SLEPT UNDER ARMS

Another Figh, at the Church Near Pasig -The Gun Boats Continue to Shell the Jungles-Rough Fighting.

MANILA, March 14.-The march toward Pateros, the second objective point for General Wheaton's flying column, has begun. General Wheaton will not hold his hand until he closes on Malolos, the insurgent capitol. The march on Palnia begun this morning after a driving fight on the left of the church in Pasig. The men had slept under arms ready for instant service. An hour after Scott's battery shelled the woods on the left of Pasig at the church the twenty second regulars were ordered to advance. They swung into line with much alacrity as though they had not had twenty four hours of constant fighting in the roughest country. The rebels met them with repeated volleys, but were answered in short order. In order to save time the troops went on the native roadways. The gun boats shelled the jungles as the troops advanced.

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLI. ANCE IN MUSIC.

Led by Lieut. Dan Godfrey, the Garter King of Band Masters and the Finest

Military Band in the World.
(Washington Times, March 5, '99.)
The British Guards Band, led by the redoubtable Dan Godfrey, "the Garter King of English bandmasters," came on direct to Washington after arriving in New York by the Lucania yesterday morning. The men presented a fine appearance as they marched up Pennsylvania Avenue in their gorgeous deep scarlet, gold-laced uniforms. Lieutenant Godfrey himself remained in New York. accepting the invitation of the officers of the Seventh Regiment to luncheon. He came on by a later train. The band inaugurates its tour in Washington, and will visit all the principal cites of the United States, and then proceed to Australia. It is the first time that an English military band has been on four in this country.

Speaking of the performance the Times says:

Yesterday's concert certainly established the merit of the British Guards both as ensemble players and as soloists. It also proved Lieutenant Godfrey to be one of the greatest conductors alive. Lieutenant Godfrey has his men well in hand and gets from them the most admirable effects. One can not say of the organization under his direction that the brasses or the reeds or the stringed instruments come out especially, but only that the band deserves the highest praise. It renders its selections as they might be given on a single marvelous musical invention capable of producing a hundred varieties of tone in one well blended and perfectly harmonious chord. Each of the performers appears to de vote all the spirit and feeling to his portion of the whole that might be evinced were he the whole, and the result is notably good.

Reserve seats now on sale at King's and at the box office of the Academy of Music.
