

WOMAN FOUGHT A THIEF.

Grappled With the intruder and Was Stabbed Twice.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Louise Hill was badly wounded in a desperate encounter with a burglar at her home early this morning. She was awakened by hearing a window raised and somebody moving about. Jumping out of bed without awakening her husband, she started to make an investigation. Upon reaching the adjoining room she saw a man crouching in the shadow. The burglar grabbed her. Mrs. Hill did not faint. They struggled for several minutes. The burglar realized he had met a very brave woman, and he pulled a long knife and plunged it into her leg. She partly relaxed her hold and he brought his knife into play and stabbed her in the thigh. The woman screamed again and fell unconscious to the floor.

The burglar quickly got out of the window and escaped. Mr. Hill awoke, and, missing his wife, made a search. He was bewildered when he discovered her lying on the floor, senseless, and covered with blood. He awoke two boarders who were asleep on the upper floor. They had also detected through all the excitement. The police found an old hat which the burglar had left in his hurry. A little later detective Dalton arrested a bare-headed man a wife and a half from the scene of the burglary. The man was taken to police headquarters, and it was found that the hat left behind by the burglar fitted him exactly.

THE WEATHER.

The Conditions and the Forecast

Local forecast for Sunday: fair. Local data for 24 hours ending 8 a. m. today: Maximum temperature 82; minimum temperature 57; rainfall 0.00.

The pressure remains high over the Atlantic states and has risen slightly. The storm yesterday central over North Dakota has moved eastward to Marquette, Michigan, and has increased in intensity; lowest barometer 29.46 inches at Marquette. The storm is causing gales and rain in the lake region. Elsewhere the weather is generally fair and clear, except on the south Atlantic coast and middle to west gulf where it is cloudy. The temperature has risen slightly in the central valley and has remained nearly stationary elsewhere.

Ordination and Confirmation.

Rev. J. D. Miller, of Greensboro, arrived today. Tomorrow he will be ordained a priest, the ceremony taking place in the Church of the Good Shepherd. The ordination services will take place at 11 o'clock, after which there will also be a confirmation service, bishop Cheshire officiating and several of the local clergy assisting. Rev. M. Miller was once a resident of Raleigh and a member of the Church of the Good Shepherd, of which he was vestryman. He was several years the principal of the Murphy public school.

Keene and His Company.

The dramatic event promised for next Monday evening at the academy of music may confidently be looked forward to with pleasant anticipation by play-goers. This refers to Mr. Thomas Keene and his company, who will then appear. The company supporting the eminent tragedian is composed principally of artists especially engaged for their fitness for the roles in which Mr. Keene has cast them, and is as a whole a company of remarkable strength, and will be seen in "Hamlet." In the roster will be found Edwin Arden, Frank Hennig, Carl Ahrendt, Thomas Eagleson, George Buckler, Lawrence Lowell, John Milton, Lillian Lawrence, Genevieve Beauman, Juliette Downs and Mrs. S. A. Baker. The box sheet is at W. H. King & Co's drug store.

Sporting News.

Thursday on the race track at Galesburg, Illinois, Robert J. started to beat his own record of 2:01 1-2, but failed, although the track was in a splendid condition. His time was 2:02 3-4. Directly shattered Carbonate's record for two-year-olds of 2:09, made at Terre Haute last week, covering the mile in 2:07 2-4. Online attempted to beat the four-year-old record of 2:07 1-4, but the watcher showed the same figures when the horse came under the wire after a splendid effort. Joe Patchen, 2:04, and John R. Gentry, 2:04 3-4, were matched for $50,000 a side, the race to take place today.

MALARIA AND MISERY.

A Case Too Often Seen in Malarial Sections.

He was a raw-boned, hard-handed farmer, less than fifty years of age, but with a sallow and wizened complexion, peculiar to seventy, just such a mixture of malaria and manhood as the Mississippi valley only can furnish—hardy, horny, homely and honest. He was unbiting from a rickety wagon an old horse so knobby and loose-jointed that the oft-mended harness seemed necessary to hold it together. A two-roomed, mud-chinked log house, a faded, slattern woman, a troop of under-fed, frowzy children, some long-legged chickens, a tamarack swamp stretching away in all directions—these complete the picture, and again had done it all. It had changed stalwart manhood, healthy womanhood, to ghastliness. Thrift became squalor and plenty poverty; weeds and shrubs overran well-tilled fields and dismal untidiness had pervaded every nook and cranny of the once well-kept premises of "Squire —, of —, La. While the 'squire proceeded unhitching the wagon, his wife, began lifting out of the wagon the few groceries which he had brought from the village, a few miles away. "Where's the bottle of quinine?" she asked with a querulous, rasping voice. "You didn't go and forget that, did you?" "No, I did not exactly forget it, either. The drugstore man showed me a new medicine for malaria which, he says, is a great deal better than quinine, and so I bought it. I have spent one farm buying quinine, and I'm getting tired of it." "Well," she answered, "we'll try it, but I haven't a particle of faith in the new-fangled stuff. I should think they could find a better name for it than Pe-r-u-na," she added, spelling out the name on the bottle.

Three years later "Squire — was seated on the front veranda of his new house; a pair of prancing steeds and a stylish carriage stand before the door. The 'Squire looks twenty years' younger than when we first saw him. No one would recognize the place or inhabitants—a buxom, happy wife, strong, healthy children, a well-stocked farm, waving meadows, where once dreary swamps festered disease. What has wrought the change? Hear the 'Squire's answer: "Health did it. As soon as I began the use of Pe-r-u-na instead of quinine we all began at once to regain our health, our spirits, our ambition, our enterprise and our strength. All these malaria had taken away from us. Pe-r-u-na has cleansed our systems of all malarial poison and keeps us from having another attack. This is the whole story. Pe-r-u-na did it. It has also done the same thing for our neighbors. Malaria bring disaster and destruction—Pe-r-u-na brings health and success. But, by the way, speaking of Pe-r-u-na and malaria, every one should have a copy of an illustrated book on malaria published by The Pe-r-u-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Ohio. They send it free to anyone. I haven't got the words to tell you what this book does about Pe-r-u-na and malaria."

George Savage Tried.

George Savage was given his preliminary trial for resisting an officer, before mayor Badger this morning. No witnesses were examined, as Mr. Argo, counsel for Savage, waived an examination and submitted for Savage to be bound over to court. Bail was fixed at $200 which was given. Officer Jones was in court with an artistically bandaged head, but with that exception showed no sign of his experience. Savage has a large spot on the side of his head from which the hair had been clipped to allow an examination of the bump which resulted from the collision of his cranium with officer Jones' club. He has quite a good face and does not look the tough his reputation and his actions make him out to be.

An Assignment.

Thomas J. Watt, druggist, today filed a deed of an assignment with Millard Mial, register of deeds. The preferred creditors of the first class are J. E. Johnston, $1,660, J. T. Watts and Rodrick Watts, of the second class, Jas. I. Johnson. Mr. Johnson is the largest creditor. M. B. Barbee is named as trustee.

BEEES ARE DRONES

Compared with us these days. We are between two seasons—pushing out the remnants of summer—placing the new arrivals for fall and winter. Our counters are piled mountain high—the fruit of our buying. The carpenters and painters have just finished our new and commodious Children's Clothing Department—quite an improvement; giving us more room to place this immense stock, which is already here.
Our buyer has been to all the fashion centres and has obtained the BEST everywhere. He has done his work well. He has bought the grandest and largest stock of Clothing that has ever been shown here—even by us. The light-weight Overcoats and Nobby Suits are the first thought of the fall, and will soon take the places of the thin, airy garments of today. Nowhere else will you see such a congregation of fine fabrics, artfully designed, skillfully fitted, faultlessly tailored. As exclusive in pattern as they are elegant in finish.
