Brave Rescue at Morehead.

Mr. W. J. McConnell, the representative of the General Electric company, of New York, came up from Morehead City yesterday.

He tells of a very exciting experience which he had there on Monday. On Monday afternoon he was in surf bathing with a young lady, Miss Warren, of Edenton, and venturing out too far they were both caught by the undertow and carried out still further.

The young lady, when she realized the fact, became frantic with terror, and her struggles greatly impeded Mr. McConnell, and slowly but surely dragged him down.

All this time the gentleman had been calling for help and his cries had undoubtedly been heard on the beach but no one in the crowd made the slightest effort to help them. At last, when, as Mr. McConnell says, he had given up all hope, two brave boatmen, Capt. Piner and Mr. Thomas, rushed into the surf and at the risk of their own lives swam to the couple who were by that time almost exhausted. They relieved Mr. McConnell of the lady, whom he had bravely supported all the time, and his splendid physique enabled him to reach the shore unaided, where he fell in a swoon.

The two boatmen, had, in the meanwhile assisted the young lady to the shore.

Restoratives were given and both of them were soon as well as ever. Mr. McConnell showed wonderful nerve and bravery throughout the affair and the conduct of his two brave rescuers cannot be too highly complimented.

Marguerite Wedding.

This morning at 10 o'clock one of the prettiest home weddings of the season was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. C. S. Jackson on Fayetteville street.

The occasion was the marriage of her daughter, Miss Lizzie Jackson to Mr. Haywood D. White, Rev. Dr. Marshall officiated and the happy couple plighted their troth in the beautiful marriage ceremony of the Episcopal church. The bride looked charming in a bridal dress and veil of white silk and carried in her hand a beautiful bouquet of brides' roses. The bride was given away by her cousin Mr. W. W. Roberts, of Wilmington, the maid of honor was Miss Lucy London, of Pittsboro; and Mr. Chas. Shaw was best man. The flower girls were Misses Legrand Cameron and Bruce Carr. The house was beautifully decorated in green and the darkened rooms and dimly burning gas jets lent a sense of enchantment to the scene. Many friends and relatives were in attendance from Wilmington, Pittsboro, Louisburg and Raleigh. The presents were both numerous and beautiful. Last night a handsome reception was given at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. White left today for an extended bridal tour, after which they will go to Washington, D. C., which will be their future home. Miss Jackson was one of Raleigh's most popular and charming young ladies and THE VISITOR wishes the newly wedded pair a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Tragedy in Fayetteville.

A special to the Durham Globe from Fayetteville says: Monday night the negroes of Fayetteville gave an entertainment in the public hall of the town. While the crowd were leaving the hall a negro named Abe Bennington stepped on the heels of Tom Williams, who turned without a word and shot Bennington five times. It is said that Bennington cannot live.

Brutally Beaten by a Tramp.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 26.—Mrs. Emily Prince, an old woman, who has for many years been the sole occupant of a little hut that stands on the Bridgeport turnpike inside the town of Milford, was brutally assaulted last night. Two men passing the hut found the door open, and walking in discovered Mrs. Prince lying on the floor apparently dead. A closer examination showed, however, that she was still breathing, though unconscious, and covered from head to foot with terrible bruises, as if some one had beaten her with a cudgel. During a brief interval of consciousness she said a tramp had entered the house during the night and beaten her into insensibility. The case was reported to chief of police Brown, who got track of a man answering the assailant's description, and he at once started in pursuit, but his attempts to apprehend the criminal have thus far been fruitless.

A curious marriage took place at Wentworth one day last week. A negro, upon the expiration of his term in jail there, was united in marriage to a lunatic confined there, and both walked out into the free air to enjoy their honeymoon.

"Growler."

Will the gentleman who wrote the card signed "Growler" in yesterday's Visitor send his name to chief of police Heatt? The city authorities desire to keep the streets clean as much as "Growler" does; but as the gentleman mentions no street in his card they do not know where to start an investigation.

Mayor's Court News.

Last Monday the mayor's court waded right into that notorious suburb, the "Bowery," and put several of its worst inhabitants to work for thirty days. Yesterday several Adams' alley damsels were treated to a similar dose. This morning two unfortunate drunks were given twelve hours each in the station house.

A Curiosity

A lady living here received a letter yesterday from a friend in Grayson county, Texas. Among other interesting things she tells of a "big something" that was dug up near her home a few days ago. The writer says a gentleman was digging a well on his premises and when about 12 feet deep his pick struck something hard. After much digging he found a skeleton of something, he didn't know what. It had two horns each 9 feet long and each horn weighed 500 pounds. It was 18 feet high and 28 feet long. One of the teeth weighed 8 pounds. It was 7 1-2 feet across from hip to hip. A single bone in one of the legs weighed 100 pounds. It must have been a curiosity.

A Romantic Marriage.

A rather romantic marriage took place at the Central hotel today, says the Charlotte News. Monday night a young man and a beautiful girl arrived on the train. They registered under an assumed name from Eau Claire, Wis. They took separate rooms. At the register of deeds office today he procured license and they married, Justice D. C. Maxwell officiating. The gentleman's name is J. W. Marshall, Jr., of Craig county, Va. He is a son of congressman James Marshall, who made such a vigorous campaign orator, defying man and devil, as it were, in the ninth Virginia district two years ago, when he was elected, that he became familiarly known as "Cyclone Jim." The bride is Miss A. R. Whitescarver, daughter of Mr. Louis C. Whitescarver, of Rockingham county, Va. It was a runaway affair.

Among those who witnessed the arrival of the remains at the Elysee was the president's coachman, who was greatly attached to his master. When he saw the coffin he fell insensible and died without recovering consciousness.
