-: Soil Conservation :-

C. L. Stowe, R-1, Clover, located in the Crowders Creek section and cooperator in Lower Catawba District is realizing the benefits of following a good soil conservation program. In one eleven-acre field Mr. Stowe has been following a two-year rotation system of cotton followed by small grain and lespedeza for the past six years. The lespedeza seed is combined, and the litter turned under before cotton. He planted Coker No. 7, fertilized with 400 lbs. 4-10-6 per acre.

Mr. Stowe had this to say, "I harvested twenty bales off that eleven acres and its the best cotton I ever raised on the farm, and its paying me to turn under everything I can". That's nearly a pretty good sign that conservation farming is profitable farming.

ter. Mr. Carson has a fine young stand of pines planted about five years ago in cooperation with the Soil Conservation District program, that are beginning to show up, some of which are 12-15 ft. high. Planting pines is an excellent way to put loafing land to work producing an income and being an asset to the farm.

Terrace lines were staked recently to be built by the County Terracing units and by farm equipment on the following farms: C. E. Honeycutt, R-3, Gastonia; B. B. Bynum, Aleris; Edgar Abernethy and Dewey O'Daniel, R-1, Stanley; and Shelby and McGinnis farms, Crouse.

Interesting things observed over the county recently—Bert Cloninger getting a good stand of pasture grass on seven acres sown this fall. . . J. G. Jackson, Gastonia, recently ordering 1000 tree seedlings for his farm and setting them himself at the rate 1000 each year for the past three years. . . Spurgeon Webber, Lincoln Academy plowing and dragging up his terraces before winter sets in. . . C. N. Falls, Chapel Grove, already grazing a winter pasture mixture of small grains, ryegrass, and crimson clover, sown early this fall. . . Tom Springs, Mt. Holly, a recent 1200 lbs. of sericea lespedeza seed as a cash crop. . . J. R. Hart, Sandy Plains community, harvesting kutzu seed for planting on his farm.

She—John, you have been calling on me for several months now.
John—Yes, that's right.
She—Well, have you ever thought of me as an income reduction?
