The Raleigh Cotton Market Continued Active this Week

FARMERS ABLE TO HOLD

Refuse to Sell for Less Than Ten Cents. Top Crop Predicted. by the Farmers.

The Raleigh cotton market is showing greater activity than in several years, and the farmers are exercising independence, such as was not seen here during the past two seasons. Many of them are refusing to allow their cotton to be touched unless the price is at least ten cents. A reporter on the cotton exchange this morning heard several farmers remark: "You needn't cut my cotton unless it is ten cent: I'm not bound to sell today.

Cotton was slightly off on the market today, bringing from 91/2 to 93/4 cents, and very little was sold, although there were over 400 bales on the Raleigh market today. The farmers were not grumbling at this mar-ket, for the prices here are as high or higher than anywhere in the State, but they are simply unwilling to sell for less than ten cents, and are in a position to hold their cotton.

Three Exchange grocery houses said that numbers of their customers either stored their cotton here in Raleigh or carried it back home.

Yesterday cotton brought ten cents and 460 bales were sold on this mar-

The number of bales sold here this week up to this morning was 1,069

Bales sold from September 1st, 1900, on this market amount to 5,622 bales against 3,512 during the same period last year. As an indication of how the prices run on October 5th, 1900, ten cents was paid, while October, 5, 1899, cotton brought seven cents. The farmers have made more than half a crop, erhaps three-fourths near here, and as the cost of picking and ginning lessened they are in a much better position to hold their crop. TOP CROP.

The Weather Bureau in its bulletins said that there would be no top crop of cotton this year and the farmers seem to hold the same view, but several farmers said today that this warm and being most encouraging accounts weather had brought out signs of a of the interest among the people. They small top crop and contrary to all pre-cedent, with a late fall, they thought a top crop would be made.

PORTO RICO ROMANCE

Miss Edna Waitt, Formerly of Raleigh, to Wed.

Mrs. T. J. Scarlette left this morning for Danville, Va., where she will attend the mariage of a former charming daughter of Kaleigh to a prominent educator of Porto Rico. Next Wednes-day at the home of the bride's father in Danville, Miss Edna Waitt will be BOYS PLAYING AS INDIANS married to Prof. David Skinner, of Porto Rico, and after the ceremony the couple will leave for their far away home in the South.

Miss Waitt is remembered by the young people of Raleigh most pleasantly, having formerly resided here while her father, Capt. George Waitt, was conductor on the Southern Rail-way between Greensboro and Goldsboro. Some years since Captain Waitt moved to Danville, which he now makes his headquarters.

The marriage of Miss Waitt and Prof. Skinner is the result of a pretty romance. After Porto Rico became a possession of this country Uncle Sam arranged for opening schools on the island. Miss Waitt stood an excellent examination and secured one of the appointments as teacher, and went to Porto Rico. While there last year she met Prof. Skinner, who was in charge of one of the schools, and the aftermath of this acquaintance will be his visit to Danville next Wednesday and the ceremony then performed.

Mr. and Mrs. Skinner will have the est wishes of the people of Raleigh.

BURNED AT A STAKE

Eddie McBride Perished at the Hands of Playmates at Trenton.

The Youngsters Ignorantly Attempted to Extinguish the Fire with Gasoline.

By telegraph to The Times. Trenton, Oct. 6 .- Eddie McBride, ged eleven years, was burned to death at a stake by the hands of playmates. After school he played with several companions, dressed as Indians, and their part of the game was to let him escape from the other lads, who impersonated savages of the tribe guarding the prisoner. A big open lot was the scene of the fun, which proved a sad tragedy. The youngsters cut ropes and bound him and started from their mock Indian village. He was caugh and flung to the ground, tied to the stake and the pile lighted. The flames gained too much headway, and the boy tried to put it out, and threw what was supposed to be water on McBride, but it proved to be gasoline. The flames sprang higher with a roar. The boys became scared and ran away Passers-by heard the yells and cut the boy loose, but he was half roasted and unconscious and died before he reached the hospital.
