A SPICY-STORY

If variety is the spice of life our stock must come pretty near being all spice, as we have the greatest variety of the best goods to be found in the city of oaks. As an evidence of the necessity of our closing out at heavy weight woolens we are now receiving small shipments of dress goods for early spring wear and are now showing an early shipment of all of the latest novelties in laces, edgings, embroideries, etc.

To make room for the largest and handsomest spring stock it has been our pleasure to show in Raleigh, we have marked down every article in la dies, misses and children's furnishings. These closing prices apply a's to men's and boys' woolen underwear and all heavy woolen dress tabrics, flannels, cleaking, etc., as well as ladies' wraps, men's and boys' overcoats, etc.

In clothing for men, youth's and boys we have determined that both suits, overcoats and single pants must go, if price will move them. we aroffering these goods at, in many in stances, below cost. As we do not intend to keep up our crockery and glassware department this entire stock is now offered at prime cost.

The little word of such great meaning to you (cost) is also attached to our heavy woolen piece goods, blankets, quilts, etc. We have just received a lot consisting of 250 pieces straw matting in the latest designs, and are offering our entire stock of carpets, rugs, etc., at special prices to close.

Are you a walker? Are you a representative? Are you a business man? Always on the hustle? Do you wear out shoes fast? Too fast? Faster than you ought to? Do you know why? You don't get the right kind. You may pay enough for them. That's no sign. See our line for msn, ladies, misses and children. We have the kind that wear well and will make you prices to please.

Respectfully, D. T. SWINDRLL, 106 Payetteville st., Raleigh, N. C.

TO THE COURT.

The Presentation of the Portrait of Judge Rodman

This morning at 10 o'clock the handsome supreme court room was, well filled with a number of people who had come there to listen to the memorial addresses on the occasion of the presentation to the court of a portrait of the late Judge William Blount Rodman, of Washington.

The first speaker was Judge George H. Brown, of Washington, who madan excellent address, picturing in glowing terms the many good qualities of Judge Rodman, as a jurist, philosopher and husband and father. in the city. He said that Judge Rodman was born a judge; with him impartiality was an intellectual endowment,

He was followed by Mr. Warren, of Washington, who also spoke well in praise and honor of the memory of the distinguished judge. He told of his many patriotic acts, of his sound judicial temperment, of his long connection with the supreme court of North Carolina, and rived this afternoon. of his honorable and manly character.

The presentation addresses were closed by a speech by Mr. Small, of Washington, who spake briefly but well, reciting gracefully a short sketch of Judge Rodman's life and his many admirable characteristics.

Chief Justice Faircloth then responded in a short talk on behalf of the supreme court. He accepted with thanks the portrait and ordered it hung on the wall in an appropriate place. Judge Faircloth was of the famous court of which Judge Gaston was chief justice and of which also was judge Rodman.
