HINTS TO BUSINESS MEN!

Good advertising consists in the selection of a few strong, quick sell specialties, to stand as the representatives of your stock in price, pattern and quality. No tradesman need look for a specialty. Let specialties sell staples always and try to take rank among your competitors as one who is the quickest to recognize a good thing and the first to sell it.

Invite patrons to come and see you. The great advertisers of the country never cease reminding the people of their names, location and nature of business. Advertising is an investment and newspaper advertising columns are a boon to man. They help him out of his troubles and into the smiles of prosperity. The Pennsylvania railroad advertises exclusively in the newspapers. There is not a great business that has been built in the past twenty years without the aid of newspapers.

This is too bustling and competition is too great for the merchant to allow himself any longer the luxury of waiting supinely behind his counter for trade. He must show in advance of the purchase just what he has to sell and how he intends to sell it, and a persistent publication of his wares is the means by which such showing can be made.

Frank Siddall, the Philadelphia soap man, says: "I have confined my advertising entirely to newspapers. The man who does not read a newspaper does not use soap."

Ex-judge Botkin, who attracted attention three years ago by holding court in Stevens county, Kas., with a loaded Winchester on the beach beside him, and who formerly absorbed as much as ten ounces of whiskey at a time without giving visible signs thereof, has become a zealous temperance exponent, and is persuading hundreds to sign the pledge.

A story is told of Charles Dudley Warner meeting Mark Twain and inviting him to take a walk with him, saying: "I can prove that you must by the Bible." "Prove it and I'll go," answered the great humorist. "In Matthew v., 41, you will find, 'And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him, Twain.' Of course the last comma and last capital were Warner's, but Twain went."

The notion that the power of the toes is destroyed by the binding up of the feet in leather through a great part of life is incorrect. In commenting upon a English professor's remark, "The toes are not used," Dr. T. S. Ellis says: "How is it, then, that the muscles of the sole and of the leg, which act on the toes, do not atrophy for want of use? I have long insisted that, even in ordinary walking boots, the toes, and all of them, are used and serve a very useful purpose."

A farmer in Columbiana county, Ohio, who rejoices in the rather uncommon name of Fi Restone, has a hobby for figures. Everything in nature suggests the numerals. He lies awake at night trying to calculate the number of hairs on horse's hide, and annoys his family by continually counting them. The last thing he does before going to bed is to pull a Dominican hen off her perch and count her feet.

The Pall Mall Gazette has been publishing opinions as to "the worst railway in England." The following letter may be recommended as an admirable model: "Sir: The Southeastern railway is the very worst railway in the world. Its engines are asthmatic; its lamps are trimmed by foolish virgins; its fares are excessive; its carriages let in the snow in the winter and are furnaces in summer. Its motto is unpunctuality; its principal station is approached through the neck of a bottle. It ruins the temper, destroys the digestion and enables one to realize the horrors of Dante's Inferno. I am, sir, yours obediently, The Worm who Turns."

Southerners to the Front.

The new head of the Southern Railroad company, the name which the reorganized Richmond and Danville system will have is an Alabamian, and twenty-five years ago was a civil engineer's roodman on a railroad in Georgia. He was under Col. Sharpe who afterwards built the Danville, Nashville and Southern railroad in this state, and when the latter became president of a railroad on Long Island he made young Spencer superintendent of the road. His qualifications attracted the attention of Garrett, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, who made him 3d vice president of that system of which he later became president.

Then the great railroad reorganizers Drexel, Morgan & Co., of New York, being in need of a railroad expert as partner, associated him with themselves and turned over to him their large railroad interests.

Mr. Spencer was educated at the university of Virginia and was a friend and contemporary of several North Carolinians who remember him as a thoughtful, studious and earnest youth, slender and delicate looking, who always stood easily first in Prof. Boeck's school of applied mathematics.

WENT DOWN IN A TUG.

Disaster to an Excursion Party in New York Bay.

A New York telegram says: The tug James D. Nichols, owned by William Reeves, of New York, founded off the Atlantic Highlands shortly before 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Nichols had on board a party of excursionists numbering 68 persons, and also carried a crew of five men. Forty-eight persons were rescued.

There was a quantity of beer aboard, but from the accounts of the rescued passengers, no one was intoxicated.

In a half hour after the tug foundered the situation was completely changed, said one of the rescued. The waves became more boisterous and dashed up against the sides of the tug, throwing spray over the excursionists who were on the deck. Here, where the trouble commenced the stories as to what next happened, commence to conflict. According to one chapter of the narratives, the fishermen, to avoid getting wet, moved around on the dry side of the vessel—that is the side where the waves did not strike with such force. It is claimed by some that this action on the part of the passengers resulted in the foundering of the tug. With the increased weight on one side she toppled over and the water ran into her to such an extent that it was thereafter impossible to navigate her. She struggled for a short distance, and then, as the water continued to roll in she sank further into the swells and went down.

Others claimed that the tug was an old rotten affair; that she was terribly overcrowded and topheavy, and that when she got into the heavy sea she simply went over. Twenty-four persons or thereabout were drowned.

Six bodies have been recovered, says a later telegram. The list of missing men has been swelled to 36, and it is believed will be increased to 50 or more when the names of the strangers on board become known.

Specimen Cases.

SH Clifford, New Cassel, Wis. was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism; his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill. had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Caswell, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by John Y. MacRae.

A Great Disaster.

CARDEFF, Wales, June 25.—A disaster from Pont-y-Pridd this afternoon says 172 bodies have been recovered from the Allison colliery, near Cilfynud, the scene of the fire damp explosion of Saturday.

THE EVENING VISITOR

25 CENTS A MONTH.

Office of J. C. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla., May 23d, 1891.

Gentlemen: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physicians in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, and always consulted with the local physician for directions; finally came to Florida ten years ago.

About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during the time I was induced to try P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium), knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood; after using two small bottles I was relieved; at four different times since I have had slight attacks and I have each time taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and been relieved, and I consider it the best medicine of its kind. Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

RHEUMATISM is emphatically a blood disorder caused by inability of the kidney to throw off certain poisons which accumulate in the tissues about the joints and muscles.

P. P. P., very simply, quickly and surely cures this disease, neutralizing impurities in the blood. Experience and science both endorse P. P. P. as the only infallible blood purifier known.
