A great effort will be made to get the legislature to revive the office of public printer, which two years ago was abolished.

The young czar of Russia is suffering from insomnia, but he is a little-crowded at present, having taken the job of ruling a sixth of the earth and getting married in the same month.

The new navy now consists of four first-class and two second-class battleships, two armored cruisers, six coast and one harbor defense vessels, sixteen cruisers, nine gunboats, one dynamite gunboat, and six torpedo boats.

The five civilized tribes of Indians in the Indian territory are marshaling their influences and their attorneys at Washington to fight legislation looking to the dissolution of the tribal system.
They are relying on the shortness of the session to help them through.

A leading baker in New York offers to make a contract to supply bread in large quantities at 2 1/2c for an 18-ounce loaf. Wheat is down in price for an indefinite time apparently, and signs of a cheaper bread supply are now to be observed in all the cities.

Joseph Brown, Georgia's war governor and ex-senator, died at his home in Atlanta yesterday. He was one of the most striking figures in the history of the south. He was twice governor and was also chief justice and United States senator. He was a successful business man and worth $3,000,000.
His age was 73.

The Shoe and Leather bank of New York yesterday offered $5,000 reward for the arrest of Seely, its defaulting cashier. He is in Canada. His photograph is identified by the employees of the train on which he went to that country. Ten indictments have been handed down against him by the grand jury. Detectives are on his track with warrants.

Wei-Hai-Wei, which the Japs will next attack, is the great military arsenal of China, but it is not nearly so strongly fortified nor so important from a strategic standpoint as Port Arthur. No doubt exists in well-informed circles that Pekin will be in the hands of the Japanese within a fortnight or so, unless the negotiations for peace are agreed upon in the interim.

Kolb, of Alabama, will be wiser than his Rhode Island prototype, Dorr.
His designs on the governorship will not reach the "rebellion" stage.
"Dorr's Rebellion" occurred in 1842.
Both Dorr and King went through the form of inauguration on the same day, as Kolb and Oates will if Kolb carries out his programme. The national government recognized King as governor, as it will do in the case of Oates if there be any contest: King was furnished aid by the government, as Oates will be if he asks for it. Of course Dorr was beaten, though without any serious resistance on his part, and on his trial for high treason he was sentenced to imprisonment for life, but after being locked up for about three years he was released.

Bradstreet's today says: "There is no general or radical improvement in business at the south, the southwest or the northwest. But in the central western states, and particularly at some important cities in the old middle and New England states, the reverse is true, a material gain in demand for many reasonable staples having shown itself with a corresponding increase in volumes of goods distributed or orders for future delivery."

A New England exchange, in speaking of the prosperity of the South, says that it is due in no little measure to the great efforts on the part of its people to develop their section. But back of all this, it says, is the supreme faith in their great natural advantages, which only need development to produce the most ample return in the way of riches; consequently, to a man they are at work to open up their resources in every direction.

There is a strong probability that Georgia will have in full operation a dispensary system similar to that established in South Carolina. The Bush dispensary bill has been pending before the general assembly for several days, and the senate temperance committee agrees to report a substitute providing that in incorporated towns where liquor is now allowed to be sold a vendor may sell it only on a petition of a majority of the freeholders of the town or city to the mayor and council. He shall then give bond to the ordinary in the sum of $5,000 for the faithful observance of the law. He shall pay $100 to the state and all municipal and national taxes for one year. He shall only purchase liquor to sell which has been pronounced by the state chemist pure and unadulterated, and to retail in quantities not less than one-half pint and shall not sell to minors or habitual drunkards. No liquor shall be drunk on the premises.

GIRL AND MAN DEAD

And the Throats of Both Cut—A Ghastly Discovery.

WATERNS DEPOT, N. Y., Nov. 30.— Yesterday morning Jennie Caldwell, employe of the hotel Kendall, went to the room occupied by Kate Quirk, another employe, to call her. She did not receive any answer. It was found murder and suicide had been committed. On the front side of the bed lay the dead body of Kate Quirk.
A large carving knife was on the bureau at the foot of the bed. This knife had been stuck into the girl's throat and then turned and withdrawn.
She was undressed and covered partially with the bed clothes. On the other side of the bed lay Charles N.
Richards, a restaurant keeper and former landlord of the Jefferson house.
He lay in a pool of blood, as his throat was cut in a very ragged manner. He was unconscious but was breathing.
The girl had evidently been dead some hours. There was a large pool of blood on the floor, and it looked as if Richards had held the girl on the floor and cut her throat. There is a mark on her neck as if she were choked to prevent her making an outcry. The only blood in the bed is the pool in which Richards was found lying.
Richards was found to be under the influence of morphine. He died without regaining consciousness.
This morning he got a small bottle of laudanum from a druggist, and went back to the hotel. It is the general belief that he had killed the girl before that time, returning after purchase of the drug. The intimacy between Richards and Kate Quirk had been a matter of town talk.

Made Sick by Red Pepper.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Pupils of Shiloh colored Baptist church arranged last night for an anniversary entertainment. The Broadway athletic club was downstairs. Some members secured cayenne pepper, a tin pail and a poker. The poker they heated, the pepper was placed in the pail and then the poker was added.
The result was a sickening smoke that scattered the audience, and made the children so ill that several vomited blood. Two of them it is feared, will die. Warrants are out for the arrest of the club members.
