MAY BE A CLUE-

The Presence Near Acquia Creek of an Ex perienced Robber and a Mysterious Yacht.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Oct. 13 .- Interest in the robbery of the express car near Quantico last night is intense. There is a clue to the robbers. Three years ago there lived in Stafford county Charles Carter, who absented himself from home frequently, and on his return was well supplied with money. The robbery of a country store in his neighborhood was the cause of his arrest. In making the arrest the sheriff of the county was forced to shoot the fellow. He was lodged in jail, made his escapef and nothing more w:s heard of him until accounts in the New York papers of a daring robbery committed in that state, and of Carter's being sent to Sing-Sing for a long term of years.

Subsequently the papers told of his mysterious escape from that prison. no clue being left how he accomplished the daring feat. It has been said he was seen several times after this, getting on and off the train just where last night's robbery took place, and his family having all left this part of the country' there are many persons hereabouts who think Carter was the leading spirit in last night's performance. That he was fully capable of such a job, those who have known him all his life bear witness. Cool and fearless, every inch of the ground as familiar to him as an open book, it is more than probable that when Carter is caught the full facts of the robbery will be ascertained.

While captain Dan. Lee was at his home, on the Potomac, yesterday af ternoon, sitting on the porch, his attention was called to a trim and graceful yacht lying off his landing. After property in the city of Raleigh, and a long look at the beautiful craft he acknowledged he had never seen her before. It is supposed the robbers. after committing the deed and abandoning the engine, made their way to this vessel, which was evidently waiting for something unknown to those living near by. It was only half a mile from where the engine was abandoned and turned loose to where the yacht was riding at anchor, and her disappearance this morning leads to the belief that the robbers took this method of getting away and so successfully concealing their tracks.

Wasaington, Oct 13 .- This afternoon a man came to police headquarters and gave himself up, declaring that he was one of the bandits, but being refused a share of the booty, would turn state's evidence. He is closely guarded by the detectives, and reporters are not allowed to see

TRAPPED HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW-

How Charles Marvin Rescued His Bride-She was Locked in a Cellar

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Oct. 14 .- Charles Marcin, who lives near Idaville, courted Ida Rich for several years. Their union was bitterly opposed by the girl's parents, so last Tuesday they eloped and got married. Wednesday they returned to beg forgiveness, but Mr. Rich locked the bride in the cellar and drove his son-in-law out of the house with a gun. All that night the bridegroom sat up, pondering a plan of rescue. When morning dawned he sent word to his mother-in-law to come and get her daughter's effects as he was ready to relinquish all claims. When the old lady lady came she found herself entrapped. Marvin locked her in his house and refused to let her return. She was held as a hostage until yesterday, when Mr. Rich appeared with a flag of truce. Prisoners were exchanged, and Marvin and his bride are reunited.

The girl's mother is also said to have become so favorably impressed wi'h her son-in-law during her detention at his home that she is anxious to "kiss and make up."
