OUR buyer in New York is now up with a "job" in sun umbrellas; bought them "cheap." They are first class gloria silk, nobby handles. We are going to sell them cheap. We can offer a $2.50 gloria silk parasol for $1.50. We guarantee what we say.
D. T. Swindell.

IN OUR shoe department we are fixing to do a big business this fall and will carry none but the best makes, and can assure the public that we will be in better condition to serve them in this line of our business than ever before.
D. T. Swindell.

FLAT ON THE FLOOR.—You want a carpet of some kind this fall. You may want more than one; but listen to me once in your life. Don't buy the carpets until our new ones come. The tariff bill has passed and carpets are reduced wonderfully. We have been waiting for the passage of this bill so we have not bought any carpets. Most merchants went straight on and bought carpets and had them shipped right out regardless of the tariff and they will try to argue you into believing the tariff don't affect carpets right away. This is not true. In 10 days from day of passage it goes into effect and you can save one quarter of the price of your carpet if you let good sense prevail. We will have a stock of carpets such as you rarely see. Our buyer is to go to New York this week for carpets.
Yours truly,
D. T. Swindell.

REPUBLICANS IN SESSION

THEIR STATE CONVENTION IN PROGRESS HERE.

Chairman Eaves Says the Populists are Enemies to Civil Liberty.

At 12:15 this afternoon chairman John B. Eaves called the republican state convention to order, and James H. Young read the chairman's call for it. Mr. Eaves said he was greatly pleased to see, on winding up his six years of duty as chairman, such a convention. The question was as to whether the party would live. There was a difference of opinion. He wanted to see the party place itself on high grounds. He had no apology to make to any one. He said that he opposed the calling of the committee together to dictate a policy; as he wanted the rank and file to do that. He said the state committee was loyal, because it refused to meet and discuss the great issue of coalition with the populists. It is called co-operation, but it all means the same thing. He said his county—Rutherford—was here to vote for fusion. He bowed to its will. He said the question was as to whether this convention would endorse the populist convention work. He said he opposed all that that conference had done. When the republican party did as it was proposed to do, delegate its homes to a party which was opposed to civil liberty, he must oppose such action. He said that he wanted the republicans to put up a straight ticket, all the way, and let the other element have the ticket it has put up. He declared he was honest and right in his policy. He said he would soon retire. He wanted no tearing out of names. There is friction enough in the state now, and after this convention adjourns there will be more of it. He thanked leaders, though many of them had attacked him, he had treated all attacks with silence. In conclusion, he called E. A. Johnson, colored, of Wake, as temporary chairman. Eaves was very mildly applauded. Johnson was escorted to the chair by H. P. Cheatham and V. S. Lusk. Johnson attacked the national democratic administration and said that never before was there such a clamor for the restoration of republicans to office. He declared the convention ready for business. The floor of Metropolitan hall was at this time about two-thirds full of delegates. John H. Williamson said that many counties were not represented and that persons in some cases held proxies for several counties. Chairman Johnson said he thought proxies should not be allowed, but that the credentials committee would dispose of this matter. It was announced that there were contests in several counties.

The following were announced as the committee on credentials: C. S. Brown, R. J. Perry, W. W. Lawrence, F. M. Sorrell, S. B. Satterfield, J. M. Good, H. C. Cowles and J. M. Brower. At 1 o'clock the convention took an hour's recess.

The committee was out a long time. H. C. Cowles was its chairman. There were seven contests and a good deal of bad blood. A white man from Pitt raised quite a row on the stage when the committee sat, and wanted to fight. One of the delegates, who is a member of the republican state committee, said that there had been fusion with the populists there, and then a colored delegate said, "Yes, you sold us out; you sold out your party." Excitement was high. The stage was full of listeners. These quickly saw how deep was the undercurrent of feeling. Some of the republicans alleged that there were some populists present as delegates, and wanted these dropped out, Pitt, for instance, was entirely represented by populists. It was nearly 3 o'clock when chairman Johnson called the convention to order. The credentials committee was called on for a report, but was not very prompt in so doing. The convention occupied itself during the long wait of an hour in laughing and joking.

Calls were made for T. C. Milliken, who was nominated yesterday for congress from this district. He is from Randolph county. He said that whatever might be the views taken by the party to attain a certain end, no one could question the sincerity of the party. He had himself had doubts as to this policy, but he had no doubt all would gracefully acquiesce in the action of the convention. There was only one thing to do and that was to defeat democracy. He said he wanted coalition with populists and not with machine democrats. He said the only campaign documents needed to damn the democracy were the speeches of Tom Johnson and Bourke Cochran and president Cleveland's letter. It was unnecessary, said the speaker, for him to hold up the democratic party for public execution.

James E. Boyd was called on to speak and the convention showed its first enthusiasm when he took the stand. He said he had come here to see North Carolina wrenched from the grasp of an incompetent democracy. He said the republican party, with its great heroes, Garfield and Grant and Lincoln, was the legitimate successor of the great whig party. He said the Lord, "moving in a mysterious way, His wonders to perform," had delivered this government to the democrats so the people could see how incompetent they were. He said the duty had been put on sugar because poor white people and negroes had no business having sugar at 5 cents a pound. He said the tax has also been raised on whiskey, and that the democrats in the state convention had declared the revenue tax ought to be repealed if the country could do without it.

He said that no matter how the election went the Democrats would win, as they would count the others out. He said that in his part of the state elections were free and the votes were counted, and that "the time was coming when the Lord would put his hand on the democrats and there would be free elections and a fair count all over the state."

George H. White, colored, the solicitor from the second district, was the next speaker. He said that for 18 years votes in that district had not been counted, but the delegates here were determined to tear democracy from the place and power it had usurped in North Carolina. He took occasion to eulogize Senator Vance as a great and grand man.

It was 8:30 o'clock when the credentials committee reported through Jas. H. Young. It was only a partial report, in which the contested counties were not embraced. The report was adopted. An effort was made then to go into a permanent organization. Chairman Johnson ruled that the permanent organization could not be effected until all the credentials were reported on. From this ruling H. G. Ewart appealed. Quite a dispute arose on this point, in which J. C. L. Harris took the most prominent part, antagonizing the chairman. The latter said that Mr. Harris did not know how many counties were represented or whether there was a quorum or not. While this dispute was in progress the committee came in with its supplemental report. A delegate from Durham then stepped on the stage and read a resolution regarding the death of W. A. Albright, and asked the convention to adopt it. This was done. Col. Albright was a delegate to this convention.

This was a contest right here between the fusion and anti-fusion elements of the convention, Johnson being an "anti." The credentials committee made two reports, one recommending that several counties which elected delegates who were not citizens of those counties be thrown out. The minority report favored seating these delegates. A warm discussion then arose. It is said that the casting of votes by proxy was not allowable under the plan of organizations. J. M. Moody antagonized V. S. Lusk, the latter living in Buncombe but being a delegate from Transylvania.

The vote was taken on the adoption of the minority report. It was adopted, 151 to 84. A motion was then adopted that all contesting delegates be given seats. This prevailed.

Hon. Oliver H. Dockery, of Richmond county, was at 4:50 o'clock elected permanent chairman by acclamation.

J. C. L. Harris offered a resolution that the convention nominate W. H. Worth for treasurer, and Faircloth, Purches, Clark and Connor for justices. This was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Prof. Geo. D. Meares will open the third year of his school of music at the academy of music on Monday, Sept. 3d.

The police are looking for a young negro who Tuesday night about 10:30 attempted to outrage a 17 year old colored girl near Brookside park.

Elder P. R. Barber will preach at the Primitive Baptist church next Saturday and Sunday. Services commence at 11 a. m.

Mrs. J. R. H. Carmer and the Misses Carmer, of Brooklyn, who have been at Connelly springs for some time, are now here, at the Yarbore.

Students bound for the university and other colleges are beginning to pass through on their way to college. The large majority of them seem to be pale and trembling freshmen.

Mrs. Henry Douglas, of Memphis, Tenn., nee Miss Lucy Little, of Raleigh, is here after thirty-eight years' absence, and is visiting Mrs. James McKee.

The Raleigh banks will not, it seems, observe labor day, which is the first Monday in September, and which is made a national holiday by an act of Congress. The banks will wait until the day is also made a state holiday.

Two colored men, under the pericious influence of political and corn "licker," engaged in an affray on Wilmington street this morning. Both were badly "done up," but managed to take their departure before the "cop" arrived.

A good many questions had been asked as to the cause of death of the great stallion Pamlico. A telegram from Hartford says he was taken with congestive chills and inflammation of the bowels.

Several Raleigh bicyclists are now practicing daily on their wheels at the fair ground track, getting ready for the races in September. Many fast men from this and other states will be present.

The republican delegates to the state convention held a caucus last evening at the court house from 8:30 to 10 o'clock. This morning they held another. Hon. H. G. Ewart presided. This morning by a very large majority it was decided to fuse with the populists on the State ticket.

The way Mr. Keeler, manager of the street railway, pushes work is a caution. The curve at the corner of Peace and Blount streets needed repairing yesterday. Last night a large gang commenced work on it and worked all night but when the cars started out this morning the curve was fixed.

Death of Mrs. Moseley.

Mr. Thomas B. Moseley who had been ill for eight weeks, first with malarial and then with typhoid fever, died at 6:15 this morning at her home, corner of East Morgan and South Person streets. Although her death had been expected hourly, it was a great shock to her numberless friends. Mrs. Moseley was a lady of a lovable and charming disposition and was exceedingly popular. She was a daughter of Mr. W. G. Wilkinson of Durham and leaves besides her father, mother and devoted husband, a brother, Mr. Wilkinson, who is connected with the firm of Messrs. W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co., and a sister, Mrs. Blount, who at one time lived here. The funeral took place at 2:30 this afternoon from Edenton street Methodist church, of which she was a member, Rev. J. N. Cole officiated and Rev. A. M. Simms assisted him. This afternoon the remains were carried to Durham where the burial takes place. The pallbearers were Messrs. W. J. Young, J. M. Broughton, J. G. Brown, E. C. Holleman, Ed. Pesend and B. C. Rogers.

The German Last Evening.

Another german was given last evening at the Park hotel by a number of young gentlemen. The gayety lasted until about 1:30 a. m. when the tired dancers dispersed. The german was led by Mr. John Andrews. Among those dancing were: John H. Andrews with Miss Shipp; Henri Mace with Miss Heart; R. S. Busbee with Miss Louise Busbee; William West with Miss Sophia Busbee; R. L. Gray with Miss Crow; Henry Thompson with Miss Mace; Dalen Stronach with Miss May Crow; S. A. Ashe with Miss Roberta Smith; E. S. Battle with Miss Annie Busbee; R. R. Gatling with Miss Katharine Badger; Duncan Cameron with Miss Susie Marshall; Clifford Carroll with Miss Blake; F. J. Haywood with Miss Winston, of Chapel Hill. Quite a number of spectators were present during the early evening.

Maj. Neathery's Funeral.

The funeral of major J. B. Neathery took place this afternoon at 4 o'clock from the First Baptist church. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Skinner and Rev. Mr. Simms. Wm. G. Hill lodge, No. 218, under whose auspices the services were conducted and of which major Neathery was an old and honored member, attended in a body. The pall-bearers were Messrs. T. W. Blake, John Nichols, L. Rosenthal, C. B. Edwards, R. H. Bradley, W. N. Snelling, F. A. Watson and J. H. Alford.

The services were largely attended and well showed the respect and esteem in which major Neathery was held by his fellow-citizens.

A Talented Young Lady Dead.

Prof. Collier Cobb passed through today accompanying the remains of Miss Corinne Harris, who died at Chapel Hill yesterday. A few years ago Miss Harris left the state for Boston to complete her education. Her talent was recognized and in a very short time she had obtained a position as principal of a school there. At the time of her death she was a candidate for the board of supervisors of public schools of Boston. Miss Harris was a native of Newbern and was an estimable young lady. Her remains were carried there today.

Col. W. A. Albright Dead.

Col. W. A. Albright, a prominent citizen of Durham, died there today at 12 o'clock. Col. Albright was well known throughout the state. He was a prominent republican and has held several government positions of importance. He has been Durham's postmaster, has been in the revenue service and several times has represented his county in the legislature. He was in his 61st year at the time of his death.

Mr. J. H. Andrews left this afternoon for for Chapel Hill to pursue his studies at the university.

Miss Lizzie Hinsdale returned this afternoon from a visit to Fayetteville.

Mr. T. S. Steele, of Rockingham, was here today.
