LOVE LAUGHS

At Obstacles—Mr. J. G. Steed's Happy Marriage Another Example.

Miss Annie L. DeBerry, of Wadeville, Montgomery county, arrived on the 11.35 S. A. L. train this morning. A very bald statement and one of apparently very little public interest.

As has been several times stated, Mr. J. G. Steed, the popular revenue clerk, has for some days been lying in Rex hospital, a sufferer from typhoidal fever. Mr. Steed has for some months been making flying visits to Montgomery county and soon it was whispered that there was a little bit of femininity in that county that caused his frequent trips.

Then Dr. McGee left the betrothed couple together and went to the court house where a marriage license was procured. In the meantime Rev. J. N. Cole had been summoned and he with Dr. McGee hastened to the hospital where at 1 o'clock, in the pleasant upper room where Mr. Steed lies, Miss DeBerry became Mrs. J. G. Steed.

Congratulations and good wishes were showered upon the happy pair and the party broke up leaving Mr. Steed with his fluffing bride and wearing a contented smile that foretells a speedy recovery. Mr. Steed has so far improved that he will be moved next Wednesday to the house of Dr. James McGee Jr. He is deservedly popular here and the Visitor with a host of friends wishes him a speedy recovery and that he and his charming bride may "live happily ever after."

THE WEATHER.

The Conditions and the Forecast.

Forecast for North Carolina: Fair, colder; probably frost in the interior Tuesday morning.

Local forecast for Raleigh and vicinity: Tuesday, fair, colder. Frost Tuesday morning and Wednesday morning.

Local data for 24 hours ending 8 a. m. today: Maximum temperature 66; minimum temperature 46; rainfall 0.46.

The barometer is low over the Atlantic States, being lowest over Philadelphia. It is raining at Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Buffalo. Throughout the west the weather is clear and cool. A large area of high barometer exists west of the Mississippi, the highest reported being at Dodge City and Amarillo, with Bismarck nearly as high. It is quite cold in the northwest. The lowest temperature at 8 a. m. today was 22 degrees at North Platte.

It is claimed that the biggest political procession during this campaign was at Morganton—last Saturday, when by actual count 1119 persons on horseback or in buggies were in line.

FATAL CUTTING.

Charles Walton Fatally Stabs Jim Davis During a Fight.

A fatal cutting affair occurred last Saturday evening in Carroll & Harris' bar on South Wilmington street. Charles Walton, or "Shacklefoot Charles" as he is better known, met Jim Davis, another negro, in the bar. Walton, it seems, started the row which ended in the death of Davis. He had heard that Davis had been making remarks about his wife and accused him of it. Davis denied having done so, but Walton seemed to want a fight and struck him. During the fight that followed Walton drew a long knife and cut Davis twice. One cut was a slight flesh wound in the back but the other, a stab wound, pierced the man's heart. Davis continued to fight for some moments after he had been cut, but finally sank helpless to the floor. A carriage was procured and Davis was carried to the hospital. By the time the vehicle reached its destination, however, the wounded man was dead. In the excitement after it was seen that the man was fatally cut Walton dashed away from the door where he cut Davis and made his escape. He is still at large. Walton is twice a murderer, having many years ago killed a negro in a political dispute. He was acquitted of that crime, upon trial in Johnston, on the plea of self-defense. This killing occurred very near the place where he killed Davis. The carriage containing the dead man, for some reason, was driven up and down Fayetteville street several times. The body was finally carried to a small house at the city lot where a coffin was procured. A coroner's jury was empanelled and returned a verdict according to the evidence. Davis was about 23 years old and a magnificent specimen of manhood. He came originally from Henderson, but has been working near here in the country.

Preached Three Eloquent Sermons.

Dr. Kilgo, president of Trinity college, arrived here Saturday afternoon and this morning returned again to Durham. During his brief stay he has strengthened himself in the esteem and affections of Raleigh people. His visit to this city several weeks ago aroused more enthusiasm and brought out more people to hear him than has the visit of any man or orator who has been here in years. His sermons of yesterday came fully up to the expectations of the people who heard him and fully sustained the reputation he has made in so short a time throughout the state as one of North Carolina's most eloquent and forceful speakers and brainy men.

He came for the purpose of dedicating the new Epworth chapel on Halifax street and he carried out that purpose by a splendid sermon at that pretty little church last evening. In the afternoon he spoke to a large and representative audience at the academy of music and in the morning he filled the pulpit at the Edenton street Methodist church.

It would be hard to say which of the three excellent sermons was the best. In the morning, afternoon and evening his sermons were all fully up to the high standard that the public half learned to expect of him. Dr. Kilgo is one of the state's most interesting and magnetic speakers. It is a fact that whoever once hears him comes away an enthusiastic admirer.

His sermons are a delightful mixture of pathos, eloquent oratory and wit, and express throughout a broad-minded, liberal religious thought that it is a pleasure to listen to and contemplate. His audiences are kept in a state of constant attention and are often spell-bound by the bursts of eloquent pathos and oratory with which the gifted speaker's sermons are filled.

In Mr. Kilgo Trinity college has procured a man for president whose equal it is hard and whose superior it is impossible to find in or outside the state. The Trinity students are carried away with him and love him as a fellow student. He is loved here. It is to be hoped that this distinguished divine will soon visit Raleigh again.

Bishop Chestnut preached yesterday morning at the church of the Good Shepherd. He is now a resident of Raleigh.

Judge Thomas C. Fuller is here, having come from Santa Fe, New Mexico. He has recently been on a business trip to the City of Mexico.

Seldom has there been more interest in regard to an election than at present, and yet the most of it has been aroused during the past six days.

One of the big musical events of the season will be the grand concert given by the New York Celebrities next Thursday evening at the academy of music.

This afternoon at 5:30 the directors of the Citizen's national bank will elect a president to succeed the late Dr. W. J. Hawkins. Messrs. A. B. Andrews, B. H. Battle, Joseph G. Brown and A. B. Hawkins are most prominently named in connection with the position.

THE TAR HEELS WON.

Georgetown Defeated by a Score of 20 to 4.

The University boys have redeemed themselves in the eyes of their friends by the handsome walloping they gave the Georgetown college football eleven at Washington, D. C., Saturday last. The weather was raw and chilly and the ground in an awful condition. Nevertheless hundreds of football enthusiasts, including many ladies, turned out to see the Carolina boys "do themselves proud."

Two thirty minute halves were played and when time was called the score read 20 to 4 in Carolina's favor. The Tar Heels showed their superiority from the kick-off and Georgetown was never in the hunt. The team work of the University eleven showed up better than it has in any game this season. The feature of the game was the phenomenal playing of Guion, the big left guard of the University team. During the game he made no less than five long and brilliant runs, several times dragging two or three of the Georgetown players along with him for yards. To his fine play more than to any one man was the University's victory due. Due credit must be given however to the excellent interference of the entire Tar Heel team which enabled Guion to do so well. Mahoney and Carmody did most of the playing for Georgetown.

During their northern trip the University boys have met three of the strongest minor northern teams. They have scored on Lehigh, played Rutgers an exceedingly close game and overwhelmingly defeated Georgetown; an excellent record and one that assures their friends that, if they do not win the Virginia game on Thanksgiving they will not be the only ones to lose some feathers.

MR. F. F. ELLIS DEAD.

This morning at his home in West Raleigh, near the A. & M. College Mr. F. F. Ellis died. He was 72 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. at his residence, followed by the burial at Oakwood cemetery. All friends are invited to be present.

RALEIGH'S SCHOOLS.

The Washington School for Colored Children.

A reporter called at the large Washington school this morning and found teachers and pupils absorbed in school work. The Washington school is open to children of the colored race of both sexes and has now an enrollment of 520 pupils. To manage this formidable number of children eight teachers, besides superintendent Davis, are employed. They are Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. King, Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Pegues, Miss Mitchell, Miss Hackney and Miss Love. They are all colored and this is an admirable arrangement for colored schools for, when the instructors are capable, as in this instance, it is much better to have the teachers of the same race as the pupils. White teachers, however well qualified for the work they may be, cannot have the same sympathy with colored children as can teachers of their own race. The same "college system" that is used in both the Centennial and Murphey schools prevails in the Washington instead of the old graded system.

It is good to see the colored people of Raleigh taking advantage of the opportunities given them to educate their children. The colored public schools are doing a great work in educating and enlightening the negro race and fitting the coming colored generation to be good and intelligent citizens.

MR. J. A. HENLEY, FORMERLY OF RALEIGH, DEAD.

Mr. James A. Henley, of Franklinton, who had been ill for several weeks with typhoid pneumonia, died last evening. Mr. Henley was a former resident of this city. He was a very popular young man. He was about 35 years old. His many friends will be pained to hear of his untimely death. He leaves a wife and several children.

"You pay your money and you take your choice." Democratic state chairman Poy says his party's ticket will be elected by thirty thousand majority. The Progressive Farmer today says the fusionists will win by not less than 20,000 and perhaps 30,000 or 40,000.

The Governor has received $106.70 from Edgecombe county for the Vance monument fund.
