REV. CARTER ON MR. PULLEN

The Learned Baptist Divine Speaks in Sincere Eulogy.
 At the First Baptist church yesterday Rev. Dr. Carter, the pastor, preached an excellent sermon on missionary work.
 What made his sermon of particular interest to citizens generally was the fact that in illustrating the good name that a cheerful giver leaves behind, he referred feelingly and sincerely to the late Stanhope Pullen, and paid a glowing tribute to the memory of that truly good man. Coming as it did, as a side-light illustration to a sermon, the eulogy was even higher than it would otherwise have been. He referred eloquently to the citizen as a model example of the modest and unassuming "good man," one who gave much, quietly and judiciously, always well.

Burial Service.

The remains of Miss J. Zollie Montague who died in New York City last Saturday were expected to arrive via Seaboard Air Line at 3.30 p. m. but owing to an accident the train was delayed four hours and the burial will take place tomorrow, Tuesday, at 10.30 a. m. Funeral services at the Presbyterian church after which the body will be taken to Oakwood cemetery for interment.

HER'S A TRAGIC DEATH.

MISS MINNIE B. WILKINSON SUICIDES IN CHURCH AT RICHMOND.

Engaged For Fifteen Years. She and Her Lover Quarrel; and She Dies.

RICHMOND, Va., July 1st, '95. Special to the Visitor.

As the congregation of Dr. M. D. Hoge's Second Presbyterian church here was filing out, after the evening's service, the startling report of a pistol rang out from the pews. For a moment the excitement was intense; women and children screamed and ran pell-mell for the doors and there was imminent danger of a serious panic. Near the middle of the church, reclining on a pew, lay Miss Minnie B. Wilkinson, a highly respected and popular Richmond lady. From her light waist the blood oozed slowly out, and at her feet lay a smoking revolver. A physician was hastily summoned, but when he arrived the lady was dead.

Those who sat near her did not notice that she was in any way excited or suffering from any mental derangement. As the benediction was pronounced and the people rose to go, she placed a revolver to her breast and fired. The bullet sped true, straight to her heart, and death was instantaneous.

Tragic as was her death, the causes that led her to take her own life are as full of romance as any fancy of the novelist. Over fifteen years ago, she plighted her troth to Mr. E. B. Marquess and, although they never married, the course of their love ran smooth. For fifteen long years they lived and loved, and their affection lessened the pain of their long life apart.

Two weeks ago they quarrelled and the engagement was broken. It now appears that when the rupture came, there also came a break in the heart of the woman, who loved so long and so patiently.

Miss Wilkinson was thirty-five years old. She was popular and her death saddened many hearts.

A HORRIBLE MISTAKE.

LITTLE THREE-YEAR-OLD BOY KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Engineer Mistakes His Fluttering White Dress for a Newspaper.

Through a horrible mistake of an engineer of the Seaboard Air Line train yesterday, the little three-year-old boy of Mr. Thos. Jones was horribly mangled by a train near Cary.

In the morning the little fellow left his home, in company with several other children, to attend Sunday school. When the service was ended, his companions went to visit some one of the neighbors and the little fellow started home along the railroad track, walking on the ties.

The track where the accident occurred goes down a steep grade and the train breasting the up-grade preceding comes down it at tremendous speed. The engineer of the Seaboard was on the lookout when he reached the top of the grade and started furiously down the decline. Looking from his cab window he glanced down along the glistening rails and saw an apparently clear coast ahead. Far down the track something white was bobbing along, looking for the world like a piece of newspaper, blown in the stiff breeze. Along hummed the train, and nearer and nearer came the supposed newspaper. When almost upon it, the engineer saw that what he had thought was paper, was the white skirt of a toddling baby. Horrified, he sprang to the throttle and so quickly was the locomotive reversed that passengers, thrown from their seats by the shock, thought a collision had occurred.

But the engineer saw his mistake too late. He shut his eyes in horror, and when the train stopped, there lay back on the track-side the mangled remains of what had been a merry yellow-haired boy.

The little one was walking the ties. He was not struck by the cow-catcher, but by the steam chest, on which were scattered the brains and strands of hair of the unfortunate babe.

PRACTISE TEACHERS.

The New System Taught Now in Up-To-Date Schools.

It has been stated recently that when Prof. E. P. Moses leaves in the fall for South Carolina, he might carry with him to assist in his work the several teachers who have been employed in the Raleigh schools. A reporter saw Mr. Moses this morning and asked him whether or not this were so. He received the reply that as far as he knew at present, there was no foundation for the report.

And than the Professor sprung something new in the way of normal school instruction—new to the reporter anyway. This is the system now used in all up-to-date normal colleges of having what all called "practise teachers," and by which pupils, those intending to teach, have practical and actual experience in teaching classes. The idea is for the pupil to himself teach a class in the school, after having mastered something of the theory of instruction. Of course they are in charge of experienced instructors, who aid them by suggestions as to the methods to be employed. When a good system of this nature is in vogue at a school, the result is that the student comes from the institution well versed in the practise as well as the theory of modern pedagogics.

Mr. Moses' work will be in the normal department of the college to which he has been called, and this system is there used. It would naturally be preferable for him to have, as practise teachers, ladies who are acquainted with his methods and he will in all probability have their selections to make.

So it is not at all improbable that some of the excellent instructors in the public schools of this city may be called away to South Carolina, there to teach the idea how to make the young idea shoot.

Misses Emma and Hattie Johnson returned today from a visit, to relatives in Chatham.

KNOCKED HIM DOWN.

GENTLEMAN, INSULTED. "DOES" CONDUCTOR BUNCH.

Manager Keeler and Several Conductors Have Insulted Passengers.

Friday night, when the cars came in from Pullen Park, there was a good deal of excitement at the monument on account of a fight between conductor Burke Bunch and a gentleman who was a passenger from the park.

The conductor, it appears, called the passenger a vile name and the latter thereupon struck him violently in the face, knocking him several feet, against the stationary car. The conductor then picked up the iron switch which controls the current and started for the gentleman, who had turned around. A bystander thereupon stepped in and threw Bunch heavily again.

The trouble started, according to Bunch's story, upon Hillsboro street, where he says the gentleman tried to trip him up. At the square he resorted to cursing, and got knocked down for his trouble. The passenger, on the other hand, says that Bunch jostled him, standing on the step of the crowded car.

Affairs of this nature are becoming entirely too frequent here. The officials of the car company, with only a few exceptions, are gruff, impolite and frequently insulting in their manner. This is the rule from manager down. It is stated generally, in fact, that Manager Keeler encourages conductors to fight, and it is known that he, on one occasion at least, insulted a gentleman, while acting as escort to ladies, and therefore unable to resent it. Some time ago another conductor did a criminal act in attempting to throw a passenger from a rapidly moving car. Both these cases came to Mr. Keeler's notice, yet both conductors seem to be the "pick" of the flock. If there is not improvement in the bearing of the officials, the company will lose the patronage of the better people here.

In the mayor's court this morning both parties to the fight were fined ten dollars. The gentleman against whom a warrant was sworn out for catching Bunch as he made for his opponent, whose back was turned, was properly discharged. Mayor Russ acted within the law; but gentlemen will still continue to resent insults.

Y. M. C. A. ATHLETICS.

There is Soon to be a Meeting of Members for the Formation of Clubs.

As was stated in this paper months ago, a movement is on foot among the members of the Young Men's Christian Association here to form an athletic department, consisting of teams and clubs of all sorts of athletics.

Now, it seems that active steps are at last to be taken. A meeting of the members has been called, and in a few days they will meet, elect officers and organize the clubs and teams.

In this respect the local association has been behind those of other cities, and it is indeed gratifying to see that active steps in this direction are being taken. Nothing so takes hold upon the mind of the healthful young man as healthful and active outdoor sports. The establishment of these teams will work good to both association and members.

REMNANTS.

Brandy deputy Mitchell was here today at work in the revenue office.

Miss May Crawford returned today from pleasant trip to Morehead City.

State Geologist Holmes arrived here this morning, but left at 5 o'clock for Chapel Hill.

Mr. W. E. Christian, of the News and Observer, is at Lexington, where he was summoned as a witness in the Shemwell case. His very creditable write-up at the time caused him to be subpoenaed.

DOTS AND DASHES.

PICKED UP IN RALEIGH AND VICINITY.

The Happenings of a Day Told in Little Space.

Mr. J. W. Mackee, of Durham, is in the city today.

A new curve is being put in on the street car track at the Y. M. C. A. corner.

Miss Lottie Willis of Onslow county, is visiting Mrs. S. S. Coley, on north Wilmington street.

Mrs. George E. Wilson and Miss Annie Wilson, of Charlotte, are visiting Mrs. Charles E. Johnson.

Miss El. Green, who has been visiting Misses Kirby is now visiting Miss Anna Strouach in the northern part of the city.

Mr. A. S. Pollard, a prominent farmer of Cedar Fork township, died at his home last Friday. The funeral was held Saturday at Cary.

The united order of the King's Daughters will meet in the mission rooms Tuesday July 2nd at 1.25 p. m. promptly.

A lawn party will be given tomorrow evening at Mrs. Kaester's on S. West street. The proceeds will be given to the Central mission Sunday school.

Misses Etta Evans and Sarah Burditt, of Petersburg, Va., are visiting in the city, the guests of Mrs. E. C. Owen, corner Salisbury and Martin streets.

Yesterday Mr. Primrose delivered an excellent lecture before the Y. M. C. A. on "The mistakes of Saul." A large number was in attendance and the music and wise counsel made the afternoon both helpful and pleasant.

Mr. W. G. Bishop is not on the roads, as stated in Friday afternoon's Visitor. He was sentenced to thirty days by Mayor Russ, but he afterwards changed the sentence to a fine, and on Mr. Mills' surety Bishop was released.

The condition of Mr. Judson Hubbard, son of Mr. J. N. Hubbard, who has been confined at home for several weeks, near the city on Hillsboro road, continues unimproved. He will be pleased to have his friends call and see him.

The Wilmington Review does up Col. Oids, of the Visitor as follows: "Col. F. A. Oids, 'imitable Fred,' one of the cleverest newspaper men in the state and one of the most genial gentlemen therein under any circumstances, is at Atlantic View, Wrightsville, where Capt. Manning says he is going to try and fatten him up a little—a desperate undertaking, at the best."

While running and jumping yesterday afternoon Tony Beal, about 16 years old, who lives on West Lane street, was overcome by heat and fell to the ground. He was taken in the house and was speechless for some time. Dr. J. W. McKee, Sr., was immediately summoned and pronounced it a very serious case. He is improving, but is still very weak.

Rev. Dr. Pittenger, of the Cathedral church of the Good Shepherd in trends holding a service at his church next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Formerly there was held on each 4th of July a union service of Methodists, Baptist and Presbyterians, at the latter church. This custom, though, has not been observed for some years, and it is with the idea of bringing about a renewal of church recognition of the day, that Rev. Pittenger proposes this service.

"The last legislature passed a law requiring every druggist who sells liquor to pay a fifty dollar license tax. A Visitor reporter asked treasury clerk Potts how many license had been taken out, but he refused to state the number saying that might cause druggists to refrain from paying the license. He said though that "a good many" had procured license. Today it was learned that from the thousands of State druggists fourteen have taken out licenses. The populists expected $50,000 from the law, but the $700 collected looks very unlike this amount."

The Bulletin for June.

"The Bulletin," issued by the agricultural department is out and as usual of much interest.

Commissioner Patterson leads off with a statement, the first he has made since becoming Commissioner. He states that he is deeply impressed with the responsibilities of his office; that he is grateful to the railroads and state papers, specially, for the interest they have shown in the work of the department. It will be his aim to increase the usefulness of the department and to bring it in close touch with the people who are asked to correspond with him and aid in the work.

Farmers are cautioned against buying fertilizers on the bags of which are only tags, without the brand being registered. Every manufacturer is required to have his name stamped on the back of the tag.

A new corn pest, a "borer," is reported from Rockingham. The remedy is a rotation of crops.

The crop reports are of special interest. The changeable weather of the months of May and the first of June did damage. The latter half of June was more favorable. The crops are now doubtless in better condition than when reported. With 100 as the average basis of calculation the condition of crop is as follows: Wheat, 88; oats, 84; rye 87; corn 84; cotton 69; tobacco 84; meadows and pastures 84; of fruits, apples are down to 65 and will go down, peaches, 82, pears 66, plums 80, blackberries 91, cherries 67, raspberries 83. Stock is in good condition.

Correspondence from many counties and articles of interest make the bulletin valuable to both farmers and business men.
