The state papers have recently had a good deal to say about confederate monuments. In 1867 the legislature appropriated $1,500 for a monument to the confederate dead in Oakwood cemetery. The monument is of white marble, about fifteen feet in height, and of the very simplest design, without the least pretence to artistic elegance. On it is an original verse by the late George W. Whiting, of this city.

The old warehouse and salesroom of Mr. Frank Stronach on South Wilmington street has been torn down, all save the office, which will be moved further down the block, so he can use it until his new carriage repository and sales stable is finished. Today's Charlotte Observer says that returning members of the Sharpshooters commission say they definitely located the places where eight regiments of North Carolina troops were engaged, found an old church and a chestnut fence still standing, and saw where farmers ploughed up old cannon and rifle balls, some of the latter having been secured as souvenirs by the party. Most of the party were at Gattysburg yesterday.

A Boy's Composition.

It is a pleasure to print the following composition, written by a 7-year-old pupil of one of the white public schools here, the subject being "One of my Teachers." "She is not much larger than a twelve-year-old boy, but has more sense, you bet. She wears gold spectacles and looks through them like a judge. She can remember dates like a book and knows more about history and geography than than anybody of her age you ever saw. She is about twenty-two years of age and she can puzzle you like a lawyer. She believes in woman suffrage and declares that she expects to vote before she dies. She has a sharp temper but I like her almost as well as Mrs. —. She and another one of the teachers get together and try to cook and sometimes burn their hands when they boil milk to make chocolate. She wishes she was a man and is very often talking about what she would do if she were a man. I believe if she was a man she wouldn't do any more than the generality of men."

Mr. Greek O. Andrews will present the Wiley Gray medal commencement day at Trinity college. The medal was established 14 years ago by R. T. Gray, Esq., in memory of his brother. A Startling Explosion.

Today at 12.30 Charles Hackney, colored, aged 12, and another colored boy were at the west side of MacRae's drugstore. On the sidewalk were three empty barrels. In the bung hole of one of the barrels the other darker dropped a lighted match, while Charles looked to see what would happen. Druggist MacRae said the barrel had contained spirits of turpentine. Charles and his companion must have thought the contents were nitro-glycerine, for it went off with a startling explosion. The head of the barrel was blown out with force and struck Charles on the forehead, cutting a gash two inches long. The other boy ran like a deer. His hair was badly scorched as was also that of Charles. A physician repaired the damages of the boy's head. A great crowd gathered at the scene of the explosion.

THE ALDERMEN

Recall the Call for the Bond Election.

The regular session of the board was held last evening. Mrs. L. T. Grissom having declined to accept $250 allowed for damages to her property by the extension of West North street, the street committee was instructed to open the street. A sewer extension was ordered on Hunter street in rear of Shaw university, and that institution is to connect with it.

The feature of the session was a motion by alderman Charles E. Johnson that the board reverse its action of May 11th, in ordering an election and new registration of voters on the question of the issue of $50,000 of bonds for street improvements. Alderman Stronach called for the yeas and nays. The call was sustained and Mr. Johnson's motion was adopted, yeas, Bowes, Grimes, Johnson, C. E. Lee, Lewis, Parker, Robinson, Terrell, and Womble 9; nays, Correll, Denton and Stronach, 3. It was ordered that all the receipts at the bathing pool at Pullen park be expended in improving it. The keeper of the park was allowed an assistant during June and July. The matter of the early extinguishment of the street lights was called to the attention of the light committee. Licenses were ordered to be reissued for six months from July 1st to January 1st to all holders of licenses. The matter of a present from the city to the cruiser "Raleigh" was referred to a special committee of five, one from each ward, with mayor Badger as chairman ex-officio. W. N. Jones, representative of the Jephtha Horton estate, submitted a proposition looking to the opening of Harrington, Dawson and McDowell streets from West North street to the city limits. T. P. Devereux spoke on the subject of the opening of these streets through the Cameron property and said when such extension reached the city limits it would be continued through the Devereux land. The proposition was referred to the street committee to ascertain what land will be donated, the cost, etc., of the extension of the three streets named, to be reported to the July meeting of the board. The city tax collector submitted a report of the sale of property for taxes, all of which it was shown had been bid in by the city except one lot. The report was approved.
