

EVENING VISITOR.

VOL. XXXII.

RALEIGH, N. C., FRIDAY, MARCH 8, 1895.

NO. 102

For the New Year.

We are not cleaning out a lot of old books and shopworn stationery, but we are cleaning out some of the most readable books, in stylish bindings, you ever saw.

The best of ink and the best of pens help the fingers to help the brain to do some good work.

We have just stocked upon Blank Books, Day Books, Ledgers, Pass Books and everything a business man wants to begin a new year's work.

OBJECTION TO ROBERTS.

Republicans Speak Against Him, Charging Forgery 24 Years Ago. Yesterday afternoon the committee on the election of justices of the peace held a meeting here.

Mr. Roberts arose to defend himself. He said that in 1871 he was arrested, charged with forgery, and released on bail, given by influential citizens.

Mr. Gorman Denies the Charges.

Mr. Maxwell Gorman writes the Visitor a letter in which he declares that the statements made that he injured his infant child are unfounded.

Among the curiosities in the jail is a woman who was put in for fighting. During her stay in jail she has made quite a little sum of money by knitting.

CLASS LEGISLATION.

An Extremist Measure About Mortgages Passes the Senate. A bill has been passed through the senate giving mortgagors the time of two years in which to redeem their mortgages.

The sheriff has already been approached by those who want tickets to see George Mills hung. It does seem that however much morbid curiosity one might have, he would at least wait until a pardon was refused or the day set for execution.

Tom Hill is a "finder." He finds more things than everyone else here combined. Bull pups, setter dogs, watches, everything lost finds its way to Tom's hands.

Capt. Roberts took occasion to reprove some boisterous little pages this morning and one of them was very impudent to him. The boys could be made to behave or should be kept within the houses, one or the other.

Deputy collector W. F. Gibson reports to collector Simmons the seizure and destruction, near Carver in Moore county, of a 60-gallon illicit copper distillery and an outfit, with 340 gallons of beer and 34 of spirits.

Mr. O. W. Belvin is receiving daily fresh fish and oysters and selling them at reduced rates.

POLLS CLOSED.

MANY NEWS BALLOTS FELL IN THE BOX. THOUGH.

Contributed by People of Every Creed and Party.

Representative Duffy is quite ill at his room in the Yarboko hotel. Dr. Knox is attending him.

Two more convicts arrived at the penitentiary from Pender and Craven counties yesterday afternoon.

Last evening a bill went through the legislature perfecting the charter of the Raleigh electric company.

The Confederate monument bill will come up for its second and last reading at the night session this evening, probably.

In the house today there was a hot debate on the bill to abolish the criminal court of New Hanover county and to change Wilmington's charter.

The house of a Mr. Jones, in Buckhorn township, was entered last evening and nearly all his provisions, &c., were stolen.

A negro man was before the mayor this morning charged with assault and battery but there was no evidence against him and he was discharged.

Mr. G. O. and Robert Foster have bought the mills at Morganton, formerly owned by Col. Wilson, and will operate them.

About the Gorman matter: The Visitor published what was told by Mrs. Gorman to Mayor Badger, before her husband was sent to jail.

The stillness of the atmosphere was so great today that the barometer on the experimental station actually ceased to revolve, a thing that is rarely seen.

This morning there arrived here a car load of mules for Mr. J. M. Pace. That gentleman has for several weeks been selling a car load a week.

The flag on the capitol this morning was hung wrong, union down. A gentleman, a democrat, who saw it looked twice and remarked, "got up the distress signal, I see."

One poor drunk, who nearly walked policeman Beasley to death by his zigzag course in getting to the station house late yesterday afternoon, was tried by Mayor Badger this morning and given twelve hours.

Representative Lineback, of Forsythe, is making a record for himself by his utter disregard for partisan lines in voting. He votes just as Mr. Lineback thinks—regardless of party or constituents.

A colored man, Jesse Holmes, was badly hurt last night in a peculiar way. He awoke, suffering from a nightmare, and in his fright jumped from bed. His head struck the floor and was badly cut. Jesse is again in bed.

The sheriff has already been approached by those who want tickets to see George Mills hung. It does seem that however much morbid curiosity one might have, he would at least wait until a pardon was refused or the day set for execution.

Tom Hill is a "finder." He finds more things than everyone else here combined. Bull pups, setter dogs, watches, everything lost finds its way to Tom's hands.

MOONSHINERS AMUCK.

Deputies Exciting Experience—A Horse Who Ran 27 Miles.

"That was a running horse" said revenue clerk Steed yesterday afternoon, as he perused a letter from a deputy collector. His surprised exclamation, accompanied at the same time by a meditative whistle, thoroughly awoke the office.

On Wednesday deputy Troy and posse left Carthage, in Moore county to hunt for the still of a notorious moonshiner, William Richardson.

None of the moonshiners were captured but the distilling apparatus is in jail at Carthage.

CLASS LEGISLATION.

A bill has been passed through the senate giving mortgagors the time of two years in which to redeem their mortgages. Strange to say the bill, which is an extreme populist measure, and one calculated to do mortgagors and, indirectly, the mortgagors great injury, passed the senate almost without opposition.

Strange to say the bill, which is an extreme populist measure, and one calculated to do mortgagors and, indirectly, the mortgagors great injury, passed the senate almost without opposition.

It was said this morning that the bill had been acted on in a fusion caucus but this a well posted populist denied.

THE WEATHER

The Conditions and the Forecast. For North Carolina: Generally fair, colder. Local forecast for Raleigh and vicinity: Showers tonight. Fair, colder by Saturday afternoon.

FOLK LORE, THIS.

BRIEF AND TO THE POINT. THE MENTION IS.

You See Them as They Are, Plain and Unadorned

Mr. Harry Ibric arrived here from his home in Pittsboro this morning.

Mr. P. M. Pearsall, of Newberne, arrived here this morning.

Mr. J. H. Bridgers, of Henderson, is in the city today, at the Yarboko.

Col. Julian S. Carr arrived this morning from Durham.

Mrs. William A. Guthrie arrived here this afternoon from Durham.

Rev. Mr. Holden, of Jonesboro, is in the city this Friday.

Mr. H. G. Connor, Jr., Sophomore editor of the University magazine, is in the city in the interests of that publication.

The following Durhamites came down in a "lump" today: E. J. Parish, S. G. Morgan, W. P. Henry, F. L. Fuller.

Mr. R. S. Busbee, of the University, who is alternate to F. L. Cook for a cadetship at West Point, arrived here this morning to prepare for his examination.

Mr. Charles L. Stevens, the editor of the Southport Leader, who has been visiting his friend, Col. F. A. Olds for a week, viewing the legislature, returned home this morning.

ACCOUNTS DIDN'T TALLY.

And On Account of This J. W. Allen is in Jail—Story of a Mortgaged Mule. This afternoon J. W. Allen, a white farmer who has an honest and intelligent looking face, was brought here from Middle Creek township and put in jail.

Some time ago he purchased a mule from a neighbor giving a mortgage as security. A provision of the sales however was that Allen could pay the purchase money by hauling his neighbor lumber at so much a load.

His neighbors give him a good character and he will doubtless soon be free on bail.
