President McKinley's Review of Returned Heroes

A GREAT RECEPTION

The President Uses His Hat to Catch a Bouquet From a Soldier.—McKinley is coming to the South Shortly.

Washington, Sept. 10.—To those who have never seen a great enthusiastic crowd in a great city the scenes on the Avenues in Washington yesterday would have been most interesting. Early in the morning, some hours before the usual breakfast time, the people began to flock towards the thoroughfares through which the returned District of Columbia Volunteers would march and in the streets near the White House, where the President was to review the men who had fought at Santiago, was an immense surging mass of humanity, a jolly crowd, to express it better, it was a Washington Holiday crowd, different in every way from holiday crowds in other cities, for here everyone is in good humor on holidays and this is caused by the facts that holidays come oftener here and the people learn how to use them, in fact they are required to make the fete days a success. In the morning papers it had been announced that the regiment would arrive shortly after noon and at that hour the popular Pennsylvania Avenue was jammed with enthusiastic men, women and children each wearing some emblem and among these were interesting Santiago souvenirs. The crowd jostled together as the hours passed and not until nearly four o'clock did the Regimental Band announce the approach of the soldiers. Then it was that the whistles in every factory screamed forth in one accord, the bells from every tower rang out in harmonious sounds and a mad shout from more than fifty thousand throats threw ardor into the inspiring scene.

When the regiment reached the White House, the President, with uncovered head stood on the north portico and as the men passed he saluted every one of them. There was one incident in connection with the review of the troops that especially drew my attention and it made many admirers for the President. It was just after the Colonel, the Majors and the staff officers had passed, everyone was watching the President to see how the scene affected him, and then too, everyone was thinking of the men who just a few months ago passed under the same portico as they were en route to their train to depart for Santiago.

"Here are the men," said some one and then the line of thin and worn soldiers began to pass before the President. He put his silk hat on his head that both might be free and setting the example for those about him he clapped his hands, and when the crowd around the Commander in Chief followed his example he turned about for a moment to say "Good work. Keep it up." Occasionally the noise would die down, but the President would start it up again by rapping on his "beaver," and more than once he appealed to the newspaper men about him, "Keep it up." Once as the sick were passing in the grandest equipages belonging to any of the citizens of Washington the crowd saw a little fellow in uniform lying with his head on the shoulder of a comrade and the President saw the little man too. He took from his head the silk hat and waved it at the youngster who in acknowledgement threw from the side of the carriage his beautiful bouquet, the kind given to each man in the regiment. Everyone saw the flowers sail into the air, some thought they would strike the President and yet others thought they would fall so far short of the mark that the President would never get them, but they didn't miss them for the President was quick to see them falling and quickly taking his hat from his head again he stretched forth his arm, swung the "stove-pipe" a little below the flowers and amid great applause caught the present in his hat. It was a rich scene and though in a way undignified the good work was accomplished with such grace that the crowd was quick to show its appreciation.

For hours after the review was over the streets were crowded with the happy throng and the men who were not fagged out by their long trip from Montauk Point and were well enough to be on the streets were given glorious treatment. The car lines have announced that any soldier wearing his uniform will be allowed to ride free for a month, the drug stores are giving the men drinks free and in a little ways that one would scarcely think of the heroes are being made much of.

Among the crowd at the White House today I found a number of people from North Carolina, and the arrival of them all was Mr. Sam Young, of Raleigh, who was quite fortunate in getting a position within twenty or thirty steps of the President. Like the others from the Old North State, he led the crowd when it came to cheering the heroes. There is little news here now that directly affects North Carolina, unless it be in the fact that it is not improbable that the President will make a visit to Jacksonville to see the Seventh Army Corps, and after seeing the camp and the regiments quartered there, among them the First North Carolina, he will return to Washington through North Carolina. He seems opposed to travelling through North Carolina. He seems opposed to travelling at night and it is therefore a probability that he will make his trip through the State in the day time.

The North Carolinians who live here are making efforts to get leave to go to register that they may get a chance to vote this year. Few have been successful.

The Insurgents Threaten City of Havana

THEY WANT TO ENTER

Greatest Suffering Reported in Cuba—More Troops from Porto Rico—Other Telegraphic News.

By Telegraph to The Times-Visitor.
Havana, Sept. 10.—Ten thousand insurgents under the command of General Mayia Rodriguez and General Diaz have surrounded the city of Havana will attempt to enter the city during the stay of the commissioners here. With them are many concentrados suffering from hunger. Thus far the insurgents have remained several miles from the Spanish lines and threatened no demonstration but persons in authority fear that serious trouble will result if an attempt to enter Havana is made. The insurgents, however, declare their coming is with no war like intention, but they think that they should be allowed to enter Havana peacefully. The greatest suffering is said to exist in the villages throughout the province.

THE DREYFUS MATTER.

By Cable to The Times-Visitor.
Paris, Sept. 10.—There is a lull in the Dreyfus affair. It is believed that the real difficulty in the way of a revision is that the only documents really relied upon are those said to have been obtained illicitly, from the Foreign Embassy. The government is beginning to doubt their authenticity.

THE END IS NEAR.

By Telegraph to The Times-Visitor.
Dedham, Mass., Sept. 10.—Hon. Thos. I. Bayard is a trifle weaker this morning. There is little of his recovery.

The board of county commissioners were unable to complete the hearing of the Raleigh and Gaston tax case today and the matter was continued until next Thursday.

Next Thursday the school for the blind will open. Superintendent Ray expects the largest attendance in the history of the school. He accounts for this largely from the fact that the managers have been better enabled to get the names of children who should attend the school this year than ever before. Four extra coaches will be attached to one train of the Southern Railway to assist in bringing the children here.

ANARCHIST'S CRIME

Empress of Austria Was Assassinated Today

ASSASIN ARRESTED

Empress Elizabeth Was a Distinguished Figure Among the European Royalty—Sketch of Her Life.

By Cable to The Times-Visitor.
Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 10.—The Empress of Austria was assassinated at the hotel Beaurivage, this afternoon by an anarchist who was immediately arrested. He stabbed Her Majesty with a stiletto.

The Empress of Austria, Elizabeth, a daughter of Duke Maximilian, of Bavaria, was married to Francis Joseph I, Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary in 1854. She was the mother of Archduchess Gisela, born 1856, and married Leopold, son of the regent Luitpold, of Bavaria. Archduke Rudolph, late heir apparent, born 1858, died by suicide 1889. He married 1881 Stephann, daughter of the present King of the Belgians. Archduchess Marie, born 1868, married 1890 to Archduke Francis-Salvator of Tuscany.

On February 18, 1853 an attempt was made by an Italian named Libonyi to assassinate Francis Joseph the prime Emperor of Austria and husband of the now assassinated Empress.

The particulars of this assassination have not been made public and there is great excitement prevailing throughout the city of Geneva.

LIEUT. CAMERON PROMOTED.

President Appoints Frank Cameron Captain of Infantry Co. A despatch to General Frances Cameron this morning announced that President McKinley had appointed Lieut. Frank Cameron as captain of a company of infantry. Captain Cameron is now at Montauk Point having served in cavalry throughout the Santiago campaign.

The promotion of Lieut. Cameron is a deserved recognition of merit and his hosts of friends are delighted at his success.

It is a pleasure to state that Capt. Cameron will probably obtain a furlough and visit Raleigh before long, now assassinated Empress.

FELL IN A FIT.

A Negro Caused Excitement in the Capital Square. Today shortly after noon a negro man caused some excitement in the capital square. He was going through the square with a grass blade and axe on his shoulder when he suddenly fell in the walk apparently in a fit. He apparently had several fits. A policeman was summoned and the man was carried to the hospital in an unconscious condition. His name could not be learned and none of the employes about the capital knew him.

STRIKING MOTTO.

Mr. Henry Clark is still holding the fort at the People's Party Headquarters. He has added Coin's Financial School to his extensive library. Over his desk he has the following unique inscription:

"A Unit
Altogether
Again."

THE WEATHER.

For Raleigh and vicinity: Increasing cloudiness, with rain tonight and Sunday.
Weather Conditions.—The storm in the central Gulf remains apparently stationary off the mouth of the Mississippi and has increased somewhat in intensity. Very heavy rains occurred at Port Eads (3.80) and the area of rainfall connected with the storm extends this morning northeast to Atlanta and over Florida. Owing to a slight secondary depression, rain also occurred over Kansas and neighboring States. Elsewhere fair weather continues.

The barometer is remarkably high throughout the north, with highest reported 30.7 inches, at Bismarck, which is unusual for September. The weather also continues quite cool; temperature is below freezing in the northwest, with killing frost at Huron and frost at St. Paul.

Miss Ella McGee has returned from a delightful visit to friends in Virginia. The Times-Visitor would esteem it a favor if subscribers would report any irregularities in receiving their papers to the office. We cannot tell when you miss it unless you notify us.

ENGLAND, FRANCE

French Troops Attempt to Exercise Rights in Soudan

THEY OCCUPY FASHODA

French Troops Attack a Steamer, Sent Up the White Nile by the Natives, Killing Many of the Crew.

By Cable to The Times-Visitor.
Omduman, Sept. 7.—(Delayed)—An important incident occurred this morning. It appears that Khalifa Abdullah, a few days before the arrival of the Anglo-Egyptian army, heard that a force of white men occupied Fashoda, a town on the west bank of the white Nile, and also the capital of a very fertile and densely populated district. Fashoda is about four hundred miles south of Khartoum. Khalifa immediately sent two steamers to investigate the report. One of them returned this morning and surrendered to General Kitchen. The commander of the steamer reported that upon his arrival at Fashoda he found that that place was occupied by a force of whites. Latter they opened a heavy fire on the steamer, which narrowly escaped annihilation. The crew lost many killed and wounded. From the bullets embedded in the hull of the steamer it seems to be certain that the whites are at Fashoda and that they are a force of French troops. The British commander will send a flotilla of gun boats up the White Nile to investigate these affairs. The Anglo-Egyptian cavalry has captured the principal wife of Khalifa and his mother, Osman Digna and Sheikh Eddin were found in extreme destitution on the left bank of the Nile.

London, Sept. 10.—It is believed that the French force at Fashoda was Major Marchand's exploring party. It is not thought that they will be likely claim or exercise any sovereign rights in Soudan in behalf of the Republic of France.

ODD FELLOWS' NEWS

Spicy Notes About the Work of this Order.

On to Boston is the word now: the Sovereigns will meet there on the 19th. The Rebekah will celebrate their anniversary on September the 21st. The Grand Secretary visited part of the lodges in Moore and Montgomery last week. An outfit and supplies have been sent to Statesville for a lodge to be organized next Wednesday. Including the work of instituting at Statesville, the coming week, our Grand Secretary will visit the lodges in that section. We are glad to notice in the last issue of the Orphan Home, the acknowledgement of a nice gift from Ruth Lodge of Raleigh. We anticipated giving our readers the address delivered by Bro. Perrin Busbee before Capital Lodge a few weeks ago, for their enjoyment, but have been unable to get it. Bro. B. is modest. We are glad to note the spirit of revival in all our lodges as well as the encampment. It begins to look like we are going to have something like the old time fires kindled again. Do you stay away from your lodge because some one else attends who you do not like to associate with? If so which of the two do you think is worth the most to the Lodge? If the non attendants would organize themselves into a body and go to one meeting of their lodge they would be surprised to see how easy they could out-vote the regular attendants, who they sometimes accuse of trying to run the lodge on a ring basis. Are we not making a mistake in trying to increase the membership? Certainly, if we can increase by securing men to join who are likely to be of service to the order and to raise its dignity and social standing we ought to do so, but in our eagerness to secure members have we not lost sight of the most valuable object and increased to our own hurt? Verily it were better that our number be small, but of the right kind rather than large and of the wrong kind. It is exceedingly refreshing to have a District Deputy Grand Master, who not only appreciates his position, but is discharging his full duty to the work entrusted to his charge. So thank our Grand Master, and in so thanking him refer to Bro. W. M. Jones, of the 51st district. Bro. Jones not only visits the lodges in his own district but occasionally goes outside and takes other lodges along too. He keeps in touch with his lodges by telephone and knows at every meeting just the condition of things. We quote from a letter written on the 14th inst: "There are still many plenty of work to do, and more will come. The lodge at Stany is getting along very well, as the N. G. pointed out the last evening."

His lodge takes a collection each meeting for the Orphan Home, and last month it amounted to over a hundred dollars. If every district deputy was working as this one does the order would prosper as never before.

"I am too busy." This is an expression oftener used than it should be. It means too much. It is included sometimes to mislead, and so frequent has this been the case that it is rarely accepted as an excuse. Too busy to attend my lodge. How often do we hear this. Busy at what? If it were some other work of love or charity then certainly it is acceptable. If busy at something to help somebody else, something to assist humanity, something to relieve distress, something to enlighten the mind, to enlarge the affection of the human race, then there is a valid excuse for your non attendance on account of being busy. But, being too busy to attend, in nine cases out of ten, is busy for self. Too busy, but can find time to stand around the streets until midnight discussing politics. Criticising somebody, and disparaging others. Find time to shuffle cards, throw dice, shoot billiard balls and maybe get tipsy. Busy for self and self gratification. Too busy to do anything for anybody but self. These considerations apply to other matters beside Lodge matters, too.
