ANOTHER CAROLINA HERO.

Lieut. Cameron McRae Winslow Returns to us as Well as Holston.

Another North Carolina young naval hero is said to be Lieutenant Cameron MacRae Winslow, says the Wilmington Messenger. He commanded the cable cutting expedition. His mother is said to have been born in Wilmington and was a Miss McRae before marriage. Such is the statement of a correspondent of the Asheville Citizen, who writes as follows of the hazards attending the service in which Lieutenant Winslow is engaged:

"Let us not lose sight of the fact that Winslow left the ship, in command of three cutters, under orders to sever the three cables leading from Cienfuegos, and that as he neared shore it was easily perceived that Spanish infantry occupied it, protected by rifle-pits and armed with that deadliest of weapons, the Mauser rifle; that he proceeded under their very muzzles until he could see the whites of their eyes, and for forty minutes, within a hundred yards of the enemy, occupied with his men in felling up the cable, he sustained a galling fire until his work was completed and the two cables cut."

GET PAY TOMORROW

The Paymaster Arrived This Morning

REVIEWING PAY ROLL

Men Will know to-night for What Length of Time They Will receive Money—Muhlenberg a Welcome Visitor.

The men of the Second Regiment are anxious for the sun to set and rise again and the sooner this is done the better it will suit the soldier boys.

Paymaster J. C. Muhlenberg and his private secretary, M. D. Nicholson, arrived on the Southern Railway noon train from Washington and went at once to the Yarrowborough House, where, by order of Col. W. H. S. Burgwyn, Adjutant Gray reported to the paymaster and furnished him with a copy of pay and muster rolls that the work might be quickly dispatched.

Mr. Muhlenberg, with his private secretary, has spent the day comparing the two rolls and it is not known when he will complete the work. However it is thought that by ten o'clock tomorrow he will have completed the work and will be ready to pay the men off. For just what length of time the men will receive pay is not known. The first company was mustered in on the 20th of May and the last on the 27th. It is probable that the men will receive pay from the date of their arrival here.

TO SUGGESTIONS AND ADVERTISEMENTS.

The Times-Visitor now has a large circulation in Raleigh. For local advertisements space in this paper should be sought twice as much as in any other medium.

The price of The Times-Visitor places it within reach of all and our circulation is now about covers the reading public of Raleigh. However, we cannot go to a subscriber four or five times to get his quarter, so the management has adopted this rule. A collector will wait upon a subscriber and if he has not the money will return on a designated day, and if the money is not paid then the amount must be sent to the office or the paper will be stopped. We have been forced to adopt this rule. Don't imagine, however, if you do not receive your paper that it has been stopped by the manager for it is probably the fault of the boy. Notify the office every time you miss a paper.

HARKING ON THE BLOCKADE.

Senor Rodrigo's Plaintive Wail About a Crime Against Humanity.

Madrid, June 23.—In the Senate today Anon, Minister of Marine, announced that the cruiser Reina Cristina had easily entered Cienfuegos, and cited this as proof that the blockade is ineffective. After official dispatches had been read, Senor Fabris made a patriotic speech, invoking the God of armies in behalf of the defenders of Spain's honor and rights.

Senor Rodrigo declared that Europe and the world were committing the most horrible of crimes against humanity in allowing Spain to be vanquished, not by justice, but by brutal force of numbers. A grave danger, he added, would threaten Latin and Slav races if Europe tolerated Anglo-Saxon predominance.

MAKES BAD IMPRESSION.

Madrid Wants to Know How Americans Succeeded in Landing.

London, June 23.—The Mail's Madrid correspondent telegraphs that official dispatches from Cuba have created a bad impression. People are asking how the Americans succeeded in disembarking and seizing on a position in view of the special preparations the Spaniards had made to repel them. On the other hand many experts declare that Spanish tactics is to withdraw from the coast, drawing the enemy inland where they can be surprised and annihilated.

DIED IN THE ASYLUM

W. P. Sawyer, of Hertford, Lost His Life.

FRACTURED HIS SKULL.

He Fell While Running Rapidly in a Hallway and Died a Few Hours Later from Effects of Fractured Skull.

It was learned this morning that on Sunday a terrible accident occurred to one of the inmates at the Central Hospital for the Insane outside of this city.

W. P. Sawyer, an inmate, who came here from Hertford county, has always been afflicted in such a way as to cause him to stumble along as he walks and on Sunday while in his ward he ran along the hall way and stumbled by tripping himself. As he fell his head struck a beam fracturing his skull.

All possible attention was given him and the best medical skill was rendered attempting to save the life of the unfortunate man. He lived a few hours and passed away quietly Sunday night.

His only known relative, a cousin, was notified, but there was no request to have his body sent from this city, soon Monday left town with the usual services the remains were interred in the asylum cemetery. Mr. Sawyer had been an inmate of the Central Hospital for insanity over a year and during that time had made little improvement, his case being a difficult one to treat successfully.

A TALE OF TWO RUNAWAYS.

They wuz coming down the roadway At a fairly lively gait,
Their horses wuz kind of loping,
And the gal sat cross-saddle,
That they hardly could be lovers,
Ez they looked from her face,
Er looking for a preacher,
To get married then and there,
No, it warn't that kind of runaway!

But their fellow in their hurry With the double-decked grin
Ez wuz patting him with terror,
That wuz paralyzing him,
Must be thought that spavined animal,
What wuz mostly lame and skin,
Wuz the most rumbunctious broncho,
That ever laid or bit,
But it warn't that kind of runaway!

But their fellow thought it wuz, And gosh! You ought to hear'd him cry,
To the people on the side-walks:
"Stop him! For God's sake don't let him by!"
When Aunt Mandy waddling home-ward
With her washing on her head
Granted: "Whose horse?" And bless God, she
The animal stopped "dead!"
Golly! It warn't no kind of runaway!

You ought to hear'd the old folks laugh When their news wuz noised 'round,
Since then that fellow's never yet Got a single gal in town,
To go a-driving with him;
The other gal, you see,
Wuz bevelled and bell-huskled so
There's none that wants to be In another such a kind of runaway!

He ain't been driving since And he'd never went with this one 'Xcept 'cause she didn't know
His 'sperience with horses,
Ez she wuz a stranger here,
And had never heard about that drive,
And had no cause to fear,
Just another such a kind of runaway!

Well, he went agin ther' t'other day, And what do you suppose?
Made ther' gal jump out ther' buggy And mudd' up her clothes!
While ther' horse he thought rampaging.
The stopped and looked er 'round To see why in the name of God
The gal wuz on ther' ground!
It's Hell, sich kind of runaways!

SAMPSON CABLES HOBSON IS ALRIGHT.

By Telegram to The Times-Visitor.

Washington, D. C., June 23.—The flag of truce has again been used and notwithstanding Blanco's reported order Admiral Sampson has again communicated with Admiral Cervera by means of the white flag.

The stories of the danger of Hobson and his crew were ended today by the official dispatch to Secretary Long from Admiral Sampson, dated "Off Santiago."

The dispatch states that under a flag of truce today it was learned that Naval Constructor Hobson and his six companions are all well and are confined within the city of Santiago.

This is four miles out of the line of fire and attacks on the forts by our vessels will not subject Hobson and his men to any danger.

Sampson's dispatch was sent in answer to one from Secretary Long, by order of the Senate Resolution calling for information on the subject. The resolution was passed by the Senate on Wednesday.
