

THE LEGISLATURE

TODAY'S PROCEEDINGS IN BOTH BRANCHES.

SENATE.

In the senate the bill to abolish the offices of county boards of education and county superintendent of public instruction came up on 3d reading. A hot debate followed. An amendment was sent up to allow superior court clerks to appoint the county examiner provided for by the bill. This was adopted. Davis's amendment to except Mecklenburg was lost. The bill passed third reading 27 to 7. Dowd, Adams, Fowler, Green, Mercer, Mitchell and Sanders voting no.

Bill to appoint seven directors and state proxy for the North Carolina railway, was tabled. It was attacked by Hoover, Populist, and White, of Alamance, as a bad bill. The bill proposed to give George H. Smathers great powers as state's proxy. An effort to take the bill from the table failed.

Bills passed raising the age of consent, to limit punishment for larceny of property under $200 limits to 1 year imprisonment.

A resolution was adopted appropriating $10,000 to complete the basement of the governor's mansion.

HOUSE.

In the house a bill to legalize cock-fighting was tabled.

Bill passed fixing bonds of county officers; sheriffs at $5,000; register of deeds $10,000; clerk of court $15,000; coroner $2,000; constables $1,000; treasurer 25 per cent of the taxes.

Bill to amend the charter of Atlantic and N. C. railway passed second reading, all amendments being voted down. Williams, of Craven, republican, attacked the bill saying it was an attempt to steal the road.

Gov. Carr sent in a special message, saying the appropriation made for the penitentiary was totally inadequate.

A resolution that no member of this legislature shall be elected to any office during the session was introduced.

Bill to establish the office of insurance commissioner passed second reading by a party vote. Ray filed a protest.

Bill passed incorporating Charlotte and Mecklenburg railway.

A PARAMOUR IN THE PLOT.

Shocking Murder of Two Children by a Guilty Woman.

PARIS, TEXAS, March 11.—On the charge of murdering her two children, aged 4 years and 1 year, Mrs. Mary Caruthers is in jail here, with her paramour, James Strange, who was employed on her husband's farm.

Friday night Mrs. Caruthers went to her room, which the children also occupied. Next morning when Caruthers awoke he heard heavy breathing in his wife's room, and entered to learn the cause. There he found his two little boys in a deep stupor, from which he was unable to awaken them. Medical aid was summoned but they both died. Mrs. Caruthers at first declared that she gave them some chill tonic, but later confessed that she had tried to kill them, declaring that she did so to get them out of their trouble and said it was her intention to kill herself. She said that it was the fourth time she had tried to kill them.

Letters and other evidence in the possession of the officers show that there was a conspiracy between her and Strange to murder the children and leave the country. She is about 35 years of age and fairly good looking, while he is about 30 and uncouth. On the way here the woman made a desperate effort to leap from the train, but was prevented by the guard.
