MESSAGE BY MACARTHUR

I am writing a very short letter, and even your mother will look away, "Draft Dodger" is it is addressed to you. You feel it easy and so no matter how far in your old home town, you make an easy profit, you So the Draft Board will pay you down.

You never think of the real war. Who leave their home day by day. You just think of the girl friends. That you can get while they are away.

You sit at home and read your paper. You jump and say, "Well, War is just where do you get that WE STUFF?"

This war will be won by men. What do you think, what Draft Dodger?

That this free nation would do. If all the boys were dodgers. And scorned to fight like you.

What would become of this nation. Say, "Draft Dodger" did you. Stop to think of that. Well that is all I have to say except one ever.

Army because quicker we get it. Thing, I'm glad I'm in this nation. War over the quicker we will get to come home and what a Happy day that will be.

RADIN ALUMINUM PLANT CUTS DOWN PRODUCTION

Albemarle, Jan. 5.—Switches were pulled on two pot rooms of the Carolina Aluminum company at Radin Sunday night, in line with WPB orders for a large curtailment in the production of aluminum. One pot room had been

Washington, Jan. 5.—A 1942 statement by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, warning American labor not to be deceived by the American Federation of Labor today— at the height of the controversy stirred by the anonymous article which might have had the effect of giving Hitler some propaganda fuel.

The statements of MacArthur on radio News dispatches from his Southwest Pacific headquarters Jan. 4, 1942, was:

"Labor never has failed the Army of the Nation. May God bless you all for your splendid patriotism."

It was made then in reply to pledges of labor's aid in the war effort by William Green, president, and James Carey of the AFL.

The AFL's monthly magazine, the American Federationist, sent the same statement to telegrams to its offices and newspapers here today, saying it was a basis for an article in the next issue. Neither the date of the statement nor the circumstances evoking it were mentioned.

closed December 21. This, with the stoppage Sunday night means that production of the metal will be lowered approximately 37 per cent resulting in a layoff of some 130 employees of the company.

Officials at Radin indicated that a minor and allied reason for the cut is the coal shortage, pointing out that much of the power used at Radin and at other plants is steam generated, some suddenly and it is impossible to know just what may occur in the future.

Two Short Courses At State College

RALEIGH, Jan. 5.—Two short courses designed to train men and women for positions in war industries will begin at State College January 17. It was announced today by Director Edward W. Ruggles of Engineering Science Management War Training at the College.

Sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education, courses on aircraft inspection and architectural and marine drafting will be taught to students from all parts of the state, who may enroll for these subjects at the College. Students must have a high school education or the equivalent in practical experience. The Federal Government pays all costs except for room, board and textbooks. Mr. Ruggles estimates that the expense per student for a 12 week course will be from $80 to 120.

The course on aircraft inspection involves the study and practice of engineering drawing and blueprint reading; the study and execution of aircraft welding; a brief discussion on the theory of airplane design and aircraft power plants; a detailed study of aircraft materials, processes, and inspection; and a survey of manufacturing procedures.

The study of architectural and marine drafting will include rapid sketching and the translation of these sketches into working drawings. Emphasis will be placed upon construction details, tracing and lettering, and blue printing. The latter half of the course will be devoted principally to marine drafting. Instruction will be given on the physical qualities and uses of the most common materials required in building and engineering construction.

The carefully planned and concentrated courses are designed to give the student the necessary background in essential skills for war work without frills or wasted time, Ruggles said.

Thousands of "graduates" of the courses have been placed in vital industrial positions or given technical assignments in the armed services, he stated.

All applications may be obtained by writing Director Ruggles at State College.

ENEMY PLANES SHOT DOWN IN RAID

South Pacific Amphibious Headquarters, Jan. 4.—Six American fighters in New Year's Day raid against Lakunai airbase at Rabaul, New Britain, bailed out a "Flying Liberator" and Japanese fighters were seen to strafe the men as they went down.

The Americans received some consolation in the fact that 20 enemy planes were shot down in the attack. Six more listed as probables.

In the New Year: We must excel our past. The work of yesterday will not suffice for today or tomorrow. If today demands more than yesterday, we must meet the demand. If tomorrow calls for more than today, we must measure up to the needs of the hour. We must go on for the Lord and the lost. Under the inspiration of the Lord we will go on. In the power of God our work will advance. It is "Higher Ground Ahead."

NEW RULING IS MADE ON SALES TAX DISCOUNT

RALEIGH, Jan. 5.—Revenue Commissioner Edwin Gill said today that merchants are entitled to have the 3 per cent discount for payment of sales tax on time now does not have to claim the discount at the time of making the return.

Heretofore, he said, it was thought that the Revenue department did not have the legal authority to allow discounts unless they were claimed when making the current return. Because of this, he said, numerous merchants failed to get their discounts.

Now, Gill said, after consultation with the attorney general, the revenue department is of the opinion that the discount can be claimed "provided he will do so on a future sales tax return."
Past due credit—for those who were eligible for the 3 per cent discount but who failed to collect it on current returns—can be claimed in a future return, Gill added.
