BODY UNCLAIMED.

Body of a Negro Shipped From New York Here.

The body of a negro man S. Jeffries was shipped from New York here by express. It reached this city nearly five days ago, but no one has as yet claimed it. The box was addressed to J. Jeffries, Raleigh, N. C. Since the body remained here unclaimed for it was this morning interred in the Mount Hope cemetery. It is said that J. Jeffries called for the body last week, but as it had not come he said that he could not wait and he did not care whether it ever came or not.

TORNADO STRIKES A TRAIN.

TERRE HAUTE, June 3.—Word has just reached here that a tornado near Waukegan, Ill., struck a train at full speed, and the wind carried five cars out of the train and blew two cars for a distance of sixty feet, with also a good portion of the road bed. Two cars filled with barrels and two with heavy lumber were lifted bodily from the tracks and thrown into the ditch. An empty car was hurled off to the right.

ODD FELLOWS COLUMN.

It begins to look like we are going to have an increase in membership sure enough. Young men, if you ever intend connecting yourself with the order do so now. An opportunity is now offered that has never been offered before and perhaps never will be again. See about it. We are glad to learn that all are well at our Orphan Home. Every Odd Fellow who is at all identified with and ministered in the order takes a deep interest in our Home. The proceedings of the Grand Lodge have been prepared and are in the printers' hands. The Lodges have been very tardy in recommending their deputies under the new system and this will delay the proceedings. We expect to institute new lodges at several places in a short time. Some of the brethren are ranging faithful and efficient help along these lines. If the could only get the brethren to exert themselves in building up their own lodges it would render that our new lodges would be net gain to us. We are pained to announce the death of Mrs. J. J. Jones, beloved wife of our venerable Grand Treasurer, Bro. Jones, of Wilmington. The heartfelt sympathy of every Odd Fellow in North Carolina is extended to Grand Treasurer Jones in this sad affliction. A companionship of over fifty five years has been sadly brought to a close and our beloved Grand Treasurer is left alone. May his strength be sufficient to enable him to bear this sad affliction with patience and fortitude. We shall see now whether the blocks of ten are detrimental to the order or not. Several lodges in the State have decided already to give it a trial. Some of the lodges are considering the matter and do so later if they see that others are benefited. As we said before it can be tried without much risk. If we venture nothing we need not expect to gain much. Now the brethren will have to hustle among their friends or they cannot get them admitted at the low rate. This is rather an amusing conversation, but it carries a lesson with it. Bro. A. B. "Will Grand Secretary, I cannot see why our membership is increasing so fast than it is. Grand Secretary—Perhaps you have not looked into the matter. A. B. Oh, yes, I have, I read your reports every time and that shows. G. S.—But how is it with your lodge is that increasing much? A. B. Well, not much, but it ought to. G. S.—Is not your lodge decreasing instead of increasing? A. B.—I don't know. G. S.—Well, you ought not to permit that. G. S.—I ought not, what do you mean? A. B.—Why it is your business to keep the lodges, alive and moving, that is what you are paid to do. G. S.—Oh, yes, I see, you expect me to preside at all the regular meetings, act as secretary, collect the dues, visit the sick and—be the lodge generally. A. B.—Certainly. G. S.—And what will you do? A. B.—That is not my business. I am too busy. G. S.—But how can I be in one hundred lodges at the same? A. B.—That is not my business. G. S.—I am glad to meet up with a brother who admits it is, not his business to do anything. You are honest; possibly if you would stop criticizing and try to help in doing something to create an interest in your lodge you would be worth something to the order instead of a hindrance to it. Try it and see. We desire to call special attention to the following advertisement taken from the Washington Odd Fellow. Not knowing how to get back has kept thousands out of the order and it is astonishing to know how few can tell you when asked about it.

JAMES A. MOORE, A FREE MAN

Governor Pardoned the Son of Ex-Sheriff Moore.

PATHETIC SCENE

Moore Killed a Negro White Drunk—Two Bad Prisoners Received in the Penitentiary Today.

Yesterday afternoon Governor Russell pardoned James A. Moore, serving a fifteen year sentence in the penitentiary for murder. Seldom has a more touching scene been witnessed at the penitentiary than when ex-Sheriff Moore, father of the man then occupying a felon's cell, arrived at the prison with a pardon for his son in his hand. The scene at the prison may well be imagined. Sheriff Moore, slightly bent with age, his hair long and perfectly white from the snow of seventy four winters, seized his son in his arms and together they wept aloud. The sad sweet joy of the meeting of father and son last evening must have been intensified this morning, when, after nearly three years of separation, the aged mother welcomed her boy back to the dear old home near Louisville. James A. Moore is now about 35 years old. His boyhood was spent in Granville county where his father was once sheriff. However for fifteen years the family has lived in Franklin county. There it was in the campaign of 1894 that James Moore, maddened by whiskey, struck a negro in the head and killed him at a political meeting. He was arrested and tried for his life. He was finally convicted of murder in the second degree. Moore was brought to Raleigh and lodged in the jail here. The case was carried to the Supreme court and the aged parents left no stone unturned to save their son from a felon's cell. However, a new trial was refused and two and a half years Moore was now served on his fifteen year sentence. Sheriff Moore has repeatedly been to Raleigh and plead with Governor Russell for a pardon but in vain until yesterday, Col. J. C. L. Harris and other counsel appeared before His Excellency for the young man. Warden Russell says that Moore's conduct in the prison was very creditable.

MILLER RECEIVED.

This morning Miller and O'Donnell, two Federal prisoners, were received in the State prison to serve the terms of 5 years for the first and 1 year, 10 months and 4 days for the second. Miller was tried at the last term of the Federal court here for robbing the Pittsburg post office, but while his pals, Reed and Wright, got five years each, he was acquitted for lack of sufficient evidence. Miller was re-arrested that afternoon, however, for committing the post office robbery at Murfreesboro. O'Donnell was convicted of the Plymouth robbery. Reed, it will be remembered, escaped from the penitentiary. Miller refuses to give any information about himself.

This saves $55, to the city as the interest on the $3,000 amounted to $105. The city will compel property owners to pay for sidewalks where the city has had to put them down. Mr. W. C. CUBANS ARE CHEATS

Army Board Reports the Claims at Santiago Dishonest

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The war department has made public a general report from Santiago province. It says the true solution of the problem is to give the Cubans work. The army board appointed to examine Cuban claims in the province of Santiago has made its report to the war department and in the report calls the Cubans cruel and cowardly. Ninety five per cent of the claims were considered almost entirely by the most unblushing falsehoods. The most absurd and extravagant demands were made unreasonably, and a crowd of witnesses accompanied us about, ready to swear to any proposition which they deemed necessary to perpetrate and establish the attempted frauds.

He was the third little one to be called from his devoted parents to the brighter realm and the sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. Sanders is profound.

STREET CHATS.

The Auburn Christian church and community enjoyed a delightful picnic at Watt's pond near Auburn yesterday, said Rev. J. L. Foster this morning. "A big crowd was present and all had a fine time." A gentleman walked into the State treasurer's office this morning and impudently inquired of Major Martin: "Why is a bald headed man like a hound?" The Major gave up and his tormentor said: "Why he makes a little hare go a long way." "Did you ever heard of people in this State eating rats?" asked an attendant at the Federal court this morning. "Well there is a negro woman on my farm who is very fond of them and when we have rat killing day she enjoys a big feast." "Yes, I had a delightful trip," replied Rev. Dr. Pittenger this morning, who has just returned from a trip north. "I found the weather rather cold in Glen Cove and New York, but it was very warm in Baltimore when I was there Thursday."

"I am especially anxious to interest my people in their homes," replied Rev. A. L. Betts, to a reporter's inquiry about his work, "therefore I intend to talk on 'Home' at the Swain street mission Sunday afternoon at 4:15." Bro. John Smith, formerly of Eagle Lock, Wake county, but now Principal of the Academy at Forest City, Rutherford county, was in the city today. In speaking of Federal courts Prof. Smith said: "We have a man, Amos Owens by name, at Cherry Mountain, who has been in court so much for moonshining that the fellow has been deprived of all instructions have been given not to drag him into court any more."

"It is to be regretted that the builders of the capitol could not foretell in what direction our city would grow," remarked Mr. John W. Thompson this morning. "Just imagine to how much better advantage the capitol building would appear if the porticoes faced Fayetteville and Halifax instead of Hillsboro and Newbern avenue. But at that time the opinion prevailed that Raleigh would build up east and west instead of South and North." Mr. John E. Ray remarked this morning "There is one innovation which should be introduced here at funerals. There is nothing more harrowing and grating to the pained loved ones than to hear the fall of the sod upon the coffin, just lowered into the grave. The custom, which is practiced in many cities, of lowering the coffin into the grave and leaving the rest to the undertaker should be adopted here, it seems to me. A covering of evergreen can be provided on which the flowers are placed and then, when the grave mound is made, this covering laid over it by the undertaker. This is the custom in Colorado and has since been adopted in Kentucky. There the attendants and pall bearers leave after the coffin is lowered and the religious service concluded."

COURT ADJOURNS.

Federal Court Concludes a Very Heavy Term. The Federal court adjourned this morning having completed all the business before it. Judge Purnell complimented the grand jury on the work of the time indeed this has been an exceptionally business like term. Although there were more cases to be tried than last winter yet the cases were so arranged that the usual large crowd of hangers on was avoided. Judge Purnell is a master on the bench and knows how to safely facilitate business to the advantage of Uncle Sam's pocket. District Attorney Bernard and Assistant Attorney Spears represented the government and the remarkable success of the term is attributable to their work and that of Clerk Fortune and his Assistant Dunowski. The two latter have been exceedingly clever to the newspaper fraternity.
