LONDON, Nov. 3.—The London newspaper today, for the first time. A freight wreck occurred on the make the American elections the leading feature of news. George W. Smalley cables the Times New York that W. R. Hearst, editor of the Journal, is writing sign-ed editorials which, "if they do not appeal for civil war a multitude of ignorant Bryanites think they do."

THEY ARE ALARMED.

The Spectator also appears to pect deep trouble in the United States on election day. It tries to comfort its readers by saying that a serious attempt to prevent the action of the ballot would of course mean civil war, a perception that restrains even the vorst leaders, SCORES BOTH PARTIES, The Saturday Review, however, says there is nothing to choose—between the two parties. The Republicans ob-ject to Croker's appeals to watch the polls, says that paper, because Resublicans tolerate fraud more readily than violence. If Croker uses intimidation in districts where he is weak, adds the keview, there is no doubt that Republican officials will—cheat Democrats where they are strong. The Review understands that fraud and violence are superfluous, as it believes McKinley is sure of
