Sermon Delivered At Free Sts. Tabernacle

At the Free Saints Tabernacle, Sunday morning, November 18, at 11:00 A. M., the Rev. A. P. Robinson of Charleston, West Virginia brought a special sermon on the subject of: "Where to find God".

He climaxed his remarks by stating "To find God we would have to lose sight of Self and not look to ourselves; but to look within our own hearts where we can know God for ourselves and not another."

He said it was a personal matter to know and understand God aright. We should experience God's love in the soul.

In conclusion he went through a platform demonstration of going backward, then forward, and searching the left of things and exploring the right of things, then in bewilderment concluded that all this performance in the Natural did not find Him.

A choir composed of members from the Cherryville School faculty and friends furnished the music.

The body was laid to rest in the family plot beside that of her deceased husband, beneath a mound of beautiful flowers.

Mrs. Workman was born Feb. 5, 1862, and died December 4, 1945 in the City Hospital in Gastonia.

She was the daughter of Lawson A. and Martha Hoyle Fisher, natives of Catawba county, later moved to Lincoln county.

She attended church and Sunday School at old Bethlehem church, and when she died was the oldest member of the church.

She always loved to tell of the all day Sunday School which she attended in childhood. She joined the church when a young woman.

She married Thomas A. Workman, also of Lincoln county. Later they made their home in Gaston county.

She died at the age of 83 years. Their two children, John H. and Sara E., survive her.

Mrs. Workman was a modest retiring person. She was in word and deed. Her policy was honesty and sincerity.

She helped to make her home a place of joy for her family. During the latter part of her life she was mostly confined to her home on account of physical health.

Only her closest friends know the real worth of her character and her lovely personality.

She was devoted to the ideals of Christian living and practiced them in her home. She loved her church and community. She was a good friend and neighbor.

THE PRICE OF FREEDOM BY BEN GRIFFITH

Day after day they lie there, deep in a foreign sod. Surrounded by their enemy, but safe in the eyes of God.

We are waiting for the Victory for the war God, to have their say.

While out there the soldiers and sailors wait for judgment day. It is said there is a price for freedom, Costing heartaches, blood and tears.

If other things in life is cheap, Why is war so dear? Through out the years They will be there.

They played one minor role, If loving victory was their fate, Then God will take care of their soul.

NOTICE Just a reminder to please get all news copy in not later than Wednesday at 5:00 o'clock.

HUNDREDS SEE ST. NICK LAST FRIDAY

Friday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock the streets were lined with children, women and men, both young and old waiting to give Santa Claus a most loyal and hearty welcome to Cherryville.

This was Santa's first visit on the street and the first time the gayly lighted Christmas lights had been turned on in four years.

Santa arrived on schedule time. He lead the parade on a decorated truck and strewed all day suckers to the children on the streets.

The parade was made up of the Cherryville School Band and started at the Band House on East First Street and as they entered East Main street the lights were turned on up town.

They paraded through town and on to the Post Office where they turned and came back to the square. The band halted at the square and played several appropriate selections, under the able direction of Erskine Carson, the band leader.

After this they marched back through town and disbanded at the band house.

The Cherryville merchants have completed their Christmas decorations and are all set for the Christmas rush.

Christmas time is time for shopping and the merchants are already sharing in the rush season.

The spirit of Christmas in Cherryville is already entrenched.

ORGAN GIVEN GARDNER-WEBB

SHELBY, Dec. 3.—Gift of a 14-rank Pilcher pipe organ, to be installed at once in the E. B. Hamrick building of Gardner-Webb college as a memorial to the late Mrs. Lize Edwarg Morrisett of Winston-Salem, N. C., has been made by her husband, S. W. Morrisett, retired merchant of that place.

Arrangement for gift of the $12,000 organ, now ready for installation, were completed by Mrs. Morrisett during a visit to the school, where his nephew, Dr. Stephen Morrisett, is head of the Religious Education department.

Mrs. Morrisett, who died two months ago, was an aunt of Henry B. Edwards of Shelby.

President Phil Elliott said the gift is the third important donation to come from Winston-Salem friends to the college this autumn, through efforts of Dr. Morrisett, who joined the faculty this year and is intensely interested in the development of the institution.

MISS MARIE MAUNEY BECOMES BRIDE OF EUGENE BOOKOUT

Of cordial interest is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Agnes Marie Mauney and Loyd Eugene Bookout. The ceremony took place at the Unity Baptist Church in Gastonia on Sunday morning, November 25th immediately following the 11:00 o'clock service.

The pastor, Rev. Leslie Bookout, who is an uncle of the groom read the marriage ritual.

Prior to the ceremony the organist, Mrs. George Keller, played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." The Bridal Chorus from Lohegrin was rendered for the professional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the Reception.

Dr. Morrisett, a gifted musician, felt the E. B. Hamrick auditorium ideally constructed to accommodate a pipe organ, and interested his uncle in providing it as a memorial.

The gift comes without any "strings" and thus may be enlarged or moved as needs of the institution require.

President Elliott expressed on behalf of himself, the college, and it's trustees deep appreciation of the gift and of the interest thus manifested the institution.

He feels, he says, that it is a memorial which will contribute to the cultural life of Gardner-Webb and the community it serves.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh Lawn Mowers—Prewar Versus Postwar

Will Curry isn't falling for those pictures of a postwar life of ease. He is sweating over his lawn mower the other day, when somebody shows him pictures of a mower that runs under its own power.

"Shucks," says Will, "I like a lawn mower that gives you some backtalk and exercise. It gets the old blood circulating and works up a wonderful thirst."

"Then," Will adds with zest, "there's nothing in the whole world that tastes as good as a cheerful glass of beer!"

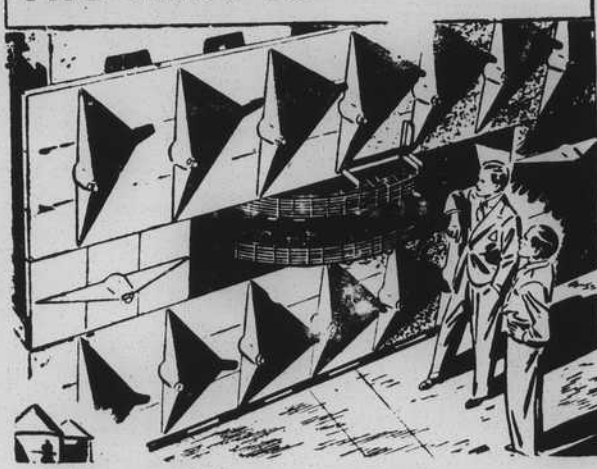

From where I sit, there's a lot of good sense in what Will says. A little honest effort never hurt anybody. And there should be more to our post-war plans than how to make life comfortable and easy.

Outdoor work—work you do with your hands and your back—ought to be part of everybody's post-war plans. And on a hot day, as Will says, there's always that sparkling glass of beer as a reward!
