TWO JNO. C. DREWRY'S

Both Gentlemen in the City, in Points of Similarity

There are two John C. Drewrys in the city today. Both came from Richmond last night. One is our own progressive Mr. John C. Drewry, and the other is Mr. John C. Drewry, of British Columbia. The latter is the guest of the former.

There are so many points of similarity between these two gentlemen that they might imagine they were the same man.

Both are the same age and look alike, although the visiting Drewry has the lighter hair.

By a strange coincidence both are named for their maternal grandfathers, both have a brother named William Drewry, and both lost a brother named James.

The visiting Mr. Drewry's home is at Resound, British Columbia, and he is a large operator in gold, silver and lead mining, and is a prominent man in British Canadian government circles.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Misses Mildred Dertch and Heber Hope Pettit, who have been in the city shopping for the past few days, returned to Goldsboro yesterday afternoon.

Bishop Chesire goes to Greensboro today to visit the Episcopal churches there.

Maj. J. K. St. Clair, who was known here when he was surgeon of the Second North Carolina regiment, has returned from a long stay in the Philippines, and is visiting his family in Greensboro.

Miss Florida C. Wirth, a relative of State Treasurer Worth, was severely injured in a runaway at Wilmington one day this week.

Mrs. J. K. St. Clair, who was known here when he was surgeon of the Second North Carolina regiment, has returned from a long stay in the Philippines, and is visiting his family in Greensboro.

Miss Nellie Grimes has gone to Washington for a visit.

Mr. Daniel Aiken has gone north to purchase a full line of shoes for his new store to be opened here about February first in W. E. Jones' old stand next to Baylin, Pearce and Co.

Among the late arrivals to the Carolina are Rev. Dr. J. D. Huffum, of Henderson; Prof. J. A. Campbell, of Bluff Creek; Mr. H. H. McKeel, and Mr. Candler, of Westboro.

Mr. T. Arlington McKelvie left this morning for Wilmington on account of the illness of Mrs. McKelvie, who is there on a visit. Mr. McKelvie expects to be able to return Monday next.

AT THE CONFERENCE.

The Methodist Conference at Newbern has passed the characters of both Dr. Kilgo and Rev. J. T. Garris. The conference has adopted a resolution endorsing Dr. Kilgo in his administration as president of Trinity College, and expressing its confidence in him. Dr. Kilgo made a speech thanking the conference for the expression.

HOPE ABOUT THE SAME.

Reasonable and Right

If our prices are reasonable, then they are bound to be right. If our merchandise is right, then it is bound to be reasonably priced. Fair pricing is a basic principle in this store. To buy the right thing at the reasonable price is better, far better and more economical than buying the wrong thing at most any old price.

The poorly priced is the meanly made; got a wrong twist in it somewhere, you can depend upon it. When you go to buy oil paintings you don't want to be shown "Tea Store" chromos. When you want good dry goods you don't want to be shown makeshift apologies for good dry goods. We cannot too strongly emphasize the goodness—the reasonableness—of the following items:
