hard for fear of burning the irons he has in the fire. He said to a Charlotte News reporter: "The slowness with which congress moves in ridiculous and inexcusable. The country has a right to be disgusted, but we will yet try to bring the thing around all right. That kind of business would not be tolerated in North Carolina, and perhaps in no southern state, but in Washington it is a custom to allow a man to make a fool and gasbag of himself nearly as long as he wants to and in his own way, and there is no known method of butting the bull off the track."

To Wilmington Next Tuesday.

The excursion train of the Baptist tabernacle to Wilmington, June 5th, via the Richmond and Danville and Atlantic Coast Line, will make the run each way in four hours. The train will leave here at 6:15 a. m. and arrive at Goldsboro at 7:50 a. m., leaving at 8 a. m. and arrive at Wilmington at 10:10 a. m. Returning, the train will leave Wilmington at 6 p. m., arriving at Goldsboro at 8:10 a. m. and leaves at 8:30 p. m., arriving at Raleigh at 9:55 p. m. Three extra coaches will be put on at Raleigh to accommodate the large number of persons who will take advantage of this route. The train will be run in two sections if necessary, so that there may be no delay in the schedule. The schedule will give two hours longer in Wilmington and bring the excursionists home two hours earlier.

The largest man in congress is from Kentucky. And this leads the Philadelphia Press to remark that "the smallest man in Kentucky is also in congress." How cruel.

THE CITY FINANCES.

Mr. Denton Replies Personally to an Attack.

Correspondence of the Visitor. Regarding a communication in the Evening Press of Raleigh, signed "Economist," I wish to state a few facts and do so over my own name, as I do not purpose hiding behind a screen or a petticoat.

The bonded debt of Raleigh is about $205,000. The assessed valuation of property is about $4,800,000. The taxes per $100 are $1.23 1-3; the outside taxes for state and county amount to 86 2-3 cents, including a special township tax of 25 cents, making altogether $2.10 per $100. Before the bonds were issued eight years ago the city taxes amounted to $1.33 1-3, or 10 cents more than at present.

Asheville with less population and a taxable valuation of $5,200,000 has a debt of $535,000, and does not seem to be groaning under a debt of more than twice as much as Raleigh, as will be observed from the following taken from the News-Observer-Chronicle of this date:

"We hear that real estate is in demand at Asheville, and prices are advancing. Within the past sixty days over $40,000 worth has been sold, principally to northern and western purchasers. Among these is congressman Brookshire, of Indiana, who has secured a beautiful winter residence in the suburbs of Asheville."

Charlotte also with less population has a greater indebtedness and larger taxation, about $2.30 per hundred. Wilmington with a greater population imposes a tax of $3.00 per hundred. No one doubts that these are live, flourishing towns notwithstanding the debts incurred these debts in order to make themselves more beautiful and healthy.

Still croakers like "Economist" are scared over the prospected bankruptcy of Raleigh, the capital city of the state, because of a proposition to allow the citizens to say whether they will go in debt the further sum of $50,000. It may be pointed out that the whole state, including all other towns, have contributed handsomely towards the beautifying of Raleigh by giving it a capitol, penitentiary, several asylums and other public buildings, which institutions bring money into the city and thereby increase the value of real estate.

The present cost of keeping the streets in repair amounts to eight or ten thousand dollars per year and this is chiefly spent on streets which have no permanent improvements. The spending of $50,000 more on permanent improvements will save enough to pay the interest on the bonds and may again result in lessening the taxes.

The five members of the board who are surreptitiously slandered by the "grappler of financial matters," did not see fit to deprive the people of their privilege to say whether or not they wanted the bonds issued, but "Economist" is exclusively like his own Irish citizen—he is "agin" bond issue and the people's rights.

Was he aware of the purpose he now declares that these five aldermen were selected to perform when they were so selected. If so, did he vote for any of them or even denounce them as an honest man should have done? These men in part represent four out of five wards in the city. Or is it only since some of his own pets failed to get a job that he has become so solicitous of the city's welfare that he must needs cast slurs upon honorable men. A majority of the whole board would have voted favorably to leaving the question to the people, had they been present.

"Economist" seems to say the taxpayers ought not to permit the board to handle the money. This displays a keen insight into the crevices of the carbuacles that infest him, and it perhaps refreshes so prodigious a person when he reads the windings in of his own thoughts and the terrific ringing out of somebody else's promptings.

Will "Economist" tell me which of the aldermen were specially selected to grapple with enormous financial problems, or is he satisfied to rest his case on his own assertion over a name's name unsupported by any statistics and based upon no facts?

Round the corner personal attacks under assumed names are far more contemptible than straight goods. R. S. DENTON, Alderman Second ward.
