Important Facts Relating To The Manpower Commission's Employment Stabilization Program—Operation of a Manpower Priorities and Employment Ceiling Plant—Which Became Effective July 1, 1944; All Employers, With One or More, Must Observe These Regulations

Under this new order, vital war activities are assured of workers to meet their production schedules, just as long as workers are available. Conversely, industries and activities which are less essential, or which are non-essential, must realize that it is their responsibility and duty to release all workers possible during this strenuous period. Briefly, the North Carolina Manpower Priorities Plan, effective July 1, provides that: 1. All male workers must be hired through or by arrangement with the United States Employment Service. 2. Employment ceilings are established for ALL employers in North Carolina. 3. Hiring quotas for manpower allowances are established, subject to revision every 60 days. 4. Priority of referral of workers is to be granted to certain firms on the basis of their importance and urgency to the war effort and their need for manpower in order to meet the production schedules. 5. Intensified recruitment programs will be instituted to channel workers from other-than-essential production; and from loose labor market areas to critical labor market areas. Employment ceilings have been established for all employers in all the State, the United States Employment Service of the War Manpower Commission, will under instructions and as far as manpower is available, supply the needs, male and female, of all Class I establishments, those of high urgency, and Class II establishments, those classified as essential or locally needed, up to their established employment ceilings, before making referrals of workers to other than-essential establishments. Under the plan, other-than-essential employers are permitted to hire female workers only within their employment ceilings, and subject to the provisions of this section without referral by the U. S. Employment Service, provided they are hired in accordance with the provisions of the Region IV Employment Stabilization Program. Male workers may be hired only upon referral by or under arrangements with the USES. Other-than-essential employers should realize that they must operate within their established ceilings, with very little chance of replacements, particularly of male workers. They should, therefore, employ every possible means to reduce turnover, and thus stabilize their present employment. Every establishment in North Carolina is to be placed in one of three classes for the purpose of this program. Class I establishments are those engaged in producing essential products or services of high urgency—those need ing workers to produce and to maintain production of vital war goods and services. Class II establishments are those engaged in production of essential products or services embraced in the War Manpower Commission's List of Essential Activities or those which have been designated as "locally needed". In Class III are all establishments not included in Classes I and II. In determining the classification of an establishment and its employment ceilings, the State Manpower Priorities Committee will consider the extent to which the employer has conformed to the following: a. The adherence to requirements and policies of the War Manpower Commission's Employment Stabilization Program. b. The proper utilization of skills through job analysis, transfer, upgrading and effective job methods. c. The utilization of women on all possible jobs. d. The elimination of in-plant causes of turnover, absenteeism, and labor hoarding. e. The maintenance of an adequate training program. f. The maintenance of the War Manpower Commission's minimum wartime work week. Dr. J. S. Dorton, State Manpower Director, is chairman of this committee, other members of which represent the War Production Board, War and Navy Departments, War Food Administration, Selective Service, Office of Price Administration, Office of Defense Transportation, Smaller War Plants Corporation and Aircraft Resources Control Office, with advisory members from the Civil Service Commission and Railroad Retirement Board. This Manpower Priorities Committee is set up on a State-wide basis, rather than on an area basis, as is the case in some states and areas. However, it will meet frequently in the six areas in North Carolina, with the six area directors of the War Manpower Commission, in order to give close attention to the establishments in each of the areas. Employment ceilings—the maximum number of workers a plant may employ—will be determined by the six area directors in their respective areas, upon recommendation of the Manpower Priorities Committee. Here is an important announcement, of particular interest to the employers of North Carolina. In arriving at their employment ceilings, they are to take the numbers of workers employed in their plants as of April 1, 1944, until further notice from the area director. It is possible that certain variations from the figures on workers on that date may be made, but, generally, that will be the basis used in arriving at employment ceilings. A large number of employers, nearly 500 in the State, have been supplying information for a form for the USES offices, known as the "270", from which the employment as of April 1, 1944, will be secured. Other employers will fill out a new short form, known as "106", which will show their employment as of April 1. These figures will be used as a basis for establishing employment ceilings of all firms in the State. Hiring quotas for all establishments in the State, under which firms are allowed to hire

Cherryville Eliminated By Shelby In Play-Off Series; 3 Straight

HAD GOOD TEAM THIS YEAR; WILL HAVE TEAM NEXT SEASON.

"Keep a stout heart in defeat!" This is one of the main points of the American Legion Junior Sportsmanship Code and is one which the members of the Cherryville team and fans of the town might well bear in mind. Shelby let the Cherryville lads down in three straight games and they well deserve the praise and plaudits which go to the victor and in the winning of this series the Cleveland boys will have the privilege of contesting Charlotte, the winner of the Charlotte-Gaston County series. Shelby won the first game of the series which was played in Cherryville Monday by the score of 4 to 0. On Tuesday, the Cherrys journeyed to Shelby and came back with the short end of a 5 to 1 score. The final game, played in Cherryville yesterday, was annexed by the boys from Cleveland by the score of 10 to 2. Pop Simmons' charges really welded wicked willows and were able to bunch their hits to count. "Lady Luck" just seems to have deserted Cherryville in this series and the locals failed to exhibit the fine brand of baseball which they had manifested up to these games. Dixon of Shelby was the star of yesterday's encounter as he banged out a homer with the bases loaded in the sixth inning. Howard Henkle, the Cherrys' ace second sacker also connected to a round trip clout in the eighth inning but there were none on base at the time. The Gaston County team which missed their in the round-robin series defeated the Gastonia City team in the three-out-of-five contests and were thereby pitted against Charlotte. Their ace pitcher, Mason Leeper, was not available for the Charlotte series as he had injured his arm in a game last week and is now recuperating in Florida, attempting to get his ailing arm straightened out for the all-star game in New York which is being sponsored by Esquire magazine. Had Leeper been playing, the Gaston County team's chances would have been greatly enhanced but so goes baseball. Now that the locals are out of the running, Cherryville fans can start thinking about next year and making plans for another Junior team. Although several of the boys who played this year have ended their Junior baseball career, there will be enough returning next year to form a nucleus for another team. All in all, the Cherrys didn't do so badly. They won thirteen out of the eighteen games they played in the round-robin series and in the play-offs and that isn't a bad record. In ringing down the curtain on American Legion Junior baseball in Cherryville, commendations are in order for Coaches Jack Kiser and Floyd Beal and their fine young players and for those members of the American Legion for their enthusiasm and interest in promoting Junior baseball in this community. This oft-quoted poem should be taken to heart by both players and fans now that the season is over: For when the One Great Scorer Comes to write against your name; It's not whether you won or lost But how you played the game.
