INCREASE OF SCHOOL TAX.

In Forty Counties the People Have to Vote on it.

The late legislature passed an important act relative to the public schools, requiring the question of school taxation for public education to be voted on at the next election for members of the legislature and biennial thereafter by each township, city and town not already levying a special tax for schools. This special levy to be voted on is 20 cents on the $100 of property and 60 cents on each poll. The original bill, which applied to every county, was amended so that 56 counties were excepted, this leaving the act in force in the counties of Alexander, Beaufort, Bladen, Burke, Cabarrus, Caldwell, Carteret, Cherokee, Clay, Dare, Davidson, Davie, Duplin, Gaston, Graham, Guilford, Harnett, Haywood, Henderson, Jackson, Macon, Madison, Mitchell, Montgomery, Orange, Pamlico, Pender, Polk, Rutherford, Stanly, Stokes, Swain, Yakin and Yancey. Wherever this special tax will be voted it will greatly increase the efficiency of the public schools and it is probable that the people will vote the tax in a number of the counties named. There was already a law allowing the county commissioners, upon petition of one-third of the free-holders, to order an election to levy a special tax of 10 cents on property and 30 cents on polls, but the new law requires the election without petition, and for twice the amount of special tax. This is a very important matter.

To the Voters of the Third Ward.

On account of the deception and treachery practiced before and during the recent primary by others associated on the ticket with me, I declined to run on said ticket and feel justified in announcing myself as an independent candidate for alderman in this ward. My record shows for itself and if reelected, I promise to support all vigorous, progressive measures in the interest of the city of which I am a citizen and a tax payer. I ask the support of all my friends. E. V. DENTON.

THE OAKES CASE.

A FULL STATEMENT IS NOW MADE AS TO IT.

Oakes is in a Keeley Institute in Virginia.

Rev. P. McIntire, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Fayetteville, writes the Wilmington Messenger as follows:

"That Mr. Oakes was under the influence of intoxicating liquor on the train is true. I first met him in 1893, and since then have been quite intimate with him and have had opportunities of learning a great deal of his past life. Some of these facts will be necessary here, that his friends, and he has made many in the state, may be able to judge of the extent and cause of his recent lapse from sobriety. He is a native of Ireland, where he and his father were managers of estates near Dublin. Raised in an atmosphere where temperance was unknown, from infancy he learned to know and love intoxicating drinks. The education, added to an inherited thirst, made him an easy prey to drink. In his youth and early manhood he was a wild, dissipated man. For months at a time he was never sober. Position after position of trust and advantage to himself was thrown away in the mad chase for rum—the influence of which at last drove him from friends and home, a restless wanderer over the world. Coming to New York, he strayed into an evangelistic meeting. There he was arrested in his wild career, and reclaimed and gave himself to the work of reclaiming others.

"He returned on his second visit to this state early last October, and since his return had been, with very little rest, laboring as a Bible teacher. During this time he has held meetings in eleven towns, conducting two services a day for eleven or twelve days, making about two hundred and fifty in all. This incessant strain made havoc with his nervous system—so much so that on his visit to Fayetteville, which he made his headquarters, his friends warned him of the danger of overwork. His last meeting, of nearly three weeks' duration, was conducted in the Baptist tabernacle at Raleigh. On his return from this work we all noticed a great change in his appearance. He was haggard and hollow-eyed, moody, dejected and restless. On the night of April 8, he left for Washington, but on reaching Goldsboro he went to the hotel, and unable longer to resist the tempter, began to drink. The sequel is known. His old enemy slew him again. He, after sixteen years of total abstinence, was once more a victim of whiskey. Men who have been slaves of this habit will understand his situation. In our community, where he is best known in the state, Mr. Oakes today stands well. Professors of religion and those outside the church, alike appreciate the fact that his fall was unintentional, unpremeditated, and the result of a strained, over wrought nervous condition. Dr. J. M. Faison says that Mr. Oakes is now undergoing treatment at a Keeley institute in Virginia."

Quite a Change of School Officials.

Mr. Scarborough, state superintendent of public instruction, says that the county boards of education and county superintendents all go out of office the first Monday in June. Their powers cease that day, and on it they can do nothing save turn over their offices to the county commissioners. The latter will the same day appoint the new school committees under the new law.

THE PENITENTIARY.

BOTH SETS OF DIRECTORS IN SESSION TODAY.

The Kitchen Board Made Another Demand for Admission to the Penitentiary.

This morning, on the early train James A. Cheek, one of the board of directors elected by the legislature, arrived here. This made eight of these present. The ninth one, R. L. Herbert, declined to come. He had openly stated that he did not believe the board was legally elected. It was said that Cheek would not vote for W. H. Kitchen, but he did. The formal election of the latter as general agent was held. The board voted to create the office of supervisor and he was also elected to this, so his full title is supervisor and general agent. The board also elected an executive committee, composed of Dockery, McCaskey, Taylor, Hahn and Hoover. Dockery was made chairman of this committee. At 11:30 o'clock a committee composed of Dockery, McCaskey, Taylor, Hahn and Hoover. Dockery was made chairman of this committee. At 11:30 o'clock a committee composed of Dockery, McCaskey, Taylor, Hahn and Hoover. Dockery was made chairman of this committee. At 11:30 o'clock a committee composed of Dockery, McCaskey, Taylor, Hahn and Hoover. Dockery was made chairman of this committee.

The executive committee had a session. Hahn, one of the board, left at 1 o'clock this afternoon for his home, Newbern. The board did not elect any other officer except Kitchen. The executive committee is given full authority to elect other officers, etc.

The regularly qualified democratic board resumed its session at 9:30 o'clock this morning, fourteen of its fifteen members being present. A. B. Young, who was chairman of the former board of five members, is continued as presiding officer.

State treasurer Worth declines to pay any penitentiary warrants until the courts decide which of the two boards is the legal one. He says he paid them up to yesterday.

The democratic officials say that the supreme court has again and again decided that where there is a de facto government of an institution it must be recognized, and that the board in session at the penitentiary is the de facto one and that superintendent Leszar's warrants must continue to be duly honored, or if the state treasury refuses to honor them he will be forcibly compelled by mandamus to do so. Senator Butler, who had been here a couple of days, helping the fusion board with advice, left for home this afternoon.

While the committee of the Kitchen board was at the penitentiary it served a summons on the de facto board. Kitchen is sanguine that he will win his fight, but some members of his board are by no means so sanguine. All the members of the Kitchen board have now gone home. The democratic board disposed of all its business today.
