TELEPHONE NO 168

WEDNESDAY July 13, 1898.

SLOWLY BUT SURELY.

More than a month ago, by orders of the War Department, details from the battalions composing the First Regiment N. C. Volunteers at Jacksonville, were sent to this State to obtain recruits for their regiment. At the same time details from the Second Regiment in camp here went throughout the State in search of men wishing to volunteer for service in the ranks. The work of recruiting the two regiments has progressed slowly but surely, and at last the Second Regiment's full quota has been obtained and that organization, though composed of more verdant soldiers is in better shape as for equipment and organization than is the First Regiment.

There are various reasons for this success on the part of the Second Regiment and by no means the least attractive card presented is the fact that the regiment is here on home ground and its future service is yet uncertain. On the other hand the First Regiment is several hundred miles away; is nearer Cuba than North Carolina; is reasonably certain to be called into service with the army of invasion; when the attack on Havana is to be made; and is composed in the majority of well trained soldiers, who, the recruits fear will always have superior positions thus shutting off the avenues of promotion.

The Second Regiment now has more men than it can use, and the First Regiment is in need of about 150 men. Of the two regiments there should be no choice, but the man volunteering at this time and really desiring to see active service in a hot campaign fighting for his nation's honor and for the freedom of an oppressed people would in all probability hear the roar of cannon and the fire of infantry sooner by joining the First Regiment and following General Lee as he leads the Seventh Army Corps.

Those other States which have representative regiments at Jacksonville have completed their work of recruiting and North Carolinians who desire to go to the front, and have nothing of more importance to detain them at home, should rally to the support of the regiment first answering the call and fill its ranks to overflowing.

A STUDY FOR YOUNG MEN.

Young men just entering the battle of life should listen to the advice of those who study the questions which are constantly presenting themselves to business men. There is nothing more necessary for the success of any business than advertising and the young man applying for a position in any establishment should keep himself well posted as to what his employer's rivals are offering to the public and be able to write an attractive and readable "ad." if called upon to do such work. Printers Ink contains the following common sense statement of facts: "There are many clerks employed in stores who are earning small salaries, and who could easily be of more service to their employers and infinitely benefit themselves by being able to write advertisements. "The average business man dislikes to write his advertisements. He leaves it to the last moment, and the work is in many cases done imperfectly. Should one of his clerks be able to relieve him of the responsibility undoubtedly that employe would become more and more of value.

Supposing a man applied for the position of clerk in a store. Would he not be more apt to get the place if he could say to the storekeeper, "I will not only clerk for you, but I will attend to your advertising!"

"A young man has an advantage, because he has a knowledge of the goods and has only to learn how to put his knowledge in readable form. He has but to tell in type what he tells the customer every day. A little careful observation as to what arguments he uses to convince a buyer that this or that is better than what some one else says will enable him to form the ground

FRIENDLY SUGGESTION.

Our dear friend, Dr. Joyful Laughter Ramsey, indulges in one of his old-time lamentations in the last issue of the Bulletin and bemoans the fact that the circulation of this free periodical is so large that he fears many of the eager readers are unable to appreciate or assimilate the valuable information herein set forth. We would suggest to Dr. Ramsey that he furnish the people with some light reading these hot days. Bro. Ramsey, perhaps, interest would be aroused if it were announced that the next Bulletin would contain a few selections as follows: A poem on Spring, by Captain John R. Smith, set to music by Dr. Ramsey himself; an article on "Mumblepeg as a Past Time," by Prof. C. B. Williams; illustrated paper on "The Intellectual Attainments of a Pelican," and "Whales as Pets for Children," by Curator Brimley; "How to Secure Offices," by Prof. W. A. Withers; "Amusing Children," by Prof. Massey; "The Ethics of Chickenhood," by Mr. F. E. Hege; "There's Merit in Kinship," by J. G. Kelly; "How to Cultivate Christian Charity," by Director J. William Bailey, and "Julius Caesar's Mistakes," by Attorney Harris. With such a forecast the Bulletin would not be above the intellectual capacity of the average reader. If North Carolinians in vain strive to master the wisdom contained in this document Dr. Ramsey should simplify his language to suit the benighted ideas of the people. The Bulletin is the official organ of the Agricultural Department, and it causes us pain to learn that the literary efforts of Dr. Ramsey are unappreciated.

THE EVENING NEWSPAPER.

The Boston (Mass.) Transcript presents the following argument in favor of the evening newspaper as an advertising medium:

"The value of the evening newspaper is not exhausted when it has given the news of the hour, or has helped the business man over the tedium of travel from his office to his home. Copies are seldom found littering the seats of steam or electric cars, as it is taken to the household for perusal by the whole family. Of course, the evening is the time when it can be most thoroughly read and discussed. Moreover, so rapid has become every medium of intelligence from world's end to world's end, that the evening paper is more favorably circumstanced than its morning contemporaries for keeping pace with the genuine news of each day. The facilities for extracting the best essence of the world's history for the day, and the world's thought upon passing events, have been brought to such a high state of development that it is enabled to keep even pace with daily events, furnishing a brief resume of such morning news as may have been expanded by other sheets beyond real value and keeping the record clear and unbroken."

Our flag flies over Santiago—in a war balloon. The Times-Visitor is the people's paper—for the price. The elevated car line at the transfer has been abandoned. Another day has passed and the Second Regiment is still with us. Durham for once can boast of something Raleigh has not—small pox. Anyone can now speak broken Spanish. Just talk about Cervera's fleet. "On to Havana" is the sign that greets you near a popular cigar stand. "Tomorrow never comes" seems to apply in reference to the plans of the army. Perhaps emptying that Santiago bottle caused Admiral Sampson's head to turn. There's a Raleigh grocer who claims that his clerks are not as fresh as his eggs. If this country is going to acquire territory by this war, why not annex Spain? Walter R. Henry narrowly escaped being recommended for a position in the Philippines. Some people want to "stamp tacks" all over the men who construed the war revenue bill. The boys in Cuba would appreciate this cold spell. Reports say it's quite warm in Santiago. Uncle Sam is about to issue a second edition of walking papers to Spaniards at Santiago. In the absence of porcelain bath tubs the city has tendered to the Second Regiment the pool at Pullen Park. The Second Regiment is now full—Today for the first time this was made public but it has often been hinted at. Maybe the Second Regiment will quote to the First Regiment that old familiar adage "Last but not least."

All sorts of precautions are being taken to prevent attacks by the Spaniards. The Klondike is being mined. Yesterday wasn't pay day with the Second Regiment. No one realizes this more forcibly than the soldier boys and their creditors.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE. The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Blisters, Itches, Chapped Hands, and all positively cures Piles, or no cure required. It is guaranteed to give relief.

The following entirely original paragraph was inspired by an entirely original idea conceived by the editor of the Newbern Journal:

"What has Admiral Cervera and the other Spaniards done that they should be sent to Raleigh for confinement? This was supposed to be a war for humanity's sake, yet it is suggested that the above Spanish officials be sent to Raleigh while in this country!"

Raleigh would welcome Admiral Cervera. The citizens of Carolina's capital honor brave men and doubtless James City and its suburb across the river would send a large excursion here to see the distinguished Admiral. Thus he might be punished.

Richard Harding Davis says the army at Santiago is in need of mules. Perhaps Mr. Harding's services would be accepted if another animal was needed.

Admiral Sampson's official report of the destruction of Cervera's fleet contains 12,000 words. It is entirely probable that Schley occurs more than once.

All reports to the contrary notwithstanding cable communication between the Progressive Farmer and Biblical Recorder is uninterrupted.

For the benefit of our lady readers it might be well to state that Mr. Charles Dana Gibson is not illustrating the war stories of Mr. Richard Harding Davis.

Solicitor Pou is making a success as recruiting officer for the Wake County Chain Gang. During the absence of a medical officer, Judge Bryan is making the physical examinations. Few are rejected.

An up-to-date Raleigh grocer is advertising "Dewey flour," a saloon is offering "Schley fizz," but they are both out-classed by a negro butcher, who, in his patriotism, forgot himself and has a sign by his stall "Mill Deweyed Meats."

Testimonials as to the efficacy of SIMPSON'S ECZEMA OINTMENT IN THE TREATMENT OF NASAL CATARRH.

EL DORADO, N. C., June 1, 1898. MR. WM. SIMPSON, DEAR SIR:—You know I thought my wife incurable, having suffered long of Catarrh, roaring of the head, and bronchial trouble. I tried several physicians with little or no benefit, but since using your Catarrh Remedy she is almost entirely well. I can safely say that it is the best remedy for Catarrh and other diseases of like nature known to me, and I wish every sufferer of such troubles knew of its efficacy. I shall not fail to keep it in my house. Respectfully, A. M. PAGE
