Hickory's Robbins Area's Top Hitter

BY RONALD KISER
Red Robbins, a standout at Morganton, later at Hickory, finished atop the hit parade in Area Four play this season. The red-head garnered 23 hits in 49 trips to the plate for a sizzling .463 mark. Robbins scored nine times, batted in 30 tallies.
Hickory's top hurler, Jack Curtis, actually finished ahead of Robbins but since he had been to bat only 18 times, Robbins was considered the winner. Curtis, who lost his first game of the season last Friday night at Gastonia, hit

STATE COLLEGE HINTS

By RUTH CURRENT
State Home Demonstration Agent

PLAN ONE-DAY CAMPS FOR CHILDREN—A day camp is the answer for thousands of children, with supervised periods of crafts and sports, near the homes of the children. It would be educational and would bring happiness to children.

Provisions for meals and snacks, along with recreational activities, must be planned since outdoor sports create hearty appetites. Here is a guide for snacks and meals at a day camp.

Children should have had a nourishing breakfast. Plans for a mid-morning—cold, fresh or canned fruit juice and crackers. In the afternoon milk or milk drinks may be served with cookies.

One partially hot mid-day meal should be served—from home or at camp.

Miss S. Virginia Wilson, Extension Nutritionist at N. C. State College, will give more suggestions on request.

TIPS FOR HOME SAFETY—An unfringed apron is less of a fire hazard than one with ruffles. Flat pockets on aprons are not as apt to get caught on handles.

Dust cloths that are used for furniture polishing and other household tasks requiring the use of oil, as well as paint cloths, should be placed in a covered jar or metal container when not in use.

While we are between crops, in a sense, we should be thinking of ways to improve our garden soils. Much needed organic matter may be added through the use of stable manures or summer and fall green crops to be turned under. These materials will make heavy soils easier to work and will give sandy soils a better water-holding capacity and along with that, there is the added fertility.

But what I wish to talk about is soil acidity and the use of lime. Many gardeners do not understand the proper use of lime because they do not know the needs of the individual crops. Also, they do not know how acid their soil is. It is foolish to add lime to soil if you do not know that it needs lime or that the crops to be grown require more lime.

Lime reduces soil acidity. Most vegetable crops will thrive in slightly acid (ph 6 to 6.7) soils but there are a number of them that will not thrive at all in very acid (ph 4.5 to 5.0) soils—these are asparagus, spinach, onions, celery, lettuce, beets, muskmelons, cauliflower, broccoli, parsnips, okra and salsify. Crops such as beans, cucumbers, watermelons, corn, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes and tomatoes are quite tolerant of very acid soils—in fact, it is desirable for watermelons. It is also desirable to grow Irish potatoes on quite acid soils in order to prevent the development of potato scab, a serious disease which is made worse by liming the soil.

The soil testing laboratory of the N. C. Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, will test your soil free of charge and tell you how much lime to use. That leaves no excuse for not knowing the correct acidity of your soil. Take samples by slicing the soil with a spade or trowel to a depth of four to six inches. This will give you soil from the top as well as lower down. Thoroughly mix and send about one pint to the laboratory. If your garden is large take samples from more than one location. It is possible that your county agent has equipment for making simple soil tests.
