New Booklet Describes Channels For Trading Abroad

Deciding how and where to sell and buy abroad, the most important problem facing any new world trader, is pointed out in a booklet recently issued by the Department of Commerce, according to an announcement by C. W. Martin, manager of the Charleston Field Office. Designed as an introduction to the techniques of exporting, the new booklet, "Channels for Trading Abroad," is for businessmen who are planning to enter the world trade field for the first time or to expand their trade abroad. The 24-page booklet gives a quick picture of the principal channels through which successful world traders export and import, and directs readers to sources of specific information.

The pamphlet discusses the role of the export merchant, combination export manager, export agent, export commission house, export trade association, large company, and the buyer for export, as well as the several types of company organizations, as U. S. channels for exporting.

The U. S. channels described for importing include the import merchant, indent house, import commission house, resident agent, importing wholesaler or jobber, import broker or factor, and the direct buyer.

and by countries. Thousands of such "trade lists" have been compiled by the Bureau of Foreign Commerce for areas where local conditions and promotion of trade with the United States warrant their preparation. Copies of "Channels for Trading Abroad" may be obtained from the Charleston Field Office, located in the Sergeant Jasper Building, for 25 cents.
