MR. HANNA SPEAKS

Replies to Mr. Clay on the Bill to Grant Subsidies for Ships.

REFLECTION RESENTED

Mr. Hanna Says the Commerce of the Lakes Was Built Up by the Government.

By telegraph to The Times. WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The Senate met at 11 a. m. Interest was centered in Scnator's Hanna's speech on the ship subsidy bill. Mr. Money offered a resolution directing the President to open negotiations Dean Smith. with Great Britain for the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and declaring the sense of the Senate in favor of three

Mr. Hanna at 11:15 o'clock took the floor to begin his speech. Mr. Hanna said the subject was not a new one. It has often been brought to the attention of Congress. The gentleman from Georgia, Mr. Clay, it seemed to him, had taken occasion to question the motives of who had the subject in charge So far as he was concerned, he resented the imputation.

Mr. Clay thought the Seantor was putation of improper motives.

Mr. Hanna believed the gentleman from Georgia meant no reflection on him as a member of the Senate, but he must have overlooked the fact that he (Hanna) was a member of the maritime commission which had investigated the question subsidy.

Mr. Hanna then proceeded to tell how the bill was prepared, the careful investigation into the question, the conflicting interests that had to be consulted, and declared that, as it stood now, the bill measure to build up the merchant marine that could be devised. He described the immense growth of the shipping interests on the great lakes and said it could not have been achieved without the protection afforded that commerce in its infancy by the United States government. The opportunity to engage in that trade was confirmed to citizens of this country and the harbors on the lakes were improved at the expense of the government. As a result more steamers of greater size had been built, and consequently transportation rates had been reduced. What was true of commerce m the lakes would be also true of sim-Har commerce elsewhere. Our ships now carry only nine per cent, or less, of our foreign trade. Early in the century they were carrying more than 70 per Six riders went down in the tangle, and when they were extricated Turville, Aronson and Fisher were found unconscious, Turville returned to the track early this morning and, after failing to keep up with the other, gave up the struggle and quit the race. Aronson informed the referee at one o'clock this morning that he could not continue on account of his injuries. He is suffering from a strained back and internal injuries. Fisher was able to continue. The pace which the riders are now maintaining is slower than last year and at 7 o'clock this morning the leaders were a few laps over 16 miles behind the record. The riders are still in good condition.

At 12 o'clock the score was: Elkes and McFarland, 1,613 miles, 1 lap; Pierce and McEachern, 1.613, 1 lap; Simar and Gougoltz, 1, 613; Stinson and Waller, 1,612, 7 laps: Fisher and Frederick, 1,612, 5 laps; Kaser and Ryser, 1,612, 5 laps: Babcock end Aronson, 1,441, 1 tap; Turville and Babsock and Aronson, and Turville and Gimm resumed riding shortly before 11 o'clock. They retired during the night as a result of injuries received by Aronson and Turville in a "spill," but were induced to re-enter on promise of manaa is to give each team $150.
