The youngsters father received $5.00 in War stamps from the Carlton as a Christmas present, with this $5.00 and the money his friends gave him, the child had enough money to purchase the $25.00 bond.

This should be a lesson to some of us older persons who are not willing to have ten per cent taken out of pay for War bonds. Let us make all of Cherryville as 100 per cent War bond town.

In obtaining the allotment or gratuity there must be absolute proof of the right to it, the wife riage record and affidavit showing that she was the wife of the man at the date of missing or dead. The wife or widow is the natural beneficiary and the first to receive consideration. If there is no widow then the minor children receive the gratuity, and after that any other dependent relative who may have been prechildren receive the gratuity, and after that any other dependent relative who may have been previously designated by the soldier or officer as the beneficiary.
