Oh! That Cos ume of Hers
Show me a lady who does not enjoy admiration, and I will see a hopeless freak. Hence ladies have excellent taste, they study the art of dress, and they have it now to a scientific nicety. So the merchant who is a success has to get his selections down to scientific nicety, or his selections will lie on his shelves till the moths walk off with them. Now, ladies, we want to state this: In Swindell's department store, the dress goods sales have not only doubled and tripled, but ten-fold is the rate of increase in two years. Where we used to sell one dress, now we are selling ten dresses and trimmings all complete. Now let me ask all who read this: If this statement is true, what does it mean? Get collars, cuffs, scarfs and ties from Swindell's department store.

The Love of a Bonnet
Every lady is especially particular to get style in a bonnet or hat. Nothing so enhances the beauty of any lady as a pretty, catchy hat—one that is just the complete thing. At the same time the ladies of this age have an eye to price as well as style. Hence it is that the millinery department at Swindell's department store is so thoroughly crowded all the time. You get style and quality and the price is right. Our prices are popular. Then our milliners take great pride and pleasure in assisting an undecided customer in getting just what will become her. Our milliner can improve an ugly woman, much less you. Try Swindell's department store for a dress and trimmings.

The Trinity college correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says Bibles were presented to the graduating class by Rev. D. H. Tuttle, of Raleigh. Mr. Tuttle made an excellent talk and as he presented the last Bible to his brother who was a member of the class, the scene was very touching. The Wiley Gray medal for oratory was given to Mr. R. J. G. Tuttle, the first speaker of the day, and was presented by Mr. Greek O. Andrews, who made the best presentation speech heard for many years. Mr. Tuttle's speech was without doubt the strongest one delivered and he well deserved the prize.

RALEIGH AND DURHAM
Telephone Wires Now Bind Them Together.

A Visitor reporter called at the telephone exchange this afternoon and had a chat over the wire with editor John W. Jenkins, of the Durham Globe. In response to the usual question, "What's the news?" editor Jenkins said: "The piemenade concert at Trinity college last evening was a delightful affair and fittingly ended the most brilliant commencement Trinity has ever had. The board of trustees of Trinity will meet within a month to elect a new president."

The conversation was as easily carried on as it is over the city wires, and the reporter was surprised and delighted with the ease with which long distance conversation can be carried on. The line was constructed by the American Bell telephone company and is strung on the Western Union poles. At present the telephone may be tried free of charge, but in a few days a charge of 25 cents will be made for a five-minute talk. The enterprise certainly deserves success and should be given the liberal patronage of the citizens of both places. Although conversation over the line is now very plain indeed, it is understood that in a few days it will be plainer still, as the long distance instruments have not yet been put in.

The Doll Party.

The doll party to be held this evening in the Edenton street M. E. Sunday school will eclipse any thing of the kind ever before seen by the people of Raleigh. All classes of dolls will be represented—the finest French dolls, the bisque doll, the rubber doll, the Japanese and Chinese doll, even the Ethiopian doll, will be present in all his glory, and last, but not least, will be the rag doll and the paper doll. The "Brownies" also are on the list and they will hold high carnival. The programme of music, recitations, etc., is very elaborate and is a treat in itself. Refreshments will be served at a moderate cost. A pleasant evening is assured those who attend. Admission 10 cents.

Market House Notes.

Imitation is the Sincerest Flattery.

The Telegraph Age says: The Postal telegraph-cable company has just issued a circular calling the public's attention to the fact that its circular of July, 1893, was imitated and copied by the Western Union telegraph company, and issued in March, 1892. The general style and make-up of the two circulars are identical, and the Postal company heads its circular with the sentence: "Imitation is the sincerest flattery." The circular concludes with the following query: "When our competitors make claims of fast service and low rates do you ever compare the present efficiency of the telegraph service with what it was before the 'Postal' started?"

MADE A PROFIT ON THE GOLD.
A Speaker Springs a Sensation at Washington.

An industrial meeting advertised to be held at Washington was but poorly attended, says the Washington Post. Representative Hudson, of Kansas, was there and the discussion took a turn not anticipated by the projectors of the affair. The sensation of the evening occurred when one of the speakers said that May 31 he was paid treasury notes in the cash room of the treasury department, which he took to a window and exchanged for gold coin to the amount of $100. This gold he took to a bank and sold for its face in paper money and 4 cents on the dollar in addition. This caused considerable surprise, and representative Hudson questioned its authenticity, but being assured of the reliability of the speaker, said: "Well, that means that something is wrong." The speaker acknowledged that he had told something which he hoped would not get into the papers, for he was in the public service. He refused to give his name or that of the bank for that reason.

CURIOUS HAILSTONES.

In Central America They Sometimes Contain Toads and Pebbles.

A gentleman connected with the national museum at San Jose, Costa Rica, tells a graphic story of a wonderful hailstorm which recently visited the southwest coast of that Central American republic. The cloud was blacker than the proverbial "Egyptian darkness." All of a sudden there was a terrible roaring and splashing in the bay near the camp. The only thing it could be compared with would be a shower of bricks and cobblestones falling into the ocean. They took shelter in an immense hollow tree. It was not a hailstorm—it was an awful precipitation of thousands of tons of ice from the clouds. Some lumps were not larger than one's fists, but the majority were larger than full-sized bricks, and one which buried itself in the sand on the beach was a jagged mass of ice weighing 23 lbs. an hour and a half after the storm cloud had passed. It seemed as if the cloud had been frozen solid to a depth of about six or eight inches and then suddenly knocked to pieces and thrown to the earth. But few of the ice chunks bore the least resemblance to ordinary hailstones: all were jagged and irregular form, the majority of the pieces containing some foreign substance, such as a ball of earth, wads of rotten leaves, sand, fish and frog spawn, &c. The head of a dead sunfish was found in one piece, and a half a dozen or a dozen of the ice slabs gathered up and put into a water jar yielded two live and one dead frog, a mass of kelp or seaweed, three small pebbles, a seashell and some queer black seeds about the size of buckshot.

A Physician's Statement.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 15, 1894.
To the public:

A report is being circulated that June is not a healthy and enjoyable month to spend at Morehead City. This is a mistake. I have been resident physician at the Atlantic hotel, Morehead City, for several years, and I take pleasure in saying that such report is erroneous. The month of June is as healthy and agreeable as any of the summer months.
