

ROBBED AND SHOT.

Experience of a Young Man in Union County—A Supposed Friend's Desperate Deed.
Special to The Charlotte Observer.
Monroe, Dec. 23.—If the deposition of a man supposed to be dying is true, one of the most bold, and cowardly highway robberies ever heard of occurred today four miles from Monroe. Last night a young man, Lowry, whose parents live in the county south of here, came to Monroe from Alabama, on his way home to spend Christmas. He remained in town last night, and his trunk not having arrived, concluded he would go down to Wingate to see his uncle. As it is only six miles he started to walk. After leaving town he met a young fellow named Nicholson, the two having previously known each other. Nicholson and Lowry, talking in the usual way, walked on together. After a while Nicholson said: "Let's swap guns." Lowry replied all right, and drew his pistol out and handed it to Nicholson to look at. As soon as the latter got the pistol, he jumped in front of the other man, and said, "Damn you, pull off that watch and hand it here." Lowry said, "What do you mean, Bill?" The other replied that he meant to have that watch or kill him, and the watch was handed over. Receiving it, the robber then demanded what money his victim had, and received it, too, $9 or $10. As soon as Nicholson had secured this, he deliberately raised the pistol and shot Lowry. The ball struck the man fair over the heart, but hitting some memorandum books in the vest pocket was deflected to the right. Not being shot down, Lowry wheeled and ran. Nicholson fired again, the ball taking effect in the lower part of the back. One more shot was fired, but the ball went wild, and Lowry continued to run. Reaching a negro house near by, the alarm was given and soon the neighborhood turned out. Nicholson was caught, the watch, a 22-caliber pistol and $9 were found on his person, and this seems to corroborate Lowry's story exactly.

"Joy to the world the Lord is risen; peace on earth, good will to all men."

COME LET'S BE HAPPY.

"Oh that we could be children again just for tonight." We can come very near it, in our feelings, if we will. Oh! the pity, that there should be any sorrow, suffering or unhappiness, in all the world, at this glad time. We can every one do something that will make brighter and happier some poor soul, that is denied the brightness and joy of a cosy, happy home. Your happiness is in doing something to make some one else happy.

If every person in all our city will try hard to make just one other person happy during this merry Christmas time, won't it be one great big (city) family full of joy, peace and pure happiness.

We return to every one our sincere thanks for a most wonderful season, and we wish for all a happy, joyous, merry Christmas, and many merry returns.
