A COWARDLY GENERAL.

A Chinese Commander Throws Away his Uniform and Runs from the Japanese.

Details of the Japanese advances upon and capture of Gazan, Cores, with particulars of the battle at Siekwan, have been received. Corea is hotter than Japan. The temperature is 96 degrees. The Japanese troops, having to carry a heavy load tesides their rifles through a wretched road, were extremely fatigued. As they had no tents they had to sit under the burning sun, on the grass. There was no pure water and the troops had. to slake their thirst with muddy water.

The main tody crossed a bridge, but when the last detachment was on the point of crossing Chinese troops in ambush near the bank cut off the bridge and opened fire on the detachment at about 90 feet distant. The Japanese troops were at first confused but rushed upon the Chinese and bore them down. The Chisese fled.

The Chinese Gen. Che is a noted officer under Li Hung Chang, and is well known among Europeans. The general cannot escape reponsibility for the defeat, for when the Japanese troops attacked his camp he deserted, threw away his uniform as an incumbrance to flight, and left behind the papers which, as a general, he should never allowed to leave his side. It is not known where the general has fled.
