SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD By MRS. CATHERINE COOPER EDWARDS, Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

VANDALISM AT THE MOVIES

Some time ago we wrote about juvenile vandalism in theatres, pointing out that even an ordinarily well-behaved boy or girl might get caught up in the destructive mood of his age mates and do things he wouldn't think of doing by himself. Sometimes, too, he contributes unwittingly to hoodlumism by laughing at the antics of bolder boys and girls who are actually doing the damage, since these exhibitionists want an audience more than anything else.

We suggest at the time that you use the parental control for which theatre managers were rightfully clamoring. That is, check up on your child's behavior at the movies and if it was unsatisfactory begin a course of instruction, not only in how to conduct oneself in public places, but in how to get the most enjoyment out of the films. For we contend that a person, young or old, who is absorbed in a good film, who is tempted by the further excitement of law breaking.

Another theatre manager organized a club of his own for his juvenile audience. He fitted up a room with games, phonographs, radio, and candy and popcorn machines. Here the youngsters are invited to stay as long as they like instead of sitting thru the picture a second time. He also instituted a "court" in his office where offenders are brought instead of being turned over to the police. He makes friends with the children, explaining how thoughtless and destructive behavior is unpatriotic, that every gadget of war which has to be replaced takes material and labor from winning the war.

Launches Drive To Provide Fishing Kits For Oversea Soldiers

To place a fishing kit in the hands of every serviceman overseas who wants to go fishing during time off from active duty is the aim of the International Game Fish Association which is making an appeal for funds for the non-profit manufacture of a pocket-sized kit especially designed for this purpose.

The drive starting August 15th, is being conducted by the Tackle Committee of the International Game Fish Association with headquarters at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City. The American Red Cross has assumed complete distribution of the kits overseas where they will be kept available for use by rotating troops. The kit will be returned to a designated place for use by others.

"Millions of our boys are stationed in places where recreational opportunities are limited. In almost every region in which our boys have been sent," said Michael Lerner, Chairman of Tackle Committee of the International Game Fish Association, and well known sportsman and explorer.

"In this global war our boys find themselves on the world's finest fishing ranges - oceans, lakes, rivers - so keen is their desire to fish during periods of leave from bullets, bombs and barrages they are trying to make fishing hooks out of discarded wire, scraps of metal and even safety pins in order to get a crack at local fishing. We want to make tackle available to them but we need help," Lerner said.

A complete and practical fishing kit has been designed by a group of foremost anglers which is suitable for both salt water and fresh water fishing. The kit consists of two types of lines, assorted hooks, leaders, sinkers, feather, spear, a compact net to obtain bait and printed instructions for their use. The whole thing is encased in a sturdy bag with draw strings and can be carried in the pocket. With it any soldier or sailor can fish any waters.

Each kit costs only $2.00 to manufacture and every dollar contributed will be spent for fishing kits only. Campaign expenses are donated by the Association. Checks should be made payable to Michael Lerner, Chairman, and mailed to the International Game Fish Association at the American Museum of Natural History, Central Park West at 79th Street, New York, N. Y.

"The Association cannot supply enough tackle to dent the overall demand," said Lerner, that's why we are appealing to the general public and sportsmen here at home to help a brother angler overseas. The American public has provided all manner of entertainment for our Armed Forces in this country where the uniform is a passport to ball games, theatres, dance and a home-cooked meal, but what about our boys overseas who are deprived of every day enjoyments. They want fishing tackle and it's up to us to see that they get it."

Mr. Lerner has recently designed, with ex-Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and others, the emergency fishing equipment now standard for lifeboats and life rafts in all the American Service branches. Vice Chairman of the Tackle Committee is Philip Wylie, author of fishing stories.
