GROSS OUT.

Adjutant General of Colorado Feathered.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 23.—Shortly after midnight adjutant general Tarsney, of Colorado state national guard, was called from his room at the Alamo hotel and informed that somebody at Cripple Creek wished to speak to him over the telephone. When he appeared to answer the call he was confronted by a masked man armed with revolvers, who requested him to accompany him. Tarsney called for help quickly, but was clubbed into submission. Several more kidnapers appeared and carried him to the sidewalk where two carriages, under guard, were in waiting. He was forced into one of the carriages and both carriages then driven at a rapid rate to Austin Bluffs. Tarsney was removed from the carriage and stripped nude and a coat of tar and feathers quickly administered. After the tar and feathering Tarsney was warned against returning to the springs.

Gov. Waite is greatly excited over the outrage committed upon adjutant general Tarsney and has offered a reward of one thousand dollars for the arrest and conviction of any of the participants.

Tarsney is a brother of congressman Tarsney, of Missouri, and ex-congressman Tarsney, of Michigan.

Governor Waite ordered a special train to leave Denver for Colorado Springs at 11 o'clock. It is believed he intends to go to the springs in person to assist in the hunt for Gen. Tarsney, and the men who kidnaped him.

Miss Goodwin, of Boston, Mass., sang with the Edenton street church choir yesterday, both morning and evening.

Bishop Fitzgerald left this afternoon. He has made many friends and admirers during his stay here and Raleigh will always be glad to welcome him again.

Mr. L. A. Coulter, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will arrive next Wednesday and lecture in the evening at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The public is invited to attend.

Mr. J. H. Cutler arrived this morning, in company with Mr. Badger, of the railway department of the General electric company, with the view of looking over the line preparatory to speedily commencing work on the road.

Head Nurse at Rex Hospital.

Miss Mary L. Wyche, of Chapel Hill, has been elected by the board of trustees head nurse of Rex hospital. Miss Wyche is well fitted for the place, having graduated at the Philadelphia hospital training school and having taken other special courses, among them a course in invalid cooking at the Drexel institute. She is well known in Raleigh as an estimable young lady.

This Should be Stopped.

Several days ago the Visitor sent a reporter to the extreme southern part of town to investigate complaints which had been made in regard to the dumping of night soil in the field to the left of the Fayetteville road, and in regard to the bad sanitary condition of what is known as Holman's pond.

He investigated the matter thoroughly and found great cause for complaint. An investigation was also made by the city health officer and he promised to have the matter attended to. The evil effects of the pond were remedied by its being refilled with water. The foul smelling dump piles were also sprinkled with lime and the city carts ceased hauling. Very good; but for how long did they stop? For two days. Today complaint was again made at the office that the carts had commenced hauling the city night soil and refuse and the dumps, which the people, who dwell in that part of the city, think are the cause of so much sickness, were growing alarmingly.

This should be stopped, the lives and health of the people should not be thus endangered. THE VISITOR has referred to the matter several times before, and it intends to call attention to it as long as there are the slightest grounds for complaint.

The Weather Report.

For North Carolina: Fair. Local forecast for Raleigh and vicinity:

Generally fair Tuesday, with conditions slightly favorable for thunderstorm this afternoon or tomorrow, afternoon.

Local data for 24 hours ending 8 a. m. today:

Maximum temperature 93; Minimum temperature 73; rainfall 0.00.

The pressure continues high over the eastern part of the country and low in the west. Local rains have occurred at many places. The weather is generally cloudy this morning, with southerly winds. The temperature is high everywhere except in the extreme northeast and northwest, where it is moderately warm.

He Will Hang.

The governor has refused to commute the sentence of Dick Broadnax, sentenced to be hanged in Caswell county on the 6th of July. His crime was outrage upon the person of a young girl, and he must now pay the full penalty of the law.

Died.

Miss Blanche Haartsfeld, of Wyatt's, died at her home yesterday after an illness of several weeks. For some time she held a position with the firm of Messrs. W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co. She was an estimable young lady and her untimely death is greatly regretted by all who knew her.

Mayor's Court

Business was lively at the mayor's office this morning. Three notorious characters from the "Bowery," for being drunk and disorderly were given 30 days on public works. Chas. Howard, disorderly conduct, was given 30 days on the streets and James Mitchell, a colored youth, was presented with 30 days on the public roads for assault and battery.

A Sudden Death.

A young man, named Rogers, who lives near Tipplers' cross roads, near Raleigh, dropped dead yesterday afternoon at 7 o'clock.

He was standing in the door of the R. & G. relief association reading room, apparently in good health, when he suddenly fell to the floor and died in a few moments. The cause of his death was said to be heart trouble.

Greensboro a Dry Town.

The aldermen of Greensboro, Friday night, voted that city dry. It seems that they passed an ordinance compelling all bars to front on Main street. Mr. B. J. Fisher has a bar in the rear of the Benbow house and the manager of the hotel refused to move the bar to the front. The aldermen got mad and refused to grant anybody license the vote standing 8 to 4. The law goes into effect July 2.

Bishop Fitzgerald Yesterday.

Bishop Fitzgerald preached two excellent sermons at the Edenton street Methodist church yesterday.

The morning sermon was especially intended for the ladies of the woman's missionary society. The bishop took as his text a clause in the Lord's prayer, "Thy kingdom come." He treated the great idea of the unity of churches in a very clear and able manner, and his sermon fairly bubbled over with humor.

The text for the evening sermon was, "Thy will be done." It was an excellently delivered sermon and the attention of the audience was held to the end, as it was during the morning services.

After the service communion was held, bishop Fitzgerald officiating.

Miss Wimberly Still Improving.

Miss Iana Wimberly, the victim of John Mills is still improving and it is now thought that she has a fair chance of recovery. Her vitality is wonderful, as her skull was fractured in three different places; the mere fact of lying exposed in an old house, wounded as she was, would have killed most women, or men either, for that matter.

If she recovers, as is now probable, John Mills may well rejoice, for in that case he will have committed no capital crime.

Come what may, his punishment should be as severe as the law allows, and if he escapes the gallows it will be by a hair's breadth.

It is to be hoped that Miss Wimberly may recover in time to add her direct testimony to the circumstantial chain that has been woven about her assailant, and that it will put John Mills in a place of safe keeping from which he can never return to assault and outrage innocent women.

It has been learned that Miss Wimberly is so far improved that she was able to speak a few rational words.

Of course she is not yet sufficiently recovered to be questioned in regard to the crime.

Will the Governor Pardon Her?

"The Greensboro Record says: We hope that governor Carr will carefully consider and grant a pardon to Miss Lou Parrish, the sixteen year old girl, sent to the penitentiary from Henderson county for fatally stabbing her sweetheart, Will Johnson, for making slanderous remarks about her character." The girl who has the pluck and nerve to resent such insults should be applauded, and the man, young or old, who attempts to ruin an innocent girl's good name by lying and slanderous talk, should have his polluted tongue silenced by death, and that at the first opportunity and without ceremony. Miss Lou Parrish should be pardoned."

CONGRESSMAN CONN.

An Interesting Sketch of the Man Who has Bought a Washington Daily.

Representative Conn, of Elkhart, Ind., has purchased the Washington Times, a paper that was started here a few months ago by members of the typographical union, but has made very little headway. After being assessed $5 or $10 every week for several months to make up deficiencies the stockholders got weary of their enterprise, and at their last meeting decided to sell out, whereupon Mr. Conn, who is a millionaire and already owns several newspapers in northern Indiana, agreed to take the burden right off their hands, pay an appraised price for the plant and settle all the debts of the concern.

Mr. Conn is a notable and eccentric character, and his history is a romance. A few years ago he had a bench in the corner of a jewelry store in Elkhart, where he mended watches, clocks and musical instruments. One day while repairing a tuba an idea occurred to him that was worth several million dollars and resulted in the invention of a rubber mouthpiece for musical wind instruments, which was patented and immediately adopted all over the world.

This lucky little hit made Mr. Conn's fortune. At Elkhart he established one of the largest factories in the world for the manufacture of brass and silver musical instruments, which is run on the co-operative plan, and the profits are divided between himself and his employees. He has been mayor of the town several times and can come to congress from his district as long as he likes. He believes in organized labor and stands half way between the democratic and populist parties. He is against the administration, particularly its silver policy, and his object in buying the paper is to establish here an organ to express the sentiments of those who believe in silver money. It is said, too, that he intends to make a very lively paper, something in the sensational line, which will be a new thing in Washington.—Washington Letter.

ONE EYE DROPPED OUT.

The Other Fell Back in the Socket—Effect of Lightning.

During the severe electrical storm which did so much damage in this vicinity on Tuesday, Mrs. Margaret Wiley, aged fifty years, of 60 West Fourteenth street, lost both eyes, says a Patterson, N. J., telegram. A few minutes before the storm, she was sitting in the yard of her son-in-law's home, where she lives, eating cherries and enjoying the cool breezes that preceded the coldburst. She was suddenly started by a streak of lightning, which, she said, seemed to dart into the ground before her. It was followed almost simultaneously by a loud thunder clap, and the old woman, pale and badly frightened stumbled into the house. She dropped into her easy chair, remarking to her daughter what a narrow escape she had, and called Mrs. Dodd's attention to her trembling hands. As she held them up to look at them herself, one of her eyes fell out into her lap. The other eye fell back into its socket and appeared to be lost in her head.

Dr. John H. Banta, a Mrs. Wiley's physician, says she has been afflicted with tumor of the nose, and that the fright snapped the muscles of the eyes and the balls became dislodged. The eyeball that fell back into her head is coming back in its place, and today it can partly be seen through the small opening of the eyelids. Mrs. Wiley says she can still see a trifle. She experiences some pain in the empty socket.
