WARM WAVE COMING.

The forecast of the Weather Bureau for Raleigh and vicinity says: Fair tonight and Friday. Warm wave coming.

The high area in the east is now moving slowly southward, while the pressure is falling in the northwest. This arrangement is favorable for the return of warm weather. Generally clear skies prevail in the central valley and east, though cloudy areas remain in the south, with some rain reported in Georgia, Alabama and Florida. West of the Mississippi the temperature is rising with southerly winds.

Outlaw's Bridge, N. C. May 1, 1899. To Whom It May Concern: I have heard Mr. Z. V. Babbitt, give several readings of character from lead pencils, and they were remarkable for their correctness, he claiming that a person's character was shown in the method of pointing a pencil. I regard it as being a remarkable development of the psychometric faculty.

Respectfully, R. G. MAXWELL, Graduate of the American Institute of Phenology, New York City.
