SOLDIERS' CHRISTMAS DINNER.

Atlanta, Dec. 15.—Uncle Sam's soldiers at posts and camps in the southeastern states may have the idea that their Thanksgiving dinner was a right satisfiyin' meal, but they haven't really seen anything yet.

On Christmas day, they're actually going to sit down to a repast that would make a gourmet lose face because he hadn't thought up something like it before, the approved menu at headquarters, Fourth Service Command, reveals.

Nor will these fighting men do so badly at breakfast, with their oranges, cereal, fresh milk, hot cakes, bacon, toast, butter, sirup and coffee. And again, lots of folks could do with their supper of cold sliced turkey, potato cakes, cranberry sauce, bread, butter, spice and cocoa.

That is, they can have that for supper if they're not sans appetites after polishing off that Yuletide dinner prepared a la this menu:

- DINNER
- Fresh Fruit Cup
 - Cream of Celery Soup
 - Roast Young Turkey
 - Dressing and Giblet Gravy
 - Cranberry Orange Relish

 - Green Beans Tomatoes

JOBS OPEN TO THOSE FINISHING COURSES

Raleigh, Dec. 16—Director Edward W. Ruggles of the State College Extension Service, said today jobs paying an annual salary of $2,000 to start, with an increase to $2,600 possible within a few months, had been opened to an "unlimited number" of men and women who successfully complete any of the war-work short courses at the college.

The openings are for junior instructors in aircraft mechanics and the work will be in North Carolina, Ruggles said, adding that he was not at liberty to reveal publicly the location of the jobs.

Personal representatives visited the college this week to interview men and women now in the various short courses. A new series of courses, lasting from 10 to 20 weeks and financed by the Federal government, will begin next month.

"My informant said he wanted all the men and women he could get immediately after they have finished one of our courses," Ruggles reported.

The $2,000 salary will begin as soon as the workers are signed up. They will spend three to six months in a course in aircraft mechanics or aircraft engine work, and then three months' study in preparatory teaching. After the preparatory teaching period, they will be eligible for a raise to the $2,600 salary.

Only requirements are mechanical aptitude and completion of one of the State College short courses. A bulletin describing the new series may be secured upon application to Director Ruggles' office. Courses in the series, most of which will start January 18, include aerial bombardment protection, aircraft inspection, architectural and marine drafting, chemical testing and inspection, engineering drawing, engineering fundamentals, fabric inspection and testing, fundamentals of machinery, industrial safety engineering, materials testing and inspection, production supervision, radio communication, surveying and war production engineering and contracting.

Men and women of any age are eligible to apply for the courses. High school graduation is the minimum educational requirement. All expenses of the training except students' subsistence are paid by the Federal government, which began the program nearly two years ago to provide technically-trained workers for jobs vital to the victory effort.

Ruggles emphasized that persons completing successfully any one of the courses are eligible for the lucrative jobs as junior instructors in aircraft mechanics.

Raleigh, Dec. 17.—Seventeen-year-olds may now enlist in the U. S. Marine Corps, it was announced by state headquarters of the Marine Corps Recruiting Service today.

Following President Roosevelt's order of a week ago, freezing enlistment of men of 18 to 8 years of age, the Marine Corps also froze enlistments of 17-year-olds.

But now the ban on the 17-year-old boys has been lifted, and these boys can apply for enlistment at Raleigh, Charlotte, Asheville, Winston-Salem or Greensboro.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

American flyers with the RAF are razing demolition bombs on Nazi cities today. These instruments of destruction so important in razing Nazi war plants, interrupting railroad transportation and other war objectives, range now unto several tons.

The 500-pound demolition Bomb is one of the lighter ones. Bands are attached to facilitate handling and the fns are not attached until the Bomb reaches the airfield, because bending would injure accuracy. They cost up to $500. Your purchase of War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan will help provide Bombs for our airman. Let's "Top that Ten Percent."

U. S. Treasury Department

By preventing purchasers of new electric motors from buying motors with more horse power than their work requires, the Government will save about 15 million pounds of copper, 55,000 tons of carbon steel, and 150,000 pounds of stainless steel annually.

U. S. Army training and proving grounds are contributing five million pounds of fired cartridge cases a month as copper scrap.
