RALEIGH, N. C., FEBRUARY 15 1895

Chesapeake bay is frozen from shore to shore.

Abraham Lincoln's birthday was celebrated in nearly all parts of the country on Tuesday.

United States minister to Mexico, Isaac Gray, who was attacked with double pneumonia died yesterday.

The Brooklyn street car strikers have given up, and are applying for their old positions by the hundreds.

The United States is borrowing money to pay peace expenses than Japan and China combined are to carry on their war.

Famine has threatened some districts of Hungary, and a great deal of disorder prevails in consequence. The socialists have taken advantage of the situation to incite rioting.

A little over twelve months hence delegates to the national convention will begin to be chosen. Let presidential aspirants remember that the eyes of the people are on them these days.

Gold has started from England to the United States in a large stream, and the treasury reserve will soon begin to increase. Let us hope that this is the last time that that fund will go down to low figures.

Returns from the savings banks show that the rate of the interest in Massachusetts has declined to 4.05 per cent. In most of the states the amount on deposit in savings institutions is steadily increasing.

The gold withdrawal from the treasury has not gone abroad. It has been hoarded by the banks. The object was to force congress to pass the fifty-year bond bill, or, failing that, to justify Mr. Cleveland in issuing more bonds on his own responsibility.

Hundreds of hungry wolves from the Alps have invaded the plains in Northern Italy, and several villagers have been killed by them. The authorities have sent troops to shoot them and many have thus been destroyed.

The Newfoundland government has been compelled by circumstances to guarantee the currency of the broken banks at a fraction of its face value, varying from 20 to 80 per cent. The price in this currency of a barrel of flour is $30, molasses $2 a gallon, and a small roast of beef $4.

Debs has been brought to the surface for a moment by his own testimony the other day that his salary as president of the American railway union was $9,000 a year. It will be observed that Mr. Debs did not carry on his millennium deal entirely for his health.

Frederick Villiers, a noted war correspondent and artist, who has been through nine different campaigns, is back in London, having left China as an unprofitable field. He says the Chinese are not good material for soldiers, and are densely ignorant of modern modes of warfare.

The proposed combination of the anti-Tillman democrats and republicans in South Carolina is full of interesting possibilities. Tillman has practically been master of the situation in the Palmetto state for the past four years. He put himself in the governorship in 1890 and sent Irby, one of his lieutenants, to the senate to succeed Wade Hampton.

Yesterday morning at New Orleans it began snowing heavily and continued with intermission until 7 o'clock last evening. There was a heavy snow in 1881 and previous to that in 1852, but it is thought this is the heaviest on record. At least nine inches of snow have fallen. Street cars were abandoned on all roads all over the city last night, and not a car is moving.

The gold bond bill is dead. Yesterday the house put an end to all hope of financial legislation by a vote of 120 to 167. The opposition was even stronger and more aggressive than on the Springer bill. The president was attacked and his motives questioned. There were dark hints of impeachment. The debate was an interesting one, and a great crowd was present to hear it. Congressman Hopkins asserted that the president was not inspired by patriotic motives but by a desire to unload upon congress the responsibility for a transaction, negotiated by his former law partner, that would net the syndicate represented by him, $25,000,000. Bryan, of Nebraska, declared the scheme proposed in the joint resolution to be but another step in the accomplishment of the conspiracy to strangle silver, and solemnly assured the house that so serious did he consider it to be, that were there any probability of its passage and the forfeiture of his life would prevent it, he would gladly lay down his life in that behalf.

In one year the gold production of Colorado has jumped from $7,802,000 to $12,499,000.

Boston prides itself on the fact that it still has one street car line whose cars have straw sprinkled on the floor.

Girls Who Attract Men.

The girls who attract the best men are almost always a source of surprise to their feminine friends, who are often lost in wonder as to why so many more patent charms should have passed over in such selections. It is the little mouse of a woman, the shrinking, shy creature left in the back ground by her bolder sisters, we constantly see brought to the front by the man who has won her love. And men prefer to any such coquetish invitation as that extended by Mrs. Bond, of the nursery rhyme to her ducks, when deceiving them to come and be killed, the uncertainty hanging around a being to whom they have to sue.

Every man's ideal of a wife—I mean the normal, honest citizen of our republic, who lines stones to support its bulwark—is a girl who may be pretty, who might be brilliant, but who must be good. He also recognizes instinctively that her graces should not be too costly to wear every day. That she shall be cheerful of temper, inclined to take short views of human infirmity, and sound of health, he is apt gravely to consider, within himself, as essential. If all those who, before marrying, omitted to think about these things had done so, it is possible we should hear less today of the incompatibility of man and woman.—Ladies Home Journal.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. Hal Bobbitt, Druggist.

It is Said

"Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them." This is a great truth, and one that is often forgotten. It is not the man who is born great, but the man who achieves greatness, who is truly great. It is not the man who has greatness thrust upon him, but the man who achieves greatness, who is truly great.

One Great President

He is said to have, as his constant companion, the Cyclopaedia Britannica. He is even said to have kept a set in his private car while making a campaign tour. This mark of diligence and intelligence made him a great man, and one who is truly great.
