Father Griffin stood at his side when Sheriff Page said "I come as the law directs to read you the death warrant," and the sheriff proceeded to read:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA. To the Sheriff of Wake County-Greetings:

Whereas, Thomas Jones, charged with murder in the first degree, in a bill indictment found by the grand jury of Wake county, in the Superior court, thereof, was at March, 1900, term thereof, duly tried and convicted of the said crime and the penalty of death adjudged.

And whereas, upon his appeal to the Supreme court it has been decided there is no error in the record of proceedings, and said judgment has been affirmed at February, 1900, term thereof, which, with the opinion, has been certified and been made known to me. Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me by law, I. Daniel L. Russell, Governor of North Carolina, do command you, that on the 31st day of August. A. D., 1900, at the usual place prescribed by law in said county, you proceed to carry said judgment into exsaid Thomas ecution, by hanging the said Th Jones by the neck until he be dead.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set by hand and caused the Great Seal of North Carolina to be fixed. Done in our city of Raleigh, this 4th day of June and in the one hundred and twentyfourth year of our American Independ er, cruel as was the shocking hideousness of the slaying of Iana Wimberly by George Mills, the fiendish, barbarous brutal murder of Ella Jones and her five helpless children by the wretch Tom Jones, marks the darkest page in the history of atrocious crimes in North Carolina.

THE MURDER. However inhuman and barbarous, was the killing of Mahala White by JimBook-

The particulars of Tom Jones' terrible butchery are fresh within the memory of this people. They will forever leave a stain upon the records of Wake county, for the horrible crime was committed within her borders.

But this day, within the common jail closure, the miserable brute paid the penalty of his crime and may he forever be forgotten.

WHY HE KILLED HER.

Neither during his trial or up to the day of his execution did Tom Jones ever make public any excuse for his murder of the Jones woman and her family. However, his attorney, Mr. B. C. Beckwith, says that the murderer told him that the woman was abusing and threatening him and finally reached for the axe but he seized it first and began his terrible butchery.

Jones always denied to Mr. Beckwith that the crime was premeditated and contended that he had no idea of murder when he entered the house. The fact that the woman was in bed when he struck her detracts from the probability of such a story, although Jones' woman's child counsel says that the corroborates the murderer's statement that the unfortunate woman was in the act of rising from the bed when the axe was planted in her breast and that implement used for the butchery belonged to the woman, and was kept by her bedaide.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE CRIME. During the midnight hours the night of March 21, 1900, Thomas Jones, allas Thomas Farrar, alias "Preacher" Jones, without warning to his helpless, unsuspecting victims, hurried into eternity the souls of Ella Jones, Ida Jones, Jesale Jones. Nancy Jones and an unnamed baby, upon its mother's breast.

There were two other little ones, Laura Jones seven years of age, and Sid Jones hardly four years old, who with the six who were murdered, lived in a small log cabin of one room, about a mile beyond the village of Garner, five miles southeast of this city.

On the night of Wednesday, March 21, 1900, Tom Jones, in that locality better known as "Preacher" Jones, who had by Ella Jones been charged with the paternity of her unnamed month-old baby, visited the home of Ella Jones and her seven little ones. But what took place that night between Tom Jones and Ella Jones will never be known. Cloaked beneath the pretence of preaching the word of God to his fellow-creatures, this human fiend stopped not at sending the souls of seven helpless upsuspecting. (Continued on Srd Page.)

Season-Greater Comedy

There is no lack of comedy element in the performance of the Al. G. Field greater minstrel who come to teh Academy of Music Scotember 5th. One naturally expects comedy in a minstrel performance, with all the superb sing-ing and strong- vaudeville features which Al. G. Field has injected into the performance, there is an unusually ample ingredient of comedy. Al. G. Field himself supplies much of this and he is assisted by that always funny young man Arthur Rigby.

Then there is that old favorite Tommy Donnelly and that always welcome visttor Doc Quigley, whose excentric dancing forms an unique part of the performance, with Field, Rigby, Donnelly and Quigley there is never any let up in the fun, they are introduced first As wisitors to the big French carnival "A night in Paris," during the exposition, we see Field and Donnelly again in a ratling funny skit, Rigby in a monologue, which is twentieth century from stem to gudgeon and Quigley is his bets known character aptly discribed as the "Dancing Momus." Then there are Berry and Hughes in a musical act in which music and comedy are blended in just
