It is now alleged that the Japanese may attempt to take the Sandwich islands.

The new silver party is having the wind taken out of its sails by the activity of the free coinage element of the democratic party.

Gov. Altgeld of Illinois enjoys the distinction, such as it is, of being the only all-round crank who now holds the office of governor.

The Standard oil trust will try to get around paying the income tax by entering the unique plea that oil from the ground is in the nature of rent.

German papers now declare that Germany will oppose any cession of territory to Japan by China. Russian and English papers say the same thing. Will Japan heed any of them?

The U. S. supervising architect has returned to Washington from Atlanta, and he says the cotton states exposition is going to be a good second to the centennial exposition at Philadelphia.

Webster Flanagan, of Texas, is on trial for smuggling sheep from Mexico. He is the man who asked the famous political question at one of the republican national conventions: "What are we here for if not for the offices?"

No interruption has occurred in the business improvement. Prices on the speculative exchanges continue above the mark of a few weeks ago, and the drift is toward a higher level. Cotton and petroleum have advanced many points.

The distance electric energy generated by water may be transmitted is an unsolved problem, but it is known that it is effective for at least thirty miles. It is highly probable that with proper appliances it can be sent hundreds of miles.

Of the 6,970 new post-offices established in the United States in the last four years, 4,496 are in the south. This affords striking evidence of the increase of population in the south and of the business development of this section.

The Georgia state medical association has expelled Dr. Ballard, a prominent eye and throat specialist, for advertising in the newspapers. What seems to have aggravated his offence in the eyes of the association is that Dr. Ballard used cuts in his ads.

Mention has been made of the remarkable advance in the price of meat, owing to the operation of the cattle trust. Now leather has advanced 15 per cent, and the price of shoes has gone up correspondingly. This is one of the greatest and worst of all the trusts which afflict this country.

In the war with China, just ended, the Japanese troops have conducted themselves with marked fidelity and enthusiasm. Their discipline has been equal to that of the best-drilled soldiers of Europe or America, and in no emergency have they been found wanting. They would have conquered, it is easy to believe, if the opposition had been much more formidable. The existence of such an army vindicates the right of Japan to be considered a first class nation.

A Chicago daily paper offers to authors $30,000 for original stories no part of which have ever been published. The first prize is $10,000, the other nine being smaller. The stories are required to be "stories of mystery," so readers may be offered prizes for guessing the solutions of the mysteries in advance of their publication.

There is a sensation at New York. Col. Waring, a federal veteran, attacks the Grand Army of the Republic, saying that organization has, in his judgment, sold itself for cash to the claim agents of Washington, and that because of its nefarious action the workmen of this country are now paying annually $100,000,000 more in pensions than they ought to be paying.

Europe awaits with the keenest interest authentic news of the treaty of peace between Japan and China. The matter is regarded by the great powers as of graver importance than any other diplomatic event since the Berlin treaty was signed. Now that the war has ended in a manner such as no European prophet foretold, there are not wanting expressions of regret in all the great capitals that lord Rosebery's advice to the powers to interfere at the outset was not acted upon.

It is reported from Tokio, Japan, that the attempt to assassinate Li Hung Chang, the Chinese envoy, was not the act of a madman, as the Japanese newspapers stated, but the result of a widespread conspiracy, an account of which in the papers was not printed by the government; that immediately after the attack on the Chinese viceroy the police disarmed numerous Japanese citizens known as members of the war party, and that a great many swords were taken from the crowd, which weapons could only have been worn in violation of the law.

Skin Cancer Cured.

Testimony from the Mayor of Seaside, Tex.
SEASIDE, TEX., January 14, 1893.
MRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer of thirty years' standing, and found great relief; it purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the same. I have taken five or six bottles and feel confident that another course will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,
