HEROES OF WAR AND PEACE

• Ay, that is a star that takes one's breath,
• How the men rowed out in the face of death,
• Rowed as calmly as fishermen may
• Who haul their nets at the break of day,
• But never was fish net hauled in the weather
• That rifle and cannon shelled to
• Rained on those sailors who drew
• From its bed
• The wise sea serpent and crushed
• Its head
• Heroes of war are they! Song and story
• Shall add their names to the list
• Of glory
• But where is the story and where is the song
• For the heroes of peace and the martyrs of wrong
• They fight their battles in shop and mine
• They die at their post and make no sign
• And the living envy the fortunate dead
• As they fight for a pittance of
• Butterless bread,
• They live like beasts in a slaughter
• For men
• They live like cattle and suffer like men
• Why, say they the horrors of such a life
• Like a merry-go-round seems the battle's strife
• And the open sea, and the open boat
• And the deadly cannon with belching throat
• Oh! what are they all, with death thrown in,
• To the life that has nothing to lose or win
• The life that has nothing to hope for or gain
• But ill-paid labor and beds of pain
• Fame, where is your story and where is your song
• For the martyrs of peace and the victims of wrong
• Ella Wheeler Wilcox in
• The New York Journal.

There is many a penny for the government between the beer glass and the lip, says an exchange.

The use by Spain of brass cartridges forbidden in civilized warfare shows that we are fighting a barbarous lot of savages.

Murder is running rank at the Nation's capital two horrible crimes of this grade were perpetrated there last week within 48 hours.

Dinkelspiel suggests that the cork in that Santiago bottle might make a good life preserver with which to float a Spanish loan.

The bulletin board strategists are brushing their shoes, and with fan and umbrella may be expected to indulge in mind reading about Santiago.

The British battle ship "Illustrious" has gone to Lisbon the capital of Portugal, to protect British interests there in view of possible war developments. This looks like some one thought somebody was going to carry the war into Spain.

The Rough Riders commanded by Roosevelt have been tried and not found wanting. In the first battle in which they participated there were 13 killed and 5 of them came from the Rough Riders.

Among the graduates at Columbia College, of Washington, D. C., this month was Miss Georgia Sanderlin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Sanderlin. Miss Sanderlin spent several years in Raleigh and her hosts of friends here rejoice at her success. There are few North Carolina women who have won degrees at Northern Colleges and the case with which Miss Sanderlin won her "A/B." reflects credit not only upon herself but upon her native State.

It is well that assurances have been made that Hobson and his men are safe and not confined in Morro. Honor, virtue, liberty and justice are safer today in Manila than they have been for three hundred years.

Great care should be taken by our people in what they eat and drink during the heated term. Too much ice water is dangerous.

It is strange that the citizens of Raleigh are so loath to fly the national colors. Richmond, Atlanta and other Southern cities are resplendent with flags.

Hang out the stars and stripes on the outer walls of your factories, business houses, offices, stores, shops and homes people of Raleigh! Do not hold back when the sister cities of the South are displaying their patriotism.

While Spanish newspapers are describing which of and how Admiral Dewey's ships were so badly damaged they fail to tell the people what became of that Spanish fleet at Manila.

And now Milwaukee, Wis. has declared that married women can not be employed as public school teachers. Milwaukee may know good lager beer and how to make it, but it ought to go out of the school teacher business.

That is a good lesson Aguinaldo is teaching Augustin upon the matter of investigating assassination. Mrs. Augustin and her children are able assistant teacher Aguinaldo, as object lessons.

President has promoted twenty-two privates and non-commissioned officers of the regular army to lieutenancies. In the ranks from beneath the gun and knapsack is the place to look for material for shoulder strap, epaulette and sword adornment. The faster such acts of the commander in chief are reported the better for our army.

A German scientist claims that the memory is stronger in summer than in winter. He says that among the worst foes of the memory are too much food, and too much education. Surely then the Spanish soldiers in Cuba will have made a record in remembering the summer of 1918.

Deep is concerning an "Aunt Sam" who is, however, in no way related to Uncle Sam. "Aunt Sam" is Madame Tiresias Simon Sim, wife of the President of Haiti. She is accompanied on her tour of the continent by her physician, Dr. Nicolas, and twelve black ladies-in-waiting.

Yesterday and today were hours of anxiety to many a mother, wife, sister and sweetheart, whose loved ones are with General Shafter and his army of mission in front of Santiago. But with telegraphic communication restored we will quickly know what our gallant boys are doing. None doubt that they will worthily acquit themselves but there is a fear which fills every heart as we contemplate the cost. How many of the dear brave boys will be left upon the field of conflict? Until the result is known and the lists of killed and wounded are made up the public pulse will beat with unabating interest.

That the Spanish soldier fights at all is mark of his bravery. The poor fellows don't get paid their wages and are only allowed half rations. When Weyler left Cuba the soldiers had not been paid for months, nor have they been paid since and even now if the Spanish government had the means to pay them, there is nothing in the markets of Cuba that they could buy to better their conditions. Certainly when called upon to stand up before a promptly paid, well fed and cared for army the poor Spaniard's courage must dampen and it is but a very short time before the bulk of the Spanish army will force their commanders to surrender to the inevitable. 'Tis a hard thing to fight and die upon an empty stomach.

The present war has given new occasion for glorification on the anniversary of the nation's natal day. It has added new lustre to the flag, given new proof of the patriotism of the people, added fresh glory to the American Navy, and increased the respect of the world for the United States.

Except from a geographical point there is neither North or South, but an universal spirit of patriotic unanimity. All sectional feeling and bitter recollections have vanished in the blood already shed by heroes sacrificed upon the nation's altar for humanity's sake.

It is fitting and timely, now that the national celebration be revived in this Southland with all the ardor and enthusiasm of former times, and that the people North and South unite as patriotic American citizens in making the coming Fourth of July a day of special justification.

The patronage to Cuban summer-resorts upon the coast is exclusively making this season. This is terribly tantalizing to the girls.

Cervera is on the third base and unless he can steal a home run he will surely be put out.

It is predicted by some that on the fall of Santiago, Spain will throw up the sponge and sue for peace. Such might be the result did wise and humane creatures rule the Spaniards, but with such savage butchers as Weyler and Blanco at the reins the natural love of slaughter and bloodshed war is a pleasant pastime while their precious bodies are out of danger. Nothing but absolute rebellion within the home province will cause Weyler to sue for peace and then only to save his own head.

The American taxpayer is a most patriotic and willing subject so long as he can shift the burden of taxation upon the consumer of the commodities he supplies. The brewer and tobacco manufacturer cry out to the retail dealer to make the drinker and smoker pay the tax. The stamp tax, however, can not be so readily pushed aside upon a third or second party. The inheritance tax cannot indirectly be disposed of so of course stamp and inheritance taxes are loudly denounced as iniquitous, unjust and outrageous. The result is that we all love to enjoy the dance of patriotism but kick like steers when it comes to paying the bill.

Realizing the frequent unsatisfactory results of war the Queen Regent of Spain has had her jewels and other valuables deposited with family connections in Austria. The good lady has better foresight than her ministry and displayed sound judgment by her acts. But she need have no fear, this is not a war for spoons, jewels or other trinkets of Queens. It is for the suppression of a savage dynasty for humanity, liberty and justice.
